PREFACE.

THE publication of the Revised Version of our English New Testament, in 1881, marked the beginning of a new interest in Bible study. Since that time not only the English, but the Greek and Hebrew have been studied with a zeal quite new. The sources are being more carefully examined to-day than ever before. Students are becoming more and more awake to the great importance of being able to judge of a certain passage for themselves rather than accepting without doubt or question whatever the authorities say in regard to it.

Can anything be done to bring the language of the New Testament within the reach of a larger number of Bible students? Through the great maze of grammatical difficulties that surround the language, can a way be mapped out along which the student may work, and, without sacrificing essentials, gain the same end that usually requires many months of hard study? Can the absolutely essential parts of the language, as used by the New Testament writers, be set forth in small space? This little book is an attempt to answer these questions, and I believe that it lies within the power of the earnest Sunday-school worker or other Bible student to acquire a reading knowledge of New Testament Greek, provided only a substantial part of one's time is thus devoted for a few months.

In my teaching of elementary classes in Garrett Biblical Institute, I have been accustomed to begin my work with the first list of verbs in Bradley and Horswell's New Testament Word Lists, Part I. All of these words occur several hundred times, and furnish the student thus at the very first with a substantial hold on what proves one of the main difficulties in Greek or any other language, - the vocabulary. The work was in part inductive. Those words that presented fewest difficulties of form, and which at the same time were of the most frequent occurrence, were presented first. The second declension was introduced before the first, as being altogether simpler and more easily comprehended by those who had not made the acquaintance of an inflected language. I aimed to keep rare adjectives and tenses of the verb till a later time. The optative mood, which does not occur in the Johannean writings, was omitted entirely from the elementary work. Each lesson was accompanied with illustrative exercises taken as far as possible from the New Testament.

The present volume has grown out of this plan of work. It represents the results of class-room experience. The work has been tried in manuscript form, both with my classes and with private students, and has, therefore, the advantage, so important in this class of books, of having been given a practical test.

Part I. includes the thirty-two lessons, which will afford sufficient preparation for the reading of the Greek, the first letter of John, the Beatitudes and the Lord's Prayer from Matthew, the chapter on the Prodigal Son from Luke, and the thirteenth of First Corinthians. These selections are given in Wescott and Hort's reading and are followed by notes and vocabulary. Of the epistle there is given a translation of three chapters, two literal and one quoted from the Revised Version. This translation may serve for retranslation in case the reading is taken up inductively apart from the lessons. In Part II. are found the essentials of the grammar, embracing, in the first part, the alphabet, table of consonants, vowel and euphonic changes, in the second part, the declension of nouns, pronouns, adjectives, participles, the conjugation of verbs, the optatives of the New Testament, a table of about eighty irregular verbs, and the special study in the classes of verbs and the most common irregular verbs.

In all verbal forms the aim has been to confine the forms given, to New Testament usage. In the third part of the grammar the main features of the syntax are illustrated with quotations from the New Testament Greek. The prepositions also are discussed somewhat and accompanied with sentences illustrating New Testament peculiarities.

I have made the explanations in the lessons so full that much progress may be made by private study, without a teacher. The lessons as arranged represent but one way of applying the Word Lists. The Greek text, the convenient form of declensions and conjugaviii PREFACE.

tions, afford opportunity for the teacher to exercise his own judgment in putting the student in control of the elementary work.

I wish here to acknowledge my great indebtedness to Professors Bradley and Horswell for the use of their Word Lists, which they so very kindly put at my disposal. Without the great labour which they had already performed, my work would have been either impossible or the labour of producing it would have been very greatly increased.

I wish especially to express my great indebtedness to Rev. Charles Horswell, Ph.D., Professor of Hebrew in Garrett Biblical Institute, for invaluable assistance, Without his suggestion the work would not have been begun, nor completed without his encouragement and co-operation. Whatever of merit this little book may have, it owes much to his rare scholarship and his wide experience as a teacher of the New Testament language. For no errors, however, which the work may contain is he at all responsible. For valuable assistance in correction of the proof I have to express my thanks to Mr. E. A. Bechtel, A.M., and Mr. W. W. Bishop, A.M., Instructors in Classics in Northwestern University. The proof has been read, in part, also, by Professor Milton S. Terry, D.D., Garrett Biblical Institute, and by Professor Henry A. Buttz, D.D., Drew Theological Seminary. I owe much to the valuable suggestions of these well-known scholars.

PREFACE TO SECOND EDITION.

ASIDE from the corrections of typographical errors, few changes have been introduced in this new edition. My time since the publication of the book has been so occupied in other lines of study that it has been impossible for me to enlarge certain parts of the grammar which the favourable reception of the work would have warranted.

I am under special obligation to Professor John Humphrey Barbour, Middletown, Conn., who has very kindly gone over the whole work and favoured me with his valuable criticism.

INTRODUCTION.

My purpose is to offer here a few considerations on two questions. 1. Why was the New Testament written in Greek? 2. What are the main points of difference between this Greek and that of the classical period?

Every one knows that Greek was not a native of Palestine, but that in some way this exotic plant found root there, and, to the exclusion of the native language, became the organ of the everlasting Gospel. How then did this occur?

It will first be necessary to understand something about the languages which were used in the countries to the east from the Mediterranean, prior to and contemporary with the advent of the Greek. All of this part of Asia, including the countries from Assyria on the north to Arabia on the south, had one separate and distinct family or branch of languages, — the Semitic. Of this primitive Semitic nothing is left us. Long before the curtain of history rises, the early language had assumed marked grammatical and lexigraphical peculiarities among the various peoples. Accordingly we know nothing of the parent speech except through the tongues of these early nations. The Assyrians (whose language is known from cuneiform inscriptions) and the Aramaeans, who comprised a large part of the population of Assyria and Babylon and to whose language, the Aramaic, we shall refer later, represented the most northern group of the Semitic. South of these we find the Hebrews of Canaan, in whose language the most considerable portion of the Old Testament was written, and akin to them the Phoenicians, whose language is known to us imperfectly and through inscriptions only. Further south the Arabic and Ethiopic make up what is sometimes termed the South Semitic. Of these three groups, the North, the Middle, and the South Semitic, we shall confine our considerations to the first two; for here it is that we have to look for the language of the Jews. Their Hebrew was early exposed to the dialects of the surrounding tribes and especially open to Aramaic influences on the north. Indeed as early as 700 B.C. we read that the messengers of the king Hezekiah requested the ambassador of the king of Assyria to speak to them in Aramaic, "for we understand it" (ii. Kings 18:26). The Jews would not long retain their language in its early purity beside that of another people who, as a conquering nation, were continually insinuating themselves into their life and politics. The result was that long before the breaking up of the Jewish kingdom in 586 B.C., the Hebrew had departed considerably from its original integrity. During the long years of captivity in Babylon and throughout the Babylonian empire, the Aramaic, which was the official language of the Babylonian court, must have become quite as much a part of the Hebrews as their native tongue. The books of the Old Testament written after the exile, Ezra and Daniel, are known as the Aramaic books, owing to the fact that considerable portions of them are in the Aramaic. We must not understand. however, that this large admixture of Aramaic is due wholly to the years of exile in Babylon. It has been the accepted view since the time of Jerome that in this period the Israelites ceased to speak and write Hebrew and turned to the use of the Aramaic only, Hence the term Chaldee, so often used to signify the speech of the Jews, as though the language of the Chaldees - the Aramaic - was introduced into Palestine by the returned exiles, and that subsequent to this the Hebrew died out and the Chaldee or Aramaic took its place. In recent years scholars have generally parted with this view, and have attempted to show that the change was more gradual. This seems by all means the most probable. A people retains its language long after its institutions and customs have ceased to exist. A conquering nation rarely succeeds in supplanting the language of the conquered. Slowly and gradually do the forces work that bring in the elements of a new speech. The English, for example, has not after five centuries entirely displaced the Celtic of Ireland, nor has Welsh ceased to be a very important factor in the literature and life of the United Kingdom, notwithstanding the fact that more than 500 years have passed since Edward built his castles on the Welsh frontier.

We must conclude therefore that for centuries the Aramaic gradually gained in popularity over the Hebrew, until the latter became at last the language of scholars and the learned few, while to the great mass of Jews the Aramaic was the only language known. This change must have occurred before the time of Christ; for we find then that the common people no longer understood the Hebrew of the Scriptures, but used instead versions known as Targums, written in Aramaic. This then is the language of Palestine at the time of Christ, and the same which in the New Testament is called Hebrew.

A great distinction, however, must be made between this Jewish-Aramaic and the Hebrew. The literature of each is sacred, but of the Hebrew we have left us the scant remains of the Old Testament only, while the former has extant a vast literature of the Talmud, Targums, and interpretative works, and has lived on in a more or less changed condition till the present time, and forms the basis of the language much used by the Jews to-day throughout the world.

At the close of the fourth century B.C., Alexander of Macedon crossed the historic Hellespont, overturned the Persian empire at Arbela, destroyed the famous city of ancient Tyre, overran all western Asia, even crossing into Egypt, where he founded the world's new metropolis bearing his own name (332 B.C.). It is hard to measure the results of this conquering of the world. By no means the least important of the many that might be described was the spread of Greek letters and Greek civilization. This noble language of ancient Hellas, so rich and beautiful, so full of power and sweetness, was destined to work far greater results in the minds and hearts of men than the brief rule of Alexander and his successors. They soon passed away, and the Greek kingdom in Asia ceased to exist; but the Greek language which came with them still remained and spread with great rapidity throughout this whole territory, revealing to these Semitic races a new world of beauty and power. Although Greece soon fell under the conquering hand of Rome, Greek art and Greek letters took captive her captor. Rome was then the world, while through all her borders the language of Greece became the speech of trade and intercourse. Greek was even the language of the Roman court, and Roman boys were taught their Homer along with their native Vergil. The wide use of Greek at that period can be best compared with the English of to-day. It may be said with little hesitancy that, at the time of Christ, Greek was known in all parts of the Roman world. What more fitting language than this in which to send forth the Gospel of peace?

In Palestine there was of course a Greek population which existed alongside of the Jewish, and which became more numerous and distinct with the spread of Roman civilization. Of these two languages, Greek and Aramaic, we must suppose that a considerable part of the population knew enough for conversation at least. It is necessary to turn only to Alsace-Lorraine with its French and German, or to Wales with its Welsh and English, to find in modern times such a fusion of two tongues as must have existed in Palestine at the beginning of our era.

The question as to whether Christ and his disciples knew and spoke Greek has been one that has long been debated. Some of the most illustrious of modern critics have been found on either side. It is not for me to enter upon it here, but simply to state my belief. It is more than probable, from what has been stated in regard to the two languages of Palestine at this period, that Greek, as well as Aramaic, must have fallen upon the ears of our Lord and his first followers from their earliest boyhood, and that all of them grew up in continual association with two languages. A few examples of this native speech are left us; Mark 5:41 and Mark 7:34 may be referred to. Instances when we may conclude that Greek was used by Christ are, Mark 7:26, 27, and John 12:23. Matthew, from his duty as a tax-collector, would have required both languages, while Luke, the most cultured of the evangelists, exhibits marked power in his use of Greek. There was but one way of reaching "all nations" and sending to them the new message. There never could have been any doubt in the mind of Luke, Mark, or John regarding the language they should employ in writing their histories of our Lord's life and works. Matthew appears to have written first in the Aramaic, but no doubt followed this immediately with a Greek version. A parallel to this may be observed in the case of the historian Josephus (A.D. 38-103), who wrote his history of the Jews first in Hebrew (Aramaic), and afterwards in Greek. It is not necessary to note concerning Paul that "all who are at Rome" and the "church at Corinth" and "the churches throughout Asia" could have been addressed in no language but the Greek.

A considerable portion of the population at Alexandria was Jews, for whom the Greek had displaced their native Aramaic, and as early as 275 B.C. they had so far forgotten the tongue of their fathers that they required a Greek translation of the Old Testament. This was made at Alexandria by Jewish-Greeks, and is known as the Septuagint or the translation of the LXX. For the Jews scattered throughout the world in Cappadocia, Cyprus, Phrygia, Rhodes, Greece, and Rome the Septuagint became the Bible. So general was its use even in Palestine that the evangelists quote quite as frequently from the Greek version as from the Hebrew. Paul, himself a Hebrew and reared according to the strictest sect of the Pharisees, often agrees more nearly with the Septuagint when he quotes from the Old Testament.

After the fall of Jerusalem the Jewish population of Rome, Alexandria, Antioch, and other seaport towns, rapidly increased. Then, as now, the Jews were a commercial people; Greek was the one language of commercial intercourse. Thus we see this wonderful language served as a common bond to hold together Jew and Gentile, Greek and Roman. Then it was that men were for the first time united by one speech and made, so to speak, into one family. With the overturning of old, worn-out kingdoms, and the breaking down of ancient myth and fable of the pagan world, a new soil was prepared ready for new seed, — the Gospel of love.

Secondly, we come to consider the characteristics of the Greek of the New Testament. Does it differ very widely from classical Greek? To this the answer is "yes," and we may well rejoice that it does. Had the language as used by Plato and Demosthenes become the organ of the new message to the world, how different would have been the effect! Imagine the result if the simple grace of our English Bible were to be replaced by the swelling periods of Milton or Bacon. A far simpler language was and is needed by the lowly, and this we shall see the later Greek to be.

The language of the Macedonian Greeks, which was the same as that carried into Asia by Alexander, was essentially the same as that which Plato, Sophocles, and Demosthenes had used. From this wide diffusion, however, many changes were effected in the grammatical structure of the language, and especially in the vocabulary. Much of the rigidness which had characterized it in the hands of the great Athenian writers was cast aside. The language was popularized, so to speak. This new form of the Greek was called Hellenistic Greek, and the people who learned and used it were known as Hellenists. We have had occasion already to refer to the Hellenistic Jews in Alexandria and other cities.

In Palestine, however, as well as in the other Semitic countries, this Hellenistic Greek was greatly corrupted by the native tongue. Hebrew, Aramaic, and Syriac words were being continually introduced into the Greek. To a large number of people who would use the Greek, it would amount to nothing other than a translation of their native tongue, together with the native idiom. Their thinking was all in Aramaic, while their words were in Greek. The literature of the Hebrew and Aramaic was entirely of a religious nature. The religious fervour of the Jews gave a strong bent to the tone of their language. It was the language of the human heart longing for the kingdom of God and the coming of the Messiah. The words in common. every-day use were the same as those in which had been cast the revelation of God to his chosen people. Even at an early day this must have given a deep religious colouring to the Greek - hitherto a pagan language. The translation, however, of the Old Testament did most to fix the idiom and form of the Greek for the expression of religious ideas. Then it was that Greek meant something to the Jews beyond a convenient means of intercourse for commercial life. For two centuries and a half this Greek Bible worked into the hearts and minds of the dispersed Jews, and the words that before in pagan Greece and Rome had meant little beyond the mortal and perishable of this world, took on a new meaning - fired with the flame of the sacred Hebrew.

When we come to the language of the New Testament, we have crossed a wondrous gulf. To quote from the words of the celebrated Dr. Schaff: "The language of the apostles and evangelists is baptized with the spirit and fire of Christianity, and receives a character altogether peculiar and distinct from secular Greek. . . . The Greek was flexible and elastic enough to admit of a transformation under the inspiring influences of revealed truth. It furnished the flesh and blood for the incarnation of divine ideas. Words in common use among the classics, or in popular intercourse, were clothed with a deeper spiritual significance; they were transplanted from a lower to a higher sphere, from mythology to revelation, from the order of nature to the order of grace, from the realm of sense to the realm of faith." It is worth while to note the word "transformation" in the above. Here is the key to the whole question. How rich this baptism of the pagan words has been may be seen by comparing the New Testament and the classical sense of such words as love, faith, prophet, sin, glory, peace, joy, mercy.

The purity of the New Testament Greek differs very considerably in different authors, and indeed in one and the same writer we can observe two extremes. Luke, for example, in the first four verses of his gospel furnishes a specimen of as pure and elegant Greek as may be found on the page of any classical author. Immediately, however, he drops off into the vernacular, as though aware that he is addressing the many and not the few. In considerable portions of his gospel and the Acts are to be found the harshest Hebraisms. This is especially noticeable when he quotes from the Old Testament. In all the writers of the New Testament, the Hebrew of the Old Testament quotation appears distinctly through the thin veiling of the Greek.

Of the four evangelists Luke was the best educated, and therefore used the purest Greek. Matthew may be placed next, with Mark last. Concerning John, there is great difference of opinion. Some scholars declare his gospel the most thoroughly Hebrew of the four. It is said to have a Hebrew body with a Greek dress. On the other hand, there are those who maintain for him the purest Greek. The fact is, his short sentences would fall naturally into the idiom of almost any language. Paul's Greek exhibits nearly every variety of classic elegance. However, it does not come within the scope of this article to give the peculiarities of the individual authors.

It is necessary to speak more definitely as regards the linguistic differences between the Greek of the New Testament and that of the period of classical Greek, which we may consider to have closed with Aristotle (B.C. 384-322). I. The vocabulary of the New Testament furnishes nearly 900 words that are not found in the classical writers. Many of these occur in subsequent authors, as Polybius and Plutarch and in the Septuagint. 2. Compound words are especially common. Rare combinations are used. The etymology always reveals the force of the expression. 3. What is called the doctrinal sense of certain words, as love, hope, faith, introduces a new element quite distinct from anything earlier.

Grammatically, very wide changes from the classical Greek may be noted. 1. The dual number has disappeared entirely. 2. Adjectives of the third declension in $-\omega_{\nu}$ $(-\bar{\nu}n)$ and $-\nu_{\nu}$ (-us) are especially rare. Of adjectives in $-\eta s$ ($-\bar{e}s$) there are but two or three common examples. 3. The comparison of adjectives has been simplified, and is usually done by the use of an adverb, and the positive degree, except in the case of a few adjectives of irregular comparison.

In the verb a great breaking away from classical usage is seen. 1. The optative mood is comparatively rare. It does not occur at all in the writings of John, and is found in the epistles and the Acts more than in the gospels. Except in the optative of wish or desire, the subjunctive regularly takes the place of this mood. 2. In the uses of the voice and tense the changes are not so marked. In the subjunctive rarely any tense occurs aside from the present and the aorist. 3. It may be observed that in the verbs those in -μι (-mi) tend to break down into the ending in $-\omega$ $(-\bar{\rho})$, while verbs in $-\iota \zeta \omega$ (-ids \bar{o}) are much more common than in other Greek. 4. The forms in -\mu (-mi) in the present system are comparatively rare. Hardly ever does the present subjunctive of these verbs occur, while the second aorist system has few forms in this mood.

The syntax is too difficult a question to discuss here, and so but few points shall be presented. 1. Especially characteristic of New Testament Greek are the various uses of \emph{iva} (\emph{hina}), which in classical Greek is confined for the most part to the introduction of \emph{final} clauses. Of this conjunction there are no less than six well-defined uses in the New Testament. 2. While in classical Greek the conjunction \emph{wore} (\emph{hoste}) is used with either the indicative or infinitive to denote result, and with nearly equal frequency in both constructions, the indicative occurs but twice in the New Testament.

3. The participle still continues a fundamental form of construction, but shows signs of weakening in such instances as John 11:1 and Luke 15:1, where the simple imperfect of the verb would have been expected. This form of expression is most common in Luke.

The prepositions present a great variety of uses not inherent in the Greek word, thus betraying Hebrew influence.

These are only a few of the most marked peculiarities of the language of the New Testament, but perhaps enough to show that it is much weakened and simplified as compared with classical Greek. If one adds to the grammatical peculiarities here mentioned the strong colouring in idiom and vocabulary that arises from the Hebrew, a general notion may be formed as to the structure of this language.

To know thoroughly the real force and value of this language, a wide familiarity with Semitic — especially Hebrew and Aramaic — is indispensable. Not only this, but the investigator must know Latin, of the influence of which I have taken no notice, as well as Greek from its earliest beginning in Homer. Such preparation as this few are able to acquire. A student may, however, gain a very satisfactory facility in handling the New Testament language, who knows nothing of any language except his own. Careful, assiduous labour for a few months will put the average student in control of the essentials, and this slight acquaintance will be found to repay one a thousandfold. No one can ever attain to the ability of reading and understanding the grand simplicity and power of John's brief sentences, ringing as they do with the imperishable grandeur of the Greek, without seeing an entirely new power in the Word. Any translation must ever fall far short of rendering the grace and force of the Greek. As a rose when plucked loses its sweetness and the fragrance is soon blown, so perishes in translation that fleeting, indescribable something that makes Greek the noblest of languages.

The following list of books is recommended as representing perhaps the most helpful works for students of the New Testament Greek. Those marked * are particularly valuable for the beginner.

For assistance in making up this list the author has to express his indebtedness to Professor C. F. Bradley, D.D., Garrett Biblical Institute. He has very kindly given me the benefit of his wide knowledge of New Testament bibliography.

SUGGESTIONS TO THE STUDENT.

- 1. All vocabularies must be thoroughly mastered. Writing the words several times will greatly help to fix them in the mind. Pronouncing the Greek aloud is helpful.
- 2. The acquisition of forms (i.e. declensions and conjugations) must keep pace with the matter of a vocabulary.
- 3. It is recommended that at least thirty lessons be mastered before the reading of the Greek text is attempted.
- 4. Care should be taken in learning points of syntax that occur in the lessons.
- 5. When the text is finally begun, the table of irregular verbs (§ 88) should be committed to memory. Also the verb forms in §§ 90–110 should be carefully studied.
- 6. When the Greek Testament is taken up, the syntax in Part III. may be studied to best advantage. At no time should the student fail to keep up the review of Part II.
- 7. Finally, learn words, words, words. Only steady application and continual review will bring satisfactory results.

PART I. - LESSONS: TEXT

ESSENTIALS OF NEW TESTAMENT GREEK.

LESSON I.

1.

VOCABULARY.

ἀκούω, I hear. γινώσκω, Ι κποτυ. εχω, I have.

θέλω, I wish, will. λέγω, I say. λαλέω, I speak. λαμβάνω, I take.

πιστεύω, I believe. ποιέω, I do, make.

a. Each of these words occurs more than 200 times in the New Testament, and some of them 1500 times.

2. Notes on the Vocabulary.

α. ἀ-κού-ω, ä-kού-ŏ, I hear; cf. ACOUSTIC. $\alpha = a$ in father; $\kappa = \text{hard } c$, as in can; ov is a diphthong composed of o and v (English o and u) and pronounced like ou in group; $\omega = \bar{o}$ in note. The mark (') over the initial vowel of this word is called the breathing. Note the turn from right to left. This is called the smooth breathing, and it does not affect the sound of the vowel. The mark (') over the ov is the acute accent. The ending -ω equals I in English.

b. γι-νώ-σκω, gǐ-nổ-skö, I know. $\gamma = \text{hard } g$, as in get; $\iota = i$ in machine; $\nu = n$; $\sigma = s$. Observe the same accent and on the same syllable as in ἀκούω.

c. ξ - χ w, ξ -chō, I have. $\epsilon = e$ in let; $\chi = ch$, of which there is no equivalent sound in English. It is found in the German buch. Cf. chasm pronounced in a harsh guttural tone. The accent and breathing, when they occur on the same syllable, are written together, as here. All words beginning with a vowel have a breathing mark.

d. $\theta \in \lambda \omega$, the lo, I will or I wish. $\theta = th$ in thin; $\lambda = l$.

e. $\lambda \alpha - \lambda \acute{\epsilon} - \omega$, lä-le-ō, I speak. The accent occurs on what syllable of the verb so far?

f. $\lambda \alpha \mu - \beta \acute{\alpha} - \nu \omega$, läm-bä-nō, I take. $\mu = m$; $\beta = b$.

g. $\lambda \epsilon - \gamma \omega$, le-gō, I say.

- h. $\pi\iota$ -στεύ-ω, pǐ-steú-ō, I believe. $\pi = p$; $\tau = t$; ευ = the diphthong eu in feud. When the accent comes on a diphthong, it is placed over the second vowel, as here. Cf. ἀκούω.
- i. $\pi o \iota \cdot \acute{\epsilon} \omega$, poi- $\acute{\epsilon} \ddot{o}$, I do, or make; cf. POET, POETRY. or is a diphthong pronounced like oi in oil.

3. Topics for study.

a. The vowels in this lesson are $a, \epsilon, \iota, o, v, \omega$. The following diphthongs occur: ov, ϵv , oi. The consonants are: $\beta = b$, $\gamma = g$, $\theta = th$, $\kappa = k$, $\lambda = l$, $\mu = m$, v = n, $\pi = p$, $\sigma = s$, $\tau = t$, $\chi = ch$.

- b. In the matter of the accent of verbs the following must be noted. I. The accent is always recessive, i.e. it goes back as far as possible from the last syllable. 2. The last syllable determines the position of the accent. 3. If the last syllable is long, the accent always occurs on the next to the last syllable—the penult; otherwise on the third syllable—the antepenult. 4. A syllable is long if it has a long vowel or a diphthong in it.
- 4. In English we have the personal pronouns written generally before the verb and always separate from the verb. In Greek, on the contrary, the pronouns are often found as an integral part of the verb, forming what is called the personal endings. Cf. - ω in the verbs given above. In the case of most verbs the ending - $\mu\iota$ of the 1 per. sing. pres. ind. act. is dropped, and the preceding vowel is lengthened in compensation. E.g. the primary form of $\lambda\acute{e}\gamma\omega$ is $\lambda\acute{e}\gamma$ -o- $\mu\iota$, of $\mathring{a}\kappa\acute{o}\acute{u}\omega$ is $\mathring{a}\kappa\acute{o}\acute{v}$ -o- $\mu\iota$: $a\kappa\acute{o}\emph{v}$ = stem, o = variable vowel, $\mu\iota$ = personal ending.

LESSON II.

5. Present Indicative Active.

Sing. Plur.

1. λέγ-ω, I say. 1. λέγ-ο-μεν, we say.

λέγ-εις, ¹ you say.
 λέγ-εις, he, she, or it savs.

2. λέγ-ε-τε, ye say.
3. λέγ-ουσι, they say.

Observe from the translation appended that the indicative mood has in Greek the same declarative force as in English.

- a. ει as in λέγεις is a diphthong and equals ei in height.
- 6. Note in the conjugation of $\lambda \acute{\epsilon} \gamma \omega$: 1. The theme $\lambda \acute{\epsilon} \gamma$ appears unchanged throughout. 2. A vowel occurs after this theme. 3. The vowel is o or ϵ (often written %), called the variable vowel. 4. The variable vowel is followed by an ending, as $-\mu\epsilon\nu$, $-\tau\epsilon$, in the plur, which is called the personal ending. See 4.

How many distinct parts has λέγ-ο-μεν?

7. The personal endings of the active voice, primary 1 tenses, are seen in the following:

8. The variable vowel and the personal end ing may be seen in the following:

o-μւ	ο-μεν
€-$	€-T€
€-OTL	0-VGL

Note that o occurs before $\mu\iota$, $\mu\epsilon\nu$, and $\nu\sigma\iota$, i.e. before μ and ν , ϵ occurring in all other places.

9. Certain changes take place in these primitive forms, which give the following:

-ω, I .	· ομεν, τυε.
-eis, thou.	-€T€ , ye .
-ei, he, she, it.	-ovor, they

These forms must be absolutely mastered.

10.

EXERCISES.

I. Translate into English:

λαμβάνει, ἀκούει, θέλετε.
 πιστεύω, λαμβάνουσι, ἔχουσι, ποιέω.
 λαμβάνετε, θέλεις, πιστεύεις.
 γινώσκεις, ἀκούουσι, ἔχομεν, λέγετε.
 θέλουσι, γινώσκετε, πιστεύομεν, ἀκούεις.
 λαμβάνεις, πιστεύετε, ἀκούει.

II. Translate into Greek:

I. I take, you wish, they know. 2. I have, ye say, they have, we say. 3. You take, he hears, we have. 4. You believe, ye believe, they hear. 5. We know, they know, I say, they do. 6. We wish, we speak, ye do.

Let the student analyze each verb form carefully, pointing out the theme, variable vowel, and the personal ending. Apply also the principles of accent given in 3, δ .

LESSON III.

THE SECOND OR O-DECLENSION.

11.

VOCABULARY.

ἄρτος, bread.
θρόνος, THRONE.
κόσμος, world, COSMIC.
λίθος, stone, LITHOgraphy. λόγος, word, LOGIC.
νόμος, law, economy.
ὄχλος, crowd.
τόπος, blace, TOPOgraphy.

χρόνος, time, CHRONOlogy. ἄγγελος, ANGEL. ἄνθρωπος, man, ANTHROPOlogy ἀπόστολος, APOSTLE. ἔρημος, desert. θάνατος, death, THANATOpsis. κύριος, Lord.

The student should learn thoroughly the meanings of the words in each vocabulary, pronouncing each word aloud, so as to be sure to get the proper accent. The case endings are to be absolutely mastered. Some of the words in this vocabulary occur 1000 times in the New Testament.

a. $\mathring{a}\rho \tau \sigma s$, $\mathring{a}r$ -t $\mathring{\sigma}s$. $\rho = r$; $\sigma = \sigma$ in σn .

b. In ἄγγελος the first γ is pronounced like ng. This is always true of γ when followed by κ , γ , or χ .

c. In $\xi \rho \eta \mu os$, the $\eta = \bar{e}$, and is pronounced like e in they.

d. v in $\kappa v \rho v s = u$. There is no similar sound in English. See § 1. The sound approaches e in key.

This includes all the vowels in Greek.

- 12. It is to be observed: I. All these nouns end in -os. 2. All these nouns belong to the O-declension. 3. They all have the acute accent.
- 13. All nouns in Greek come under one of three declensions, 33 16 and 17. The following is the second or O-declension:

Sing.

Plur.

Nom. Nóyos, a word.

λόνοι, words. Gen. · Nóyou, of a word. λόγων, of words. λόγοις, to or for words.

Dat. λόγω, to or for a word. Acc. Lóyov, a word (obj.). λόγους, words (obj.).

Voc. Lóye, O word. λόγοι, O words.

- a. The ending $-\omega$ in the dat. sing. is for $-\omega$. o is lengthened to ω, and ι (iota) is written underneath. This is called iota-subscript, and can never be wanting in the dat. sing. of this declension.
- 14. Observe from the above that there are five cases in Greek: Nominative, Genitive, Dative, Accusative, Vocative. The nominative equals English nominative; the genitive equals English possessive or the objective with of; the dative corresponds to the English indirect objective, to or for which anything is or is done; the accusative is the English direct objective; the vocative, which is rarely used, is the case of address. Cf. § 21.

15. In verbs we noted that the endings are especially important as showing the person and number. So in nouns also the relation of nouns to each other, and to the other parts of the sentence, is denoted by the case endings. While in English we have to depend (for the most part) on prepositions such as to, for, by, in, at, on, of, etc., to express case relation, the Greek has this relation expressed by the endings of the several cases.

(There are, of course, prepositions in Greek, but these case endings are always observed apart from the prepositions).

16. Observe that the accent on $\lambda \delta \gamma o_S$ remains on the same syllable throughout the declension. This is the fundamental principle of accent in nouns. The accent remains on the same syllable, if possible.

17. Learn the declension of $a\nu\theta\rho\omega\pi\sigma\sigma$, § 23.

a. When the last syllable becomes long, as in the endings -ov, $-\omega$, $-\omega v$, $-o\iota s$, -ovs (3, b, 4), the accent cannot remain on the antepenult, but removes to the penult. Cf. the same principle in verbs, 3, b.

b. Final ω , although a diphthong, is considered short in determining the place of accent in the O-declension.

c. The accent of the nominative must be learned by observation.

EXERCISES.

- I. ἰ ἀποστόλω, θρόνων, νόμον, χρόνοις.
 2. ἄνθρωποι, κόσμου, λόγοι κυρίου.
 3. ὄχλος ἀνθρώπων, νόμω καὶ¹ ὅχλω.
 4. ἀπόστολος λέγει λόγον.
 6. ἀπόστολος λέγει λόγον.
 7. ἄγγελοι ἀκούουσι.
 8. κόσμος πιστεύει.
 9. λαμβάνετε ἄρτον.
 10. ὄχλος γινώσκει.
 11. ἄνθρωποι ἔχουσι νόμους.
- II. I. Of a man, to a throne, words of men.
 Angels and men, to the world, of a desert.
 Death of apostles. 4. He takes a stone.
 Words of man to a world. 6. Ye say to a crowd. 7. We have a place. 8. An angel of (the) Lord. 9. We hear law and believe.
 IO. He has bread for apostles.

LESSON IV.

THE O-DECLENSION CONCLUDED.

19.

VOCABULARY.

άδελφός, brother. ὀφθαλμός, eye, OPHTHALMO-Θεός, God. logy. λαός, people. υἰός, son. νεκρός, deceased, NECROlogy. ὁδός, way.

oupavos, heaven. Soulos, servant.

¹ The acute accent ('), on a final syllable, is changed to the grave (') when other words follow in a sentence.

οίκος, house. ἔργον, work. ἰερόν, temple. ἰμάτιον, garment. παιδίον, little chila. πλοίον, boat. πρόσωπον, face. σάββατον, SABBATH.

τέκνον, child.

20. α. ἀδελφός, ä-děi-phốs. $\delta = d$; $\phi = ph$ in phase. b. In οὐρανός observe that the breathing occurs on the second vowel of the diphthong.

c. The diphthong v_i , as in $v_i o_s$, is pronounced like wee. The breathing is always rough (°), i.e. the explosion of breath is so strong as to give an h sound. v_i is, then, pronounced whee.

d. Note the rough breathing on iμάτιον, hǐ-ma-tǐ-ŏn, and ἱερόν, hǐ-ĕ-ron, δδός, hŏ-dos.

e. at as in $\pi aidiov = ai$ in aisle.

- 21. There are two principal accents in Greek, the acute (') and the circumflex ('). The acute can occur on any one of the last three syllables, while the circumflex can occur on one of the last two.
- 22. Learn the declension of viós, son, § 23, and note that in every gen. and dat. the acute (') is changed to a circumflex (^).
- 23. Learn the declension of $\delta o \hat{v} \lambda o s$, servant, § 23, and observe that the circumflex accent occurs on a long syllable only, and when at the same time the last syllable is short. When the ultima becomes long, the (^) changes to the (').

- 24. Nouns of the O-declension end in $-o_S$ masc. (rarely fem.) and $-o_V$ neut. The inflection of neuter nouns is the same as that of masculine nouns, except that the nom., acc., and voc. sing. end in $-o_V$, and the same cases in the plur. end in $-a_S$. Cf. $\delta \hat{\omega} \rho o_{V_S} gift$, § 33.
- 25. All adjs. in Greek are declined, and agree in gender, number, and case with the words they modify. The definite article the, \dot{o} , is an adj. and is declined; e.g. \dot{o} δοῦλος, the servant; τοῦ δούλου, of the servant; τοῦ τέκνον, the child; τῷ τέκνω, to the child; τὰ τέκνα, the children; τῶν λόγων, of the words. Learn the masc. and neut. (\dot{o} and $\tau \dot{o}$) of the article, § 24.

26. EXERCISES.

- I. τῷ λόγῳ καὶ τοῖς λόγοις.
 2. τῶν δούλων καὶ τῷ παιδίῳ.
 3. τὸ σάββατον τοῖς ἀνθρώποις.
 4. ὁ κύριος τοῦ σαββάτου.
 5. ὁ ἀδελφὸς γινώσκει τὸ τέκνον.
 6. ὁ λαὸς ἔχει τοὺς νόμους.
 7. λαμβάνετε ἄρτον καὶ ἱμάτια.
 8. οἱ ἀπόστολοι ἀκούουσι τῶν παιδίων.
 19. ἐν (in) τῷ ἱερῷ λέγομεν.
 10. τὸν κύριον τοῦ κόσμου γινώσκετε.
- II. I. In $(\hat{\epsilon}\nu)$ the temple and in the boat. 2. To the people and of the people. 3. The eyes of the servant. 4. For the work and for the garments. 5. Ye hear the people. 6. The apostle knows the law. 7. I speak to the servants, and they hear. 8. The Lord has a temple in Heaven. 9. We have the garments for the children. 10. The son of God knows the world.

¹ Verbs of hearing may be followed by the genitive case, as the case of the direct object.

LESSON V.

THE PRESENT PASSIVE INDICATIVE.

VOCABULARY.

άγαπάω, I love. βάλλω, I throw. βλέπω, I see. γράφω, I write, GRAPHic. διδάσκω, I teach, DIDACTic. σώζω, I save.

έγειρω, I raise up. κρίνω, I judge. πέμπω, I send. στέλλω, I send.

- a. In $\sigma\omega\zeta\omega$, save, ζ is a double consonant, ds, and pronounced like dz in adze.
- 28. The passive voice, as in English, represents the subject as being acted upon. The personal endings of the passive distinguish it from the active.

Following are the primary pass. endings:

Sing. I. - $\mu\alpha\iota$, I. - $\mu\epsilon\theta\alpha$, we. 2. - oai, you. 2. -σθε, νε. 3. -таг, he. 3. -vта, they.

- a. The variable vowel % is found as in the active voice. Before μ and ν , o occurs, and before all other endings ϵ is found.
- 29. The following is the conjugation of the pres. pass. ind. of $\lambda \dot{\omega} \omega$, I loose:

Sing. Plur.

- I. λύ-ο-μαι, I am loosed. I. λυ-ό-μεθα, we are loosed.
- 2. λύ-ει, you are loosed. 2. λύ-ε-σθε, ye are loosed.
- 3. λύ-ε-ται, he is loosed. 3. λύ-ο-νται, they are loosed.
- a. Observe that the 2 per. sing. $\lambda \acute{\nu} \epsilon \iota$ is for $\lambda \acute{\nu} \epsilon \sigma a \iota$. σa is dropped, and ϵ and ι form the diphthong $\epsilon \iota$. η may be found instead of $\epsilon \iota$.
- b. The same principle of accent is to be noted as in 3, b. a is considered short in the personal endings, hence the accent occurs on the antepenult.

30. EXERCISES.

Ι. Ι. βάλλει, βάλλεται, πέμπεις, πέμπεισθε. 2. κρίνει, κρίνεται, διδάσκω, διδάσκομαι. 3. λαμβάνετε, λαμβάνεσθε, ἀκούουσι, ἀκούονται. 4. στελλόμεθα, βλέπουσι, γράφομεν. 5. σώζετε, ἐγείρουσι, πιστεύομεν, γράφεται. 6. οἱ ἀνθρωποι κρίνονται. 7. ἐγειρόμεθα εἰς (into) τὸν οὐρανόν. 8. γράφεται ἐν (in) τῷ νόμῳ. 9. ὁ υἱὸς ἀνθρώπου σώζεται. 10. ἐν τῷ ναῷ λέγει καὶ ἀκούεται. 11. οἱ ἀπόστολοι εἰς τὸν κόσμον στέλλονται. 12. πιστεύομεν εἰς (on) τὸν κύριον καὶ σωζόμεθα.

1 Temple.

II. I. He sees and is saved. 2. You believe and are saved. 3. We judge and are judged. 4. They send and are sent. 5. He raises up the dead. 6. It is written in the laws. 7. We see the brethren. 8. The son of man is judged. 9. The Lord hears in the temple. 10. I speak and am heard. 11. We are saved and are raised up into Heaven. 12. Ye take the bread. 13. They know that (571) the Lord saves men.

We have so far met in the vocabularies 52 words, which give more than 400 different forms by their inflection.

LESSON VI.

IMPERFECT INDICATIVE ACTIVE.

31.

VOCABULARY.

ἄγω, lead. βαπτίζω, BAPTIZE. ἐσθίω, eat. ζάω, live. ζητέω, seek. καλέω, call. μαρτυρέω, bear witness, »ΞΑΤΥΥΡ. μέλλω, am about. μένω, remain.

For the tenses of the indicative mood see §§ 50 and 52. The uses and meanings of the various tenses will be explained as we advance.

32. The imperfect indicative represents an act as going on in time past, — continued, accustomed, or repeated action; e.g. $\epsilon \gamma \rho \alpha \phi o \nu$, I was writing; $\epsilon \lambda \nu o \nu$, I was loosing; $\epsilon \beta \dot{\alpha} \pi \tau \iota \zeta \epsilon$, he was baptizing.

33. All active secondary tenses (§ 52) have the same personal endings, as follows:

Sing. I. -ν Plur. I. -μεν
2. -ς 2. -τε
3. none 3. -ν οΓ -σαν

34. The imperfect indicative of λύω:

Sing. Plur.

ἔ-λυ-ο-ν, I was loosing.
 ἔ-λύ-ο-μεν, we were loosing.
 ἔ-λυ-ε-τ, ye were loosing.

3. ε-λυ-ε, he was loosing. ε-λυ-ο-ν, they were loosing.

35. Observe: I. The variable vowel % as in the present tense. 2. The ϵ before the stem λv . This is called augment.

36. The secondary tenses, besides having different endings from the primary, have also an augment. This augment is of two forms. 1. If the verb begins with a consonant, ε is prefixed—syllabic augment. 2. In the case of verbs beginning with a vowel, this vowel is lengthened to the corresponding long vowel (except a gives η)—temporal augment. In diphthongs made with ι the first vowel is lengthened, and ι appears as iota subscript. Other diphthongs do not ordinarily have the augment; e.g. ἀκούω, hear; ἤκουον, I was hearing; ἄγω, lead; ἦγον, I was leading; ἐσθίω, eat; ἤσθιον, I was eating.

EXERCISES.

- Ι. 1. ἔβαλλον, ἔκρινε, ἐγράφετε. 2. ἐκρίνομεν, ἢκούομεν, ἔβλεπον. 3. πιστευόμεθα καὶ ἐγράφομεν. 4. ἤγειρες, ἠσθίετε, ἐγινώσκετε. 5. ἐμένομεν ἐν τῷ πλοίῳ. 6. ἦγες τὰ τέκνα. 7. ἤσθιον τὸν ἄρτον. 8. οἱ ἀπόστολοι ἐβάπτιζον τοὺς ἀνθρώπους. 9. εἶχον ¹ τοὺς δούλους ἐν τῷ οἴκῳ.
- II. I. We were hearing. 2. He was believing. 3. They were taking. 4. You were saying. 5. Ye were beholding. 6. They were raising up. 7. He was judging. 8. I was eating the bread. 9. He was leading the sons of men. 10. We saw the face of the Lord. 11. The God of Heaven saves the children of men. 12. Ye were remaining in the law.

LESSON VII.

IMPERFECT INDICATIVE PASSIVE.

38.

VOCABULARY.

αιτέω, ask for. ἀκολουθέω, follow. γεννάω, beget. δοξάζω, glorify. ἐρωτάω, ask (a question). θεωρέω, see, observe, THEORY. κηρύσσω, preach, announce. τείθω, persuade. πληρόω, fill, PLEnty.

. κράζω, cry.

¹ $\xi \chi \omega$ is an exception to the principle stated in 36, 2, and takes the syllabic augment. $\xi \epsilon \chi \omega \nu$ is contracted to $\epsilon \bar{\iota} \chi \sigma \nu$, § 6, 7.

- a. In $\delta o \xi \acute{a} \zeta \omega$, glorify, occurs the double consonant ξ , from $\kappa + \sigma$, and pronounced like ks in ricks.
- 39. The personal endings in the secondary tenses of the indicative passive are:

Sing.	ī.	-μην	Plur.	I.	-μεθα
	2.	-00		2.	-σθε
	3.	~то		3.	-уто

40. The conjugation of $\lambda \hat{\nu} \omega$ is:

Sing.	Piur.
I. ϵ-λυ-ό-μην, I was being loosed.	Ι. ἐ-λυ-ό-μεθα
2. ϵ-λύ-ου, you were	2. ἐ-λύ-ε-σθε
2. ε-λύ-ε-το. etc.	2. ἐ-λύ-ο-ντο

a. In the 2 per. sing. -εσο changes to -ov, σ drops between the two vowels, and εο contracts to ov, § 5, 7.

Review the present and imperfect indicative active and passive of $\lambda \dot{\nu} \omega$, § 56.

- 41. The personal endings of the verb give us the following:
 - a. The person of the verb.
 - b. The number of the verb.
- c. The tense, whether primary or secondary, and by this whether past or not.
 - d. The voice of the verb.
 - e. The mood to some extent, as we shall see later on.

42. The changes in the endings that are to be particularly noted are:

ACT	IVE.	PASSIVE.
-оµι	= -ω	-εσαι = -ει or -γ
·€0"	= -618	-εσο = -ου
-eo-t	= -eı
·OVCL	ουσι

The importance of mastering the personal endings of the verb, and, indeed, the whole matter of the verb, cannot well be overestimated. It is safe to say that the student who has thoroughly learned the detail of the verb given thus far has mastered the greater part of the difficulty in the regular verb, and has gone far towards gaining a reading knowledge of the New Testament.

The student should now be familiar with more than 800 different forms.

43. EXERCISES.

I. ἤγετο καὶ ἦγε. 2. ἐβαπτίζετο, βαπτίζεται. 3. ἐδιδάσκετο ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ. 4. ἐκρινόμεθα.
5. στέλλεται καὶ ἐστέλλεσθε. 6. ἐσώζου. 7. ἐν τῷ οἴκῳ ἐδοξάζετο. 8. ὁ κύριος ἤκούετο. 9. οὶ ἀπόστολοι εἰς τὸν οὐρανὸν ἔβλεπον. 10. τὰ τέκνα ἔκραζε.¹

II. I. We believed and were saved. 2. Ye were glorified. 3. He was preaching to the men. 4. The son of man was being glorified. 5. I was judging and I was being judged. 6. The world trusted in $(\epsilon i s)$ the Lord. 7. The angel of Heaven was heard. 8. We persuade the sons of men. 9. The law was taught in the temple. 10. The work of man is judged.

LESSON VIII.

FIRST OR A-DECLENSION.

VOCABULARY.

άρχή, ή, beginning, ARCHAIC. γραφή, ή, scripture, writings. έντολή, ή, commandment. ζωή, ή, life, zoölogy. παραβολή, ή, PARABLE. συναγωγή, ή, SYNAGOGUE. φωνή, ή, voice, PHONograph. ψυχή, ή, soul, PSYCHology. άμαρτία, ή, sin.

ἐκκλησία, ή, church; cf. EC-CLESIASTICAL. ¿ξουσία, ή, power.

καρδία, ή, heart; cf. CAR-

DIAC.

ἐπαγγελία, ή, promise.

olkia, n house.

σοφία, ή, wisdom, SOPHistry.

Most of these nouns occur as many as 100 times in the New Testament.

a. ψ in $\psi v \chi \dot{\eta}$, soul, is a double consonant, pronounced like ps in lips. This now gives us all the letters in Greek. Learn the classification of consonants in § 2.

b. Observe the gender of the nouns in the vocabulary In what letters do the nouns end? Cf. §§ 18 and 19.

45. The following paradigms of $\dot{a}\rho\chi\dot{\eta}$ and σοφία will serve as models for the remaining nouns of this form:

	ἀρχή , beginning. Stem αρχᾱ-		σοφία , wisdom . Stem σοφι α -
		Sing.	Plur.	Sing.	Plur.
N	\mathbf{V}_{ℓ}	άρχή	ἀρχαί	σοφία	σοφίαι
	G.	άρχης	ἀρχῶν	σοφίας	σοφιών
	D.	άρχη	άρχαῖς	σοφία	σοφίαις
	A.	ἀρχήν	άρχᾶς	σοφίαν	σοφίας

- 46. Observe: I. The stem ends in \tilde{a} , hence the term A-declension. 2. The case endings are somewhat similar to those already learned in the O-declension: (a) the dat. sing. must have iota-subscript; (b) the acc. sing. ends in $-\nu$; (c) the gen. plur. in $-\omega \nu$; (d) $-\omega \nu$ of the second = -ai of the first, and -ois of the second = -ais of the first. 3. That nouns having $-\eta$ in the nominative retain $-\eta$ throughout the sing., and nouns with ιa in the nominative retain the α in all cases of the sing.
- 47. Nouns that have the acute accent on the last syllable (the ultima) are called oxytones; e.g. ἀρχή, ζωή. Rule of accent: All oxytones of the first and second declerision have the circumflex accent in all genitives and datives.

48. Learn the fem. of the art. $\dot{\eta}$ (§ 24), and compare this with the case endings of $d\rho\chi\dot{\eta}$.

49. EXERCISES.

- Ι. 1. αι άμαρτίαι ἀνθρώπων. 2. ἡ ἐντολὴ ζωῆς. 3. ἡ ἐξουσία τῆς ἐκκλησίας. 4. ὁ κύριος λέγει παραβολήν. 5. ἐντολὴν γράφω. 6. ἐν ἀρχῷ ὁ λόγος ἡκούετο. 7. ὁ ἄχλος τὴν φωνὴν ἤκουε. 8. αι γραφαὶ ἐγράφοντο. 9. οι ἀπόστολοι τὴν ἐπαγγελίαν τοῖς ἀνθρώποις ἔπεμπον. 13. ἐν τῷ κόσμῳ ἡ άμαρτία μένει. 11. τὴν ἐξουσίαν ὁ υίὸς ἀνθρώπου ἔχει. 12. ἡ φωνὴ ἐν τῷ ἐρήμῳ ² ἔκραζε.
- II. I. In the synagogue. 2. In the heart of men. 3. I hear a voice. 4. The soul is saved. 5. The parable was spoken in the temple. 6. He sent the bread of life to men. 7. The church has power. 8. They were speaking a parable in the synagogue. 9. It is written in the scriptures. 10. We have a promise of the Lord. 11. Men preached wisdom to the world. 12. In the beginning we heard the word.

² Ερημος is a fem. noun in -os.

LESSON IX.

50.

VOCABULARY.

άγάπη, ή, love. άλήθεια, ή, truth. βασιλεία, ή, kingdom. γη, ή, earth, GEology. γλώσσα, ή, tongue, GLOSSAry. μαθητής, ό, disciple. δικαιοσύνη, ή, righteousness. δόξα, ή, glory.

ειρήνη, ή, peace. ήμέρα, ή, day, ephemeral. θάλασσα, ή, sea. κεφαλή, ή, head. προφήτης, ό, PROPHET. χαρά, ή, joy.

Most of these nouns occur more than 100 times in the New Testament.

51. The following paradigms furnish models for other nouns of this declension:

δόξα, ή, glory. προφήτης, ό, prophet. Stem δοξā-Stem προφητά-Plur. Sing. Sing. Plur. Ν. V. δόξα Ν. V. δόξαι Ν. προφήτης Ν. V. προφήται G. δόξης G. δοξών G. προφήτου G. προφητών D. Sógn D. δόξαις D. προφήτη D. προφήταις Α. δόξαν Α. δόξας Α. ποοφήτην Α. προφήτας V. προφήτα

52. Learn $\&\rho a$ and $\sigma \circ \phi ia$. § 22.

- 53. Observe: 1. When ϵ , ι , or ρ precedes a of the nom. sing., a is retained throughout the sing.; and when other letters precede a, as in $\delta \delta \xi a$, the a is changed in the gen. and dat. sing. to η . 2. $-a\iota$ of the nom. piur., as in the endings of the verb, is considered short in determining the accent.
- 54. Feminine nouns of the first declension end in \tilde{a} , \tilde{a} , or η ; masculine nouns, in $-\tau\eta\varsigma$ or $\alpha\varsigma$. The gen. of masc. nouns is ov, as in the O-declension. Masc. nouns in $-\tau\eta\varsigma$ have \tilde{a} in the voc. sing.
- a. $\gamma \hat{\eta}$, $\dot{\eta}$, earth, is contracted from $\gamma \epsilon a$, § 6, 6. The circumflex is found throughout.
- 55. The following table shows the case endings of the A-declension:

Fem. Sing.		Masc. Sing.
N.V. ā or ă	η	Ν. α-ς η-ς
G. ā-s or η-s	η-ς	G. a-10 = ov
D. α-ι or η-ι	η-ι	D. ᾱ-ι η-ι
A. ā-v or ă-v	η-ν	Α. α-ν η-ν
		·V. ã ă or ŋ

Masc. and Fem. Plur.

N. V. α-ι
G. ω-ν for α-ων
D. α-ις
A. α-s for α-νς

- 56. Observe that all nouns have the same plural in the first declension. If o be substituted for a in this table of endings, the first declension will be seen to differ but little from the second.
- 57. The following are the principles of nominal accent:
- There are three kinds of accent: the acute the circumflex (^), and the grave (^).
- 2. The acute can occur on any one of the last three syllables; the circumflex on either of the last two; the grave on the last.
- 3. The acute can stand on a syllable either long or short; the circumflex can occur on a long syllable only; i.e. a syllable in which there is a long vowel or a diphthong.
- 4. The accent in the nominative must be learned by observation.
- 5. The accent tends to remain on the same syllable on which it occurs in the nominative.
 - 6. When the ultima is short,
 - a. The antepenult if accented has the acute.
- b. The penult if accented has the acute, unless it be long; in this case the circumflex must occur.
 - c. The ultima if accented must have the acute.
 - 7. When the ultima is long,
 - a. The antepenult cannot be accented.
 - b. The penult if accented must have the acute.
- c. The ultima may have either the acute or the circumflex.

Nouns of the first and second declensions include about seventy-five per cent of the nouns in the New Testament. The importance, therefore, of mastering the vocabularies and forms thus far given can be easily appreciated.

EXERCISES.

Ι. Ι. ἔχομεν εἰρήνην καὶ ἀγάπην. 2. ἀκούομεν ἀπὸ ⁴ τῆς ἀρχῆς. 3. οἱ προφῆται τὴν δόξαν ἔχουσιν. 1 4. ἡ δικαιοσύνη καὶ ἡ ἀλήθεια ἐν τῷ κόσμῷ ἔμενον. 5. ἤκουον τὴν ἀγγέλου φωνήν. 6. ἔλεγε ἐν παραβολαῖς. 7. ὁ προφήτης ἔγραφε τὴν ἐντολήν. 8. τοῖς ἀνθρώποις χαρὰν ἐπέμπετε. 9. ἐν τῷ ἀληθεία μένομεν. 10. τὴν σοφίαν ἐν παραβολαῖς ἐκήρυσσεν. 11. ἐν τῷ γῷ καὶ ἐν τῷ θαλάσση ἐδόξαζες τὸν κύριον. 12. τοῖς μαθηταῖς τοῦ κυρίου πιατεύουσιν. 2

II. I. We remain in the truth. 2. The hour is announced. 3. Ye have joy in your hearts.
4. We see the beginning of righteousness.
5. The way, the truth, and the life. 6. Joy and peace, love and glory. 7. They were remaining in the synagogue. 8. They speak in parables.
9. It is taught in the Scriptures. 10. The kingdom of God and his righteousness.

² The dative often follows $\pi\iota\sigma\tau\epsilon\dot{\nu}\omega$, where our believe requires the objective case with in. See lexicon. ³ Use the article.

LESSON X.

ADJECTIVES OF THE VOWEL DECLENSIONS.

59.

VOCABULARY.

άγαπητός, beloved. ἄλλος, other. alώνιος, eternal; cf. AEON. δίκαιος, righteous. ἐκεῖνος, that one. ἔτερος, another. ἔσχατος, last. ἴδιος, one's own, IDIOM.

μόνος, only, alone, MONOtheism.
οὖτος, this one.
πιστός, faithful.
πρώτος, first.

60. Learn the declension of καλός, good, ἴδιος, one's own, and μικρός, small, little, § 25.

Observe that the masc. and neut. are in the second declension, while the fem. is in the first declension.

- 61. Note that when ι or ρ precedes the final vowel of the stem, as in $l\delta\iota$ 0s and $\mu\iota\kappa\rho$ 0s, the fem. has \tilde{a} in the nom. sing. Cf. 53, 1.
- 62. οὖτος, this one, and ἐκεῖνος, that one, are demonstrative pronouns, but are declined for the most part as adjectives in -ος.
- a. οὖτος refers to somebody or something near at hand or present, while ἐκεῖνος refers to that which is more remote — at a distance.

63. Learn the paradigm of οὖτος, § 26.

Observe: I. The rough breathing of the nom. masc. and fem. sing. and plur. appears in all other forms as τ . 2. The vowel of the penult varies as the vowel in the ultima. 3. The accent remains on the penult.

64. All substantives used with οὖτος and ἐκεῖνος must have the article; e.g. οὖτος ὁ ἄνθρωπος οὖτος, this man. Observe that the pronoun must come before the article or after the nom. This is called the predicate position. Any other position of an adj. would be the attributive position.

65. EXERCISES.

- I. ή ἐσχάτη ἡμέρα. 2. οὖτος ὁ λόγος.
 3. ἐν τῷ οἴκῷ ἐκείνῷ. 4. οἱ δίκαιοι καὶ οἱ κακοὶ κρίνονται. 5. παιδία, ἐσχάτη ὥρα ἐστίν. 6. ἡ ἐντολὴ ζωὴ αἰώνιός ¹ ἐστιν (is). 7. οἱ καλοὶ μόνοι σώζονται. 8. αὕτη ἐστὶ ἡπρώτη καὶ μεγάλη ² ἐντολή. 9. ἐκεῖνος δίκαιός ἐστιν. 10. οἱ ἄλλοι τοὺς νόμους ἐδίδασκον. 11. ἐν ἐκείναις ταῖς ἡμέραις κακοὶ προφῆται ἠκούοντο.
- II. I. The first, last; and the last, first.
 That disciple knows the Scriptures.
 In

¹ An adj. that has the mase, and fem. alike. Such are called adjs. of two endings.

² Great.

the last day. 4. His own (use art. for his) know the truth. 5. These children are saved. 6. This is the work of God. 7. This commandment I write to the brethren. 8. Beloved, we have another promise. 9. On the first day he preached in the synagogue. 10. This one knows the law and the prophets.

LESSON XI.

PERSONAL PRONOUNS AND εἰμί, Ι am.

66.

VOCABULARY.

άγαθός, good. ἄγιος, holy. ἀλλά, conj., but. ἀὐτός, he, himself. γάρ,¹ conj., for. δέ,¹ conj., moreover, but. ἐγώ, I. εἰμί, I am. els, prep., into (with acc.). δλος, whole. ὅτι, conj., because, that. οὐ, οὐκ, ποτηρός, wicked. σύ, thou, you.

Each of the words in this vocabulary, except the adjectives, occurs more than 1000 times in the New Testament.

¹ Words that cannot come first in a sentence are called post-positives. $\gamma \acute{a} \rho$ and $\delta \acute{e}$ are such.

² οὐ before consonants; οὐκ before vowels; οὐχ before the rough breathing.

- 67. The personal pronouns in Greek are: $\dot{\epsilon}\gamma\dot{\omega}$, I; $\sigma\dot{v}$, thou; and $a\dot{v}\tau\dot{o}$, $a\dot{v}\tau\dot{\eta}$, $a\dot{v}\tau\dot{o}$, he, she, it.
- 68. Learn the declension of $\partial \gamma \omega$ and σv , § 40. Observe: I. That the short forms of $\partial \gamma \omega$ in the sing. have no accent. These are enclitics. The meaning of the dissyllabic forms does not differ from the monosyllabic. The former are more emphatic.
- 2. The endings $-\omega v$, $-\omega = \omega v$, and $-\omega v$, $-\alpha s$ are common with the endings of the two declensions. Associate the meaning of $\hat{\nu}\mu\hat{\epsilon}\hat{\iota}s$ with its initial vowel.
- 69. Learn the declension of $a\dot{v}\tau \delta s$, § 26, a. Observe that, except in the forms $a\dot{v}\tau \delta s$, $a\dot{v}\tau \eta$, sing., and $a\dot{v}\tau \delta t$, $a\dot{v}\tau a t$, plur., we have the declension of the article δt with the prefix av.
- 70. Observe the following for the uses of $a \partial \tau \delta s$:
- αὐτὸς ὁ ἄνθρωπος or ὁ ἄνθρωπος αὐτός, the man himself. αὐτός is in the predicate position, 64.

71. 1. δ $a\dot{\nu}\tau\dot{\rho}\varsigma$ $\ddot{a}\nu\theta\rho\omega\pi\sigma\varsigma$, the same man. When the article precedes $a\dot{\nu}\tau\dot{\rho}\varsigma$, the meaning is always the same.

2. When used alone, as κρίνουσιν αὐτόν, they judge him, it is the simple personal pronoun of the third person.

72. The use of conjunctions and prepositions is an important thing in inflected languages.

1. καί is the ordinary copulative conjunction, joining words, phrases, and clauses.

2. δέ is an adversative, but, in a mild way. It often has little meaning beyond and, indeed.

- 3. $\dot{a}\lambda\lambda\dot{a}$ is the strongest adversative, a very emphatic but.
- 4. γάρ expresses a reason, as καὶ γὰρ ἀκούουσι means and (I say this) for they are listening.
- 5. $\epsilon i s$, into, always occurs with the accusative, and denotes motion, either expressed or implied.
- 73. We noticed that the primary active ending $-\mu\iota$, as in $\mathring{a}\kappa o \mathring{v} o \mu\iota$, was dropped, and the opreceding was lengthened to ω . There are some verbs that do not drop this $\mu\iota$, and that do not have the variable vowel %. Verbs that drop the $\mu\iota$ belong to the ω -conjugation, and verbs that do not drop the $\mu\iota$ belong to the $\mu\iota$ -conjugation.

These make up what are called the ω -conjugation and the $\mu\iota$ -conjugation. Of the latter is $\epsilon i\mu i$, I am. The following is the pres. ind.:

Sing. εἰμὶ, I am.
εἰ, thou art.
ἐστὶ, he, she, or it is.
εἰσὶ, they are.
εἰσὶ, they are.

a. $\epsilon i \mu i$ is for $\epsilon \sigma - \mu i$; ϵi is for $\epsilon \sigma - \sigma i$; $\epsilon i \sigma i$ for $\epsilon \sigma \nu \sigma i$. The root $\epsilon \sigma$ - may be compared with is.

b. All the forms in the pres. ind. of this verb, except $\epsilon \hat{t}$, are enclitic, 68, 1, note.

EXERCISES.

- Ι. 1. ἐγὼ δέ εἰμι. 2. σὺ γὰρ εἶ ἐν τῷ ἱερῷ. 3. αὐτὸν δὲ ἐκρίνομεν. 4. αὐτοὶ ἡμεῖς οὐ κρινόμεθα. 5. τοῦτό ἐστι τὸ ἔργον τοῦ θεοῦ. 6. ἀλλὰ οὐ λόγοις ὑμεῖς σώζεσθε. 7. ἐν αὐτῷ δὲ ζωὴ αἰώνιός ἐστιν. 8. ὑμεῖς ἐστε τὰ τέκνα τοῦ θεοῦ. 9. ὁ προφήτης εἶ σύ. 10. καὶ λόγει αὐτῷ ὁ Ἰησοῦς. 11. ἡ ἀλήθεια οὔκ ἐστιν ἐν ἡμῖν. 12. πιστεύετε γὰρ ὅτι ἐγώ εἰμι. 13. ἐγώ εἰμι ἡ ὁδὸς καὶ ἡ ἀλήθεια καὶ ἡ ζωή. 14. σάββατον δέ ἐστιν ἐν ἐκείνῃ τῆ ἡμέρᾳ.
- I. But you know me.
 I glorify Him.
 Moreover, we speak the truth.
 Ye are in the world.
 Darkness is not in Him.
 And these things we write to you.
 Jesus himself was not baptizing, but his disciples.
 Beloved,

we are the children of God. 9. He hears my words and does not do them. 10. And this is the witness of him. 11. He himself is the life. 12. On (∂v) the same day he was speaking to the people. 13. Thou art the son of God.

LESSON XII.

DEPONENT VERBS.

75.

VOCABULARY.

άπέρχομαι, go away. άποκρίνομαι, answer. γίνομαι, be, become. διέρχομαι, go through. δύναμαι, am able, can. εἰσέρχομαι, enter. έξέρχομαι, go out.
ἔρχομαι, come, go.
ἦν, was.
οίδα, I know.
ὅς, who.

προσέρχομαι, come to.

- 76. Deponent verbs have the form of the middle, § 47, or the passive, but the sense of the active.
- 77. Note in the vocabulary above that there are many verbs that are composed of $\tilde{\epsilon}\rho\chi o\mu\alpha\iota$ + something. These are compound verbs; and the forms $\tilde{\alpha}\pi\delta$, αway , $\delta\iota\hat{\alpha}$, through, $\epsilon\iota$ s, into, $\dot{\epsilon}\kappa$, out of, $\pi\rho\delta$ s, to, are prepositions. In this verb of motion the preposition, it will be seen, gives the direction to the motion. So in most verbs compounded with prepositions, the idea of the verb is only modified by the preposition.

When the preposition ends in a vowel, as $\dot{\alpha}\pi\dot{\phi}$, $\delta\iota\dot{\alpha}$, the final vowel is dropped before a verb that begins with a vowel; e.g. $\delta\iota\dot{\epsilon}\rho\chi o\mu\alpha\iota$ is for $\delta\iota\alpha + \epsilon\rho\chi o\mu\alpha\iota$.

78. The imperfect indicative of $\epsilon i \mu i$, am, is as follows:

Sing.
 1. ἦν (ἤμην), I was.
 2. ἦs (ἦσθα), thou wert.
 3. ἦν,
 he was.
 Plur.
 1. ἦμεθα), we were.
 2. ἦτε,
 ye were.
 3. ἦσαν,
 they were.

a. The forms in parentheses need not be learned at present, as they occur but seldom. $\mathring{\eta}\mu\eta\nu$, 16 times; $\mathring{\eta}\mu\epsilon\theta a$, 3 times; $\mathring{\eta}\sigma\theta a$, twice.

79. $oi\delta a$, I know, is an irregular verb, but conjugated in one tense regularly, as follows:

Sing. Plur.

1. οίδα, I know, etc. 1. οίδαμεν, we know, etc.
2. οίδας 2. οίδατε

2. οίδας 2. οίδατε 3. οίδασι

80. Learn the paradigm of \tilde{o}_{S} , $\tilde{\eta}$, \tilde{o}_{S} , § 27.

This pronoun it will be noticed is declined like the article, except initial τ and the nominative forms δs , $\tilde{\eta}$, \tilde{o} , \tilde{a} .

1 On the same principle, when these compound verbs receive the augment the final vowel of the preposition is dropped; e.g. $\dot{\alpha}\pi\sigma\sigma\tau\ell\lambda\lambda\omega$, I send, $\dot{\alpha}\pi\ell\sigma\tau\ell\lambda\lambda\omega$, I veas sending. The prepositions and $\pi\rho\delta$ retain their final vowel. Cf. note, p. 58.

81. EXERCISES.

- Ι. 1. ύμεις οὐκ οἴδατε αὐτόν. 2. ἔρχεται ὁ Φίλιππος καὶ λέγει τῷ ᾿Ανδρέα. 3. ἐν τῷ κόσμῷ ἢν καὶ ὁ κόσμος αὐτὸν οὐκ ἐλάμβανεν. 4. ἡ ἐντολή ἐστιν ὁ λόγος ὃν ἀκούετε. 5. ἡ ὅρα ἔρχεται. 6. οὐ γράφω ὑμιν ὅτι οὐκ οἴδατε τὴν ἀλήθειαν ἀλλὰ ὅτι οἴδατε αὐτήν. 7. ὁ ἀκούω ἀπ᾽ ἀρχῆς γινώσκω. 8. καὶ αὕτη ἐστὶν ἡ ἐπαγγελία ἢν αὐτὸς ἐπαγγέλλεται. 9. καὶ οἴδας ὅτι ἡ ἀμαρτία ἐν αὐτῷ οὐκ ἐστίν. 10. ἐγὼ δὲ τὸν νόμον οἴδα. 11. ὁ δὲ καιρός ³ ἐστιν ἐν ῷ τὴν ἐξουσίαν λαμβάνομεν. 12. τίς γὰρ οὐκ οἶδε ὅτι ἡ ἐσχάτη ἡμέρα ἔρχεται; ²
- II. I. We know that we are saved. 2. Ye enter the synagogue. 3. They are becoming the children of God. 4. In the beginning was the Word. 5. The Word was with $(\pi\rho\delta_s, acc.)$ God. 6. The truth, moreover, is glorified in Him. 7. I know that His commandment is life everlasting. 8. What I say to you was from the beginning. 9. The life which we live is eternal. 10. On that day was the Sabbath. 11. Whom He knows the world does not know.

² See § 14 for the punctuation in Greek.

⁸ Time.

LESSON XIII.

PRESENT ACTIVE SUBJUNCTIVE AND INFINITIVE.

82.

VOCABULARY.

αἴρω, take away.
ἀμήν, verily.
ἀποθνήσκω, die.
ἀποστέλλω, send.
γέ, indeed, at least.
δέχομαι, receive.
διά, prep. with gen., through;
with acc., on account of.
ἐἰ, conj., if.
ἐκ, prep. with gen., out of, of.
ἔτι, adv., still, yet.

ἤδη, adv., now, already.
ἴνα, conj., in order that.
μετά, prep. with gen., with; with acc., after.
μή, not.
νῦν, adv., now.
οὕπω, adv., not yet.
παρακαλέω, beseech.
περί, prep. with gen., concerning; with acc., concerning; with acc.

πῶs, adv., how.

83. The terms primary and secondary apply to the tenses of the indicative only.

The subjunctive mood, as in English, denotes a doubt or a contingency. Unlike the English, however, the subjunctive in Greek is very common. There are but two tenses that are usually found, the present and the aorist. The perfect is very rare.

84. The pres. subjv. act. of $\lambda \dot{\nu} \omega$ is:

Sing. Ι. λύ-ω Plur. Ι. λύ-ω-μεν 2. λύ-ης 2. λύ-η-τε 3. λύ-η 3. λύ-ω-στ 85. The pres. subjv. of $\epsilon i \mu i$ is:

Sing. I. ω Plur. I. ω μεν 2. ຖ s 2. ຖ - τε 3. ຖ 3. ω στ

- 86. Note that the pres. subjv. of $\epsilon l \mu l$ is the same as the personal endings of the regular verb; and while the indicative has the variable vowel %, the subjunctive has the corresponding long vowel ωl_{η} .
- a. The personal endings are those of the primary active indicative.
 - 87. The subjunctive follows "va, in order that.

Examine the following:

ἔρχεται ἵνα ἀκούη, he comes that he may hear. πιστεύομεν ἵνα μὴ ἀμαρτάνωμεν, we believe in order that we may not sin.

- 88. Rule of syntax: Clauses of purpose take the subjunctive with "iva. The negative is μή.
- 89. The following forms illustrate the present active infinitive:

λύ-ειν, ἀκού-ειν, ἔχ-ειν, μέν-ειν, to loose. to hear. to have. to abide,

 $-\epsilon \iota \nu = \epsilon + \text{ending } -\epsilon \nu \text{ of pres. inf.}$ For $-\epsilon \epsilon \nu$ contracting to $-\epsilon \iota \nu$, see § 6, 7.

- 90. The participle is very common in Greek, and it is necessary to master its uses as soon as possible. $-\omega\nu$ is the ending of the pres. act. nom. masc. sing.; e.g.:
 - ὁ λέγων, the one saying, he who says.
 - δ αιρων, the one taking away, he who takes away.
 - δ ἀκούων, the one hearing, he who hears.

The article and participle in this use are equivalent, as is seen, to a dependent clause in English.

91. EXERCISES.

- Ι. 1. οὖτος ἔρχεται ἵνα λέγη περὶ τῆς ἀληθείας. 2. ἀμὴν, ἀμὴν λέγω ὑμῖν ὅτι ἡ ὅρα οὔπω ἐστίν. 3. δέχεται ἡμᾶς ἵνα ἔτι ζῶμεν. 1 4. πῶς γε δύιαται σώζειν; 5. μετὰ ταῦτα αὐτοῖς λέγει. 6. τὰς ἀμαρτίας ἡμῶν αἴρει. 7. ἐκ τοῦ θανάτου εἰς τὴν ζωὴν ἐγειρόμεθα. 8. ὁ μένων ἐν αὐτῷ ἔχει ζωὴν αἰώνιον. 9. ὁ ἀγαπῶν 1 τὸν ἀδελφὸν αὐτοῦ ἐν τῆ ἀγάπη μένει. 10. ἐγὼ δὲ ἔρχομαι ἵνα τὸν κόσμον σώζω.
- II. I. They baptize in order that they may glorify God. 2. Already we become the children of Him. 3. Ye are able to know the truth. 4. How can He take away our sins?

 5. Through Him they are saved and have eternal life. 6. After these things they go away into the desert. 7. He comes that He may save sinners ($\delta\mu a \rho \tau \omega \lambda \delta s$). 8. I am willing to hear the Gospel. 9. Verily, verily the one loving his brother is not a servant. 10. Ye are not able to hear my word. 11. That one was from the beginning and truth is in Him.

LESSON XIV.

PRESENT PASSIVE SUBJUNCTIVE AND INFINITIVE.

VOCABULARY.

άμα, adv., at the same time. ἀντί, prep. with gen., instead of. ἀπό, prep. with gen., from. ἀσπάζομαι, salute. δαιμόνιον, DEMON. ἐάν, conj., if. εὐαγγέλιον, gospel. εὐρίσκω, find.

ἤ, conj., or.
καθώς, adv., just as.
καινός, new.
λοιπός, remaining.
οὖν, adv., therefore.
πρός, prep. with acc., to, toward.
προσκυνέω, worship.
τηρέω, keep.

93. The pres. pass. subjv. of $\lambda \dot{\nu} \omega$ is:

Sing. 1. λύ-ω-μαι
2. λύ-η

Plur. I. λυ-ώ-μεθα 2. λύ-η σθε

3. λύ-η-ται

3. λύ-ω-νται

94. Observe: 1. The long vowel $^{\omega}I_{\eta}$, as in the active. 2. The personal endings are the pass. primary endings of the indicative. 3. - η of 2 per. sing. is for - $\eta\sigma\alpha\iota$.

95. The subjunctive is used in exhortation.

Examine the following:

εύρίσκωμεν την ἀλήθειαν, let us find the truth. μη ἀγώμεθα εἰς την άμαρτίαν, let us not be led in sin.

96. Rule of syntax: The first person plural (of the subjunctive) may be used to express an exhortation. The negative is $\mu\dot{\eta}$.

97. Examine the following:

έὰν κρίνω δὲ ἐγώ, if I, moreover, judge. ἐὰν μὴ λέγωμεν τὴν ἀλήθειαν, if we say not the truth.

Rule of syntax: The subjunctive follows $\dot{\epsilon}\dot{a}\nu$ (= if); the negative is $\mu\dot{\eta}$. Cf. § 124.

98. The pres. pass. inf. may be seen in the following verbs:

λύ-ε-σθαι, ἀκού-ε-σθαι, κρίν-ε-σθαι, to be destroyed. to be heard. to be judged.

What is the pres. pass. inf. ending?

99. Examine the following:

δ κριν-ό-μενος, the one being judged. δ ἀκου-ό-μενος, the one being heard.

This ending $-\mu \epsilon \nu o_{5}$ is the passive participle ending in nom. masc. sing, as $-\omega \nu$ is in the active. The ending $-o_{5}$ is declined like $\kappa a \lambda \delta_{5}$, § 25.

What was said in 90 about the sense of the active participle applies equally to the passive.

100. EXERCISES.

- Ι. Ι. ἀσπαζώμεθα τοὺς ἀδελφούς. 2. καθὼς ἐκεῖνος δίκαιός ἐστιν ὤμεν δίκαιοι ἡμεῖς. 3. ἐν τῷ μέσφ ἐκήρυσσε λέγων ὅτι ἔρχεται εἰς τὰ ἴδια. 4. μένετε ἐν ἐμοὶ καὶ ἐγὼ ἐν ὑμῖν. 5. ἐγὼ οὐκ εἰμὶ μόνος ὅτι αὐτὸς μετ ἐμοῦ ἐστιν. 6. βλέπει τὸν κύριον ἐρχόμενον πρὸς αὐτὸν καὶ λέγει αὐτῷ Οὖτός ἐστιν ὁ αἴρων τὰς ἁμαρτίας τοῦ κόσμου. 7. εἰ ὑμεῖς μένετε ἐν τῷ λόγῷ ἐμοῦ, μαθηταί μού ἐστε καὶ γινώσκετε τὴν ἀλήθειαν. 8. ἐὰν δὲ κρίνω ἐγώ, τὴν ἀλήθειαν κρίνω. 9. ἐὰν ἐγὼ δοξάζω ἐμαυτόν (myself), ἡ δόξα μου οὐδέν (nothing) ἐστιν.
- II. I. Let us keep this commandment. 2. Let us receive the truth. 3. If, therefore, we are the children of God, let us do His works. 4. Let us believe that through Him we have eternal life. 5. They were willing to receive the Gospel. 6. He who believes is saved and has eternal life. 7. Let us not speak concerning these things. 8. A new commandment write I unto you. 9. If we say that we have not sin, the truth is not in us. 10. He preaches the Gospel of the kingdom of God.

LESSON XV.

THIRD DECLENSION: NEUTER NOUNS IN a.

101.

VOCABULARY.

αἷμα, τό, blood; cf. HEMOR- στόμα, τό, mouth.

RHAGE. σῶμα, τό, body.
θέλημα, τό, will. νύξ,¹ ή, night.
ὄνομα, τό, name; cf. NOMI- πούς, ό, foot.

NATE. πῦρ, τό, fire, PYROtechnics.
πνεῦμα, τό, spirit. σάρξ, ἡ, flesh.
ἡῆμα, τό, word; cf. RHETORIC. φῶς, τό, light. PHOTOgraphy.
σπέρμα, τό, seed. χείρ, ἡ, hand, CHIROgraphy.

- 102. The third declension is ordinarily called the consonant declension from the fact that the stem of the nouns usually ends in a consonant. A few nouns, as we shall see later, end in a close vowel, ι or ν , or in the diphthong $\epsilon \nu$.
- 103. It is necessary in declining a noun of this declension to have the stem. This is determined by dropping the genitive ending -05.
- 104. The nominative is formed from the stem in various ways. The nominative, therefore, is not easily determined till we know the genitive.

¹ These monosyllables have peculiarities of form which will be explained later. The frequency of their occurrence is the reason for introducing them thus early.

105. The declension of ὄνομα, name, is as follows:

 Sing.
 Plur.

 N. A. V. ὄνομα
 N. A. V. ὀνόματα

 G. ὀνόματος
 G. ὀνομάτων

 D. ὀγόματι
 D. ὀγόμασι

106. Observe the following:

- 1. The genitive ending is -os.
- 2. The dative ends in -1, as in the first and second declensions. Here, however, it does not appear as iota-subscript, but is written in the line.
- 3. In the plur. \check{a} is the same as in the O-declension, so likewise $-\omega\nu$.
- 4. The dat. plur. ends in $-\sigma\iota$, with which compare $-\iota\varsigma$ of the A- and O-declensions. τ of the stem drops before $-\sigma\iota$.
- 5. The stem is $ovo\mu a\tau$. The nominative is the mere stem, final τ being dropped.
 - 107. Learn the declension of νύξ, night, § 28.
- 108. Rule of accent: Monosyllables of the consonant declension accent the ultima in all senitives and datives. -ων of the genitive plural is circumflexed.

¹ The only single consonants that can stand at the close of a word in Greek are ν , ρ , s. All other letters which would occur here are dropped.

EXERCISES.

- Ι. 1. τὰ ἡήματα ζωῆς αἰωνίου ἔχεις. 2. ὄνομα ἢν αὐτῷ Ἰωάνης. 3. τοῦτό ἐστι τὸ σῶμά μου. 4. γινώσκεις τὸ θέλημα τοῦ θεοῦ. 5. θέλετε ἄγειν ἐφ' (against) ἡμᾶς τὸ αἶμα τοῦ ἀνθρώπου τούτου; 6. οὖτός ἐστιν ὁ βαπτίζων ἐν πνεύματι ἀγίῳ. 7. ἡνὺξ ἔρχεται. 8. σπέρμα ᾿Αβραάμ ἐσμεν. 9. ὁ λόγος σὰρξ ἐγένετο (became). 10. οὐ τὸ εἰσερχόμενον εἰς τὸ στόμα κοινοῖ (defiles) ἄνθρωπον ἀλλὰ τὸ ἐξερχόμενον ἐκ τοῦ στόματος τοῦτο κοινοῖ ἄνθρωπον. 11. ὑμεῖς ἐστε τὸ φῶς τοῦ κόσμου. 12. εἰ δὲ ἡ χείρ σου ἢ ὁ πούς σου σκανδαλίζει (offend) σε ἔκκοψον (cut off) αὐτόν. 13. τὸ φῶς ἐν τῆ σκοτία φαίνει.
- II. I. They believe on (eis) His name. 2. He baptizes you, moreover, in the holy spirit. 3. He is able to save by (èv) night and day. 4. Let us believe on the name of the Lord. 5. The word becomes flesh. 6. These are the good seed. 7. This is the will of God. 8. He speaks through the mouth of God. 9. The bread of life is my flesh. 10. Verily, verily I say to you, he who believes on His name has eternal life.

LESSON XVI.

THIRD DECLENSION: STEMS IN -ι AND -ερ.

110.

VOCABULARY.

ἀνήρ, ό, man.
ἀνάστασις, ή, resurrection.
γνῶσις, ή, knowledge.
δύναμις, ή, power, DYNAΜΙΤΕ.
θλίψις, ή, tribulation.
κρίσις, ή, judgment.
κτίσις, η
συνείδησ

κτίσις, ή, creation.

παράκλησις, ή, exhortation.

πατήρ, ό, father.

πίστις, ή, faith.

συνείδησις, ή, conscience.

111. Above are given the most common nouns in the New Testament in -15, stem in -1. They are declined as follows:

πόλις, city.

Sing.	Stem πολι	Plur.
Ν. πόλις	N. V.	πόλεις
G. πόλεως	G.	πόλεων
D. πόλει	D.	πόλεσι
Α. πόλιν	A.	πόλεις
V πόλι

- 112. The following is to be noted regarding the declension of this class of nouns:
- I. ϵ takes the place of the final stem vowel ι in all cases except the nom., acc., and voc. sing.

2. The gen. sing. has -ως, not -oς.

3. The accent in gen. sing. and plur. is irregular, and here the acute accent is found on the antepenult when the ultima is long.

4. ϵ unites with ι of the dat. sing., and forms a diphthong el.

5. The acc. sing. adds simply $-\nu$ to the stem.

6. In the vocative the mere stem occurs.

7. The nom. plur. -eis is for ees, § 6, 7.

113. Learn the declension of $\pi a \tau \eta \rho$, § 33, and a.

Observe the following:

1. The nominative ends in $-\eta \rho$, while the stem ends in $-\epsilon \rho$.

2. The gen. and dat. sing. drop this ϵ of the stem, and take the accent on the last syllable

3. Voc. sing. has recessive accent (3, b, 1).

4. The dat. plur. has $\alpha \rho$ for $\epsilon \rho$.

114. Learn $\partial v \eta \rho$, man, § 33. Note that whenever $\epsilon \rho$ of the stem would be followed by a vowel, δ takes the place of the ϵ . The same peculiarities of accent obtain as in $\pi a \tau \eta \rho$, but $-\omega v$ of the gen. plur. is circumflexed.

115. EXERCISES.

Ι. ι. ἐγώ εἰμι ἡ ἀνάστασις καὶ ἡ ζωή. 2. ἡ πίστις σου σώζει σε. 3. ἐν τῆ δυνάμει τοῦ πνεύματος εἰς Γαλιλαίαν εἰσέρχεται. 4. αὕτη δέ ἐστιν ἡ κρίσις ὅτι τὸ φῶς ἔρχεται εἰς τὸν κόσμον. 5. γράφω ἐπ' (οn) αὐτὸν τὸ ὄνομα τοῦ θεοῦ μου καὶ τὸ ὄνομα τῆς πόλεως τοῦ θεοῦ μου. 6. ἄνδρα οὐ γινώσκω. 7. νῦν κρίσις ἐστὶν τοῦ κόσμου τούτου. 8. ἡμεῖς οἴδαμεν τὸν πατέρα καὶ τὴν μητέρα. 9. ἐν τῷ κόσμῳ θλίψιν ἔχετε. 10. ἔλεγον οὖν αὐτῷ ποῦ (where) ἐστιν ὁ πατήρ σου. 11. ποιῶ τὰ ἔργα τοῦ πατρός μου. 12. ἐν τῷ ἡμέρᾳ τῆς κρίσεως ἕξομεν (shall have) χαρὰν καὶ εἰρήνην.

II. I. The faith which we have saves men.

2. Life is in him who has the spirit of faith.

3. This is my father and my mother. 4. He who does the will of God abides in the truth.

5. We have power to become the children of God. 6. He is the resurrection and the life.

7. We are raised from the dead on (êv) the day of judgment.

8. He who hears my word comes not into judgment.

9. In that city he preached the Gospel.

10. For those days are tribulation

LESSON XVII.

FUTURE INDICATIVE.

116.

VOCABULARY.

άδικέω, do wrong. νικάω, conquer. άδικία, ή, unrighteousness. όμολογέω, confess. άδικος, η, ον, unrighteous. περιπατέω, walk. άναβλέπω, look up. συνάγω, gather together. άρνέομαι, deny. ύπάγω, go away. αρχομαι, begin. φανερόω, make manifest. θαυμάζω, wonder at, marvel. φοβέομαι, fear. φυλάσσω, guard. μισέω, hate.

. 117. The fut. ind., as in English, denotes what is going to take place.

The following is the fut. ind. act. of $\lambda \dot{\nu} \omega$:

Sing.

Plur.

- 1. λύ-σ-ω, I shall loose, 1. λύ-σ-ο-μεν, we shall loose,
- 2. λύ-σ-εις etc.

2. λύ-σ-ε-τε, etc.

3. λύ-σ-ει

3. λύ-σ-ου-σι

118. The fut. ind. mid. of $\lambda \dot{\nu} \omega$ is:

Sing.

· Plur.

λύ-σ-ο-μαι

Ι. λυ-σ-ό-μεθα

2. λύ-σ-η

2. λύ-σ-ε-σθε

3. λύ-σ-ε-ται

3. λύ-σ-ο-νται

¹ For the middle voice, see §§ 47, 48. The middle and passive are the same in form, except in the future and the aorist, which we shall learn later.

119. Observe that the future has primary endings, and differs from the present in the use of σ , with which compare shall in the English future. Note that σ appears before the variable vowel %. Hence, while the present is formed by adding % to the stem, the future is formed by adding σ %.

Learn the fut. ind. of $\epsilon i\mu l$, § 65.

- 120. The future of ἀδικέω, do wrong, is ἀδικήσω; of νικάω, conquer, is νικήσω; of μισέω, hate, is μισήσω; of φανερόω, make manifest, is φανερώσω. From these forms it can be seen that a short final vowel must be lengthened before σ % of the future. $\epsilon = \eta$, $a = \eta$, $o = \omega$.
- 122. The future of $\beta \lambda \acute{\epsilon} \pi \omega$, see, is $\beta \lambda \acute{\epsilon} \psi \omega$; of ἀναστρέφω, turn, is ἀναστρέψω; of νίπτω, wash, stem νιβ-, is νίψω. Stems in π , β , ϕ + σ % = ψ %.
- 123. The future of $\sigma\omega\zeta\omega$, save, stem $\sigma\omega\delta$ -, is $\sigma\omega\sigma\omega$; of $\pi\epsilon i\theta\omega$, persuade, is $\pi\epsilon i\sigma\omega$. From which observe that stems in τ , δ , θ would have simple $\sigma\%$ in the future. The consonant drops before the tense sign.

124. The various forms of future stems may be seen by examining the following summary:

Vowel Stems. Mute 1 Stems. $\begin{array}{ll}
-\alpha + \sigma\% &= \eta\sigma\% \\
-\epsilon + \sigma\% &= \eta\sigma\% \\
-0 + \sigma\% &= \omega\sigma\% \\
-v + \sigma\% &= \bar{v}\sigma\% \end{array}$ Labials, π , β , $\phi + \sigma\% &= \psi\% \\
Palatals, <math>\kappa$, γ , $\chi + \sigma\% &= \xi\% \\
Linguals, <math>\tau$, δ , $\theta + \sigma\% &= \sigma\% \$

Other vowel stems hardly occur.

No stems end in the double consonants ξ , ζ , ψ , nor in σ .

The future of liquid stems, λ , μ , ν , ρ , will be explained in a future lesson. Aside from stems in these four letters, we may now be able to form the future of any regular verb in Greek.

EXERCISES.

Ι. Ι. ή πίστις σου σώσει σε. 2. γράψω ταῦτα, παιδία, ὑμῖν. 3. ὁ κόσμος ἡμᾶς μισήσει. 4. πέμψω τὸν υίόν μου τὸν ἀγαπητόν. 5. οὕτω (thus) καὶ ὁ πατὴρ ὁ οὐράνιος ποιήσει ὑμῖν. 6. ἀκολουθήσω σοι, Κύριε. 7. ἀγαπήσεις κύριον τὸν θεὸν ἐν ὅλη καρδία σου καὶ ἐν ὅλη τῆ ψυχῆ σου καὶ ἐν ὅλη τῆ διανοία (mind) σου αὕτη ἐστὶν ἡ πρώτη ἐντολή. 8. ὁμολογήσω αὐτοῖς ὅτι οὐ γινώσκω ὑμᾶς. 9. ἐν ἐκείνη τῆ ἡμέρα ἐν τῷ ὀνόματί μου αἰτήσεσθε, καὶ οὐ λέγω ὑμῖν ὅτι ἐγὰ ἐρωτήσω τὸν πατέρα περὶ ὑμῶν. 10. οὕτως δὲ ἔσονται οἱ ἔσχατοι πρῶτοι. 11. πείσομεν τὴν καρδίαν ἡμῶν. 12. οὕτως ἔσται καὶ (also) ἐν ταῖς ἡμέραις τοῦ υἰοῦ τοῦ ἀνθρώπου.

II. I. There shall be tribulations. 2. We shall do the truth. 3. He who knoweth the truth and doeth it shall live. 4. Ye shall be with 1 me this day. 5. They shall hate us because we are not of $(\hat{\epsilon}\kappa)$ the world. 6. We shall love the Lord God with all our heart. 7. I shall do the will of my father. 8. The son of man shall believe on $(\hat{\epsilon}is)$ the word. 9. They shall bear witness concerning Him that He is the light. 10. We shall seek Him. 11. There shall be joy in Heaven because he is saved. 12. He shall glorify God.

LESSON XVIII.

THIRD DECLENSION: MUTE STEMS.

126.

VOCABULARY.

αἰών, ό, age, ÆON.
ἀλλότριος, another's, strange.
βρῶμα, τό, food.
ἐλπίς, ή, hope.
ἔτοιμος, ready.

δουλεύω, be a servant.

καινός, new. κρίμα, τό, judgment. οἰκοδομέω, build up. πρεσβύτερος, elder. σκοτία, ή, darkness. φανερός, manifest.

χάρις, ή, grace.

1 μετά with Gen.

127. Observe the following:

I. ἐλπίς, hope, stem ελπιδ-; νύξ, night, stem νυκτ-; πούς, foot, stem ποδ-; σάρξ, flesh, stem σαρκ-; φῶς, light, stem φωτ-; χάρις, grace, stem χαριτ-.

2. In all these nouns note that the stem ends in a mute (\S 2), and that the nominative is formed by adding ς to the stem. For the euphonic changes that occur with ς and the mutes, see 124.

- 128. In alw, age, stem alw-; $\dot{\eta}\gamma\epsilon\mu\dot{\omega}\nu$, leader, stem $\dot{\eta}\gamma\epsilon\mu\sigma$ -; and $\chi\epsilon\dot{\iota}\rho$, hand, stem $\chi\epsilon\iota\rho$ -, we have liquid stems which form the nominative from the mere stem. A short vowel, as in $\dot{\eta}\gamma\epsilon\mu\sigma\nu$ -, may be lengthened.
- a. $\tilde{a}\rho\chi\omega\nu$, prince, ruler, has the stem $a\rho\chi\sigma\nu\tau$, but does not add s for the nominative, which is the mere stem with τ dropped and o lengthened to ω .
- 129. Learn the declension of $\chi \acute{a}\rho \iota s$, $\acute{e}\lambda \pi \iota s$, and $\check{a}\rho \chi \omega \nu$, § 28, and $a \iota \acute{\omega} \nu$, § 32.
- 130. When nouns with stem in τ , δ , or θ preceded by ι or ν are not accented on the ultima, the acc. sing. has ν , the mute being dropped; e.g. $\chi \acute{a}\rho \iota \varsigma$, $\chi a\rho \iota \tau$ -, acc. $\chi \acute{a}\rho \iota \nu$; but $\acute{\epsilon}\lambda \pi \acute{\iota}\varsigma$, $\epsilon \lambda \pi \iota \delta$ -, has acc. $\acute{\epsilon}\lambda \pi \acute{\iota}\delta a$. Cf. 112, 5.

- 131. The voc. sing. is rare and is usually the same as the nom. $\partial \lambda \pi i \varsigma$, however, has voc. $\partial \lambda \pi i$.
- 132. When $-\nu\tau$ of the stem would come before $-\sigma\iota$ of the dat. plur., both the letters are dropped and the preceding vowel is lengthened (o to $o\upsilon$); e.g. $\alpha\rho\chi\omega\nu$, stem $\alpha\rho\chi\sigma\nu\tau$ -, dat. plur. $\alpha\rho\chi\sigma\upsilon\sigma\iota$.

133. EXERCISES.

- Ι. Ι. εὐρίσκεις γε χάριν παρὰ τῷ θεῷ. 2. αὐτός ἐστιν ἐν τῷ φωτί. 3. νυνὶ δὲ μένει πίστις, ἐλπίς, ἀγάπη. 4. ἴδετε (behold) τὰς χεῖράς μου καὶ τοὺς πόδας μου ὅτι ἐγώ εἰμι αὐτός. 5. ὁ ἐσθίων ἐκ τούτου τοῦ ἄρτου ζήσει εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα. 6. ὁ Ἰησοῦς ἔρχεται εἰς τὴν οἰκίαν τοῦ ἄρχοντος. 7. οὐ γάρ ἐστε ὑπὸ νόμον ἀλλ' ὑπὸ χάριν. 8. καὶ ὁ ἔχων τὴν ἐλπίδα ταύτην ἐπ' (in) αὐτῷ σώζεται. 9. ὁ δὲ δοῦλος οὐ μένει ἐν τῆ οἰκία εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα, ὁ νίὸς μένει εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα. 10. χάριτι² δὲ θεοῦ εἰμι ὅ εἰμι. 11. σοῦ ἐστιν ἡ βασιλεία καὶ ἡ δύναμις καὶ ἡ δόξα εἰς τοὺς αἰῶνας. 12. χάρις ὑμῖν καὶ εἰρήνη ἀπὸ θεοῦ πατρὸς ἡμῶν καὶ Κυρίου Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ.
- II. I. Truth abides forever. 2. Now have we faith and hope. 3. I write these (things) with my hand. 4. The light appears in the darkness.

 $^{^{1}}$ ι may be added to adverbs and pronouns to emphasize them. The accent in all such cases is upon the ι ; ϵ .g. où χ is often où χl ; ν $\hat{\nu}\nu$, ν $\nu \nu l$.

² Cf. § 157.

5. We are saved by faith. 6. He who has love in his heart has grace. 7. We are not under the law, but under grace. 8. By the grace of God we are what we are. 9. Behold my hands and feet.

LESSON XIX.

Third Declension: Neuter Nouns, Stems in $\epsilon\sigma$ -; Masculine Nouns, Stems in $\epsilon\upsilon$ -.

134.

VOCABULARY.

ἀρχιερεύς, ό, chief priest. βασιλεύς, ό, king. γένος, τό, race. γραμματεύς, ό, scribe. γυνή, woman. ἔθνος, τό, nation. ἔθος, τό, custom, ETHICS. ἔλεος, τό, pity. ίερεύς, priest, HIERarchy. μέλος, τό, member.
μέρος, τό, part.
οὖς, τό, ear.
πλῆθος, τό, multitude.
σκότος, τό, darkness.
τέλος, τό, end.
ΰδωρ, τό, water, HYDRology.

Neuter nouns with the nominative in -0s and the stem in $-\epsilon\sigma$ form an important class of nouns of the third declension. The most common examples are given above.

135. Learn the declension of γένος, race (§ 30). Observe the following.

1. In the gen. and dat. sing. the σ of the stem is dropped between the two vowels, and γένεος contracts into γένους.

- 2. In all cases of the plur, the σ of the stem is dropped; $\gamma \acute{e} \nu \epsilon \alpha$, $\gamma e \nu \acute{e} \omega \nu$ are contracted to $\gamma \acute{e} \nu \eta$, $\gamma e \nu \acute{e} \nu \gamma$; see §§ 5, 8 and 6, 6.
- 136. Learn the declension of $\beta a \sigma \iota \lambda \epsilon \dot{\nu} s$, king (§ 31), with which compare the vowel stem of $\pi \dot{\nu} \lambda \iota s$.
- 137. For some irregular nouns of the third declension, as $\gamma \nu \nu \dot{\eta}$, woman, $\theta \rho \dot{\xi}$, hair, oùs, ear, $\pi o \dot{\nu} s$, foot, $\dot{\nu} \delta \omega \rho$, water, $\chi \epsilon i \rho$ hand, see § 34. Only such forms are given as occur in the New Testament.

EXERCISES.

Ι. Ι. ἀλλ' οὔπω τὸ τέλος ἐστίν. 2. σὺ εἶ βασιλεὺς Ἰουδαίων. 3. τὸ εὐαγγέλιον ὁ κηρύσσω ἐν τοῖς ἔθνεσι. 4. οὖκ ἔχεις μέρος μετ' ἐμοῦ. 5. οἱ δὲ ἀρχιερεῖς καὶ οἱ πρεσβύτεροι ἔπεισαν (persuaded) τοὺς ὄχλους. 6. εἰς τὰ ἔθνη πορευόμεθα. 7. οὖκ ἔχομεν βασιλέα. 8. ἐν ἑνὶ (one) σώματι πολλὰ μέλη ἔχομεν. 9. χάρις ἀπὸ Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, ὁ ἄρχων τῶν βασιλέων τῆς γῆς. 10. καὶ ἔπαισε (struck) τὸν τοῦ ἀρχιερέως δοῦλον ἡν δὲ ὄνομα τῷ δούλω Μάλχος. 11. ἔμελλεν Ἰησοῦς ἀποθνήσκειν ὑπὲρ (for) τοῦ ἔθνους καὶ οὐχ ὑπὲρ τοῦ ἔθνους μόνον. 12. χάρις, ἔλεος, εἰρήνη ἀπὸ θεοῦ πατρὸς καὶ Χριστοῦ Ἰησοῦς τοῦ Κυρίου ἡμῶν.

II. 1. Ye are not in the darkness. 2. This one is the king of the Jews. 3. For we know in $(\tilde{\epsilon}\kappa)$ part. 4. The scribes and the chief priests will say this. 5. They know that he is not the king of this world. 6. A great multitude will follow him (dat.). 7. We have a part in the kingdom of God. 8. I say to you brethren that the end is not yet. 9. We shall make him king.

LESSON XX.

FIRST AND SECOND AORIST INDICATIVE

139.

VOCABULARY.

άγιάζω, sanctify. δοκέω, seem, think. θεάομαι, behold. καθαρίζω, purify. καταβαίνω, go down. όράω, see. παραλαμβάνω, receive. τυφλόω, blind.

ἀπέθανον, I died.
ἔβαλον, I threw.
ἐγενόμην, I became.
είδον, I saw.
είπον, I said.
εὖρον, I found.
ηλθον, I went or came.
παρέλαβον, I received.

140. The agrist is the most common tense in Greek to represent what has taken place. Thus, I loosed, I did loose, or I have loosed would most likely be expressed in Greek by one word, $\tilde{\epsilon}-\lambda v-\sigma a$, the agr. ind. act. of $\lambda \dot{\nu} \omega$.

141. The agrist indicative of $\lambda \dot{\nu} \omega$ is:

	ACTIVE.	MIDDLE.
Sing.	I . ἔ-λυ-σα	ể-λυ-σά-μην
9	2. ἔ-λυ-σα-ς	έ-λύ-σω (for έ-λύ-σα-σο
	3. ἔ-λυ-σε	ἐ -λύ-σα-το
Plur.	Ι. ἐ-λύ-σα-μεν	ἐ-λυ-σά-μεθα
	2. ἐ-λύ-σα-τε	ể-λύ-σα- σ θ€
	3. ἔ-λυ-σα-ν	ἔ-λύ-σα-ντο

- α . In 2 pers. sing. ind. mid. σ drops between the two vowels α o, and these contract to ω , § 5, 1.
- 142. Observe the following on the formation of the agrist:
 - I. The augment as in the imperfect.
- 2. The tense suffix is σa , which changes to $\sigma \epsilon$ in 3 per. sing. act.
- 3. The personal endings are secondary. ν of 1 per. sing. act. is dropped.
- 143. Compare the suffix σa with d or ed in the past tense in English; e.g.:

ἔ-λυ-σα-ς ἐ-πληρώ-σα-μενloose-d-you fill - ed - we

144. The same principles of augment are found in the aor, ind. as in the imperf. ind., 36, and the same euphonic changes with σa of the aor, as with $\sigma \%$ of the fut., 120-124.

- 145. Not all verbs have the agrist in σa , which is called the first agrist, but form the tense on the simple stem of the verb by the use of the variable vowel %. This is called the second agrist.
- 146. The 2 aor. ind. of $\beta d\lambda \lambda \omega$, throw, theme or stem $\beta a\lambda$, is:

	ACTIVE.	MIDDLE.
Sing	· Ι. ἔ-βαλ-ο-ν	ͼ-βαλ-ό-μην
	2. ἔ-βαλ-ε-ς	έ-βάλ-ου (for έ-βάλ-ε-σο)
	3. ἔ-βαλ-ε	ἐ -βάλ-ε-το
Plur	·. Ι. ἐ-βάλ-ο-μεν	ἐ-βαλ-ό-μεθα
	2. ἐ-βάλ-ε-τε	ể-βάλ-ε-σθε
	3. ἔ-βαλ-ο-ν	ἐ-βάλ-ο-ντο

- a. Note that the only difference in form between the 2 aor. and the imperf. of the same verb is a difference in stem; e.g. $\tilde{\epsilon}$ - $\beta a\lambda \lambda$ -ov, imperf., has the pres. stem $\beta a\lambda \lambda$ -, while $\tilde{\epsilon}$ - $\beta a\lambda$ -ov, 2 aor., has the simple stem or theme, $\beta a\lambda$ -.
- 147. Few verbs have both agrists. There is no difference whatever in meaning between a first agrist and a second agrist.
- 148. The following 2 aor. are given in the vocabulary: $\mathring{a}\pi o\theta \nu \mathring{\eta}\sigma \kappa \omega$, theme $\theta a\nu$ -, 2 aor. $\mathring{a}\pi \acute{e}-\theta a\nu o\nu$; $\gamma \acute{\nu}\nu \rho \mu a\iota$, theme $\gamma \epsilon \nu$ -, 2 aor. $\mathring{\epsilon}\gamma \epsilon \nu \acute{\nu}\rho \acute{\mu}\eta \nu$; $\mathring{\delta}\rho \acute{a}\omega$, theme $\iota \mathring{\delta}$ -, 2 aor. $\mathring{\epsilon}\mathring{\iota}\delta \nu$; $\mathring{\epsilon}\nu \rho \acute{\nu}\sigma \kappa \omega$, theme $\mathring{\epsilon}\nu \rho$ -, 2 aor. $\mathring{\epsilon}\mathring{\nu}\rho \nu$ 0, $\mathring{\epsilon}\nu \rho \nu$ 0, $\mathring{\epsilon}\nu \rho \nu$ 0, 2 aor.

 $\mathring{\eta}\lambda\theta$ ον; π aρα λ a μ βάνω, theme λ a β -, 2 aor. π aρέ- λ a β ον; ϵ i π ον has no present.

Note that the second aorist has the simple theme of the verb and the %.

149. The difference in form between a first aorist and a second aorist may be illustrated by the following:

- I. άγαπάω, love I aor. ή-γαπή-σα-μεν, love-d-we
- 2. λαλέω, talk I aor. ἐ-λάλη-σα-ν, talk-ed-they
- 3. βάλλω, throw . . . 2 aor. ἐ-βάλ-ο-μεν, threw-we
- 4. λαμβάνω, take . . . 2 aor. ε-λαβ-o-v, took-they

In I and 2 the past tense in both the Greek and the English is formed by adding something, $-\sigma a$, and d or ed.

In 3 and 4 no suffix is found, but the change is in the stem of the verb. $\beta a \lambda \lambda$, throw, $\beta a \lambda$, threw; $\lambda a \mu \beta \acute{a} v \omega$, take, $\lambda a \beta$, took.

150. EXERCISES.

Ι. 1. καθώς ἐκεῖνος περιεπάτησεν. 1 2. ἔγραψα ὑμῖν, παιδία, ὅτι γινώσκετε τὸς πατέρα. 3. ἠκούσατε ὅτι ἡ ἐσχάτη ὥρα ἔρχεται. 4. καὶ οὐκ οἶδε ποῦ (where) ὑπάγει ὅτι ἡ σκοτία ἐτύφλωσε τοὺς ὀφθαλμοὺς αὐτοῦ. 5. εἰς τὰ ἴδια ἢλθεν καὶ οί ἴδιοι αὐτὸν οὐ παρέλαβον. 6. αὐτὸς ἠγάπησεν ἡμᾶς. 7. δ ἐθεασάμεθα ἀπαγγέλλομεν καὶ ὑμῖν.

¹ περί and πρό do not drop the final vowel before the augment.

8. περὶ γὰρ ἐμοῦ ἐκεῖνος ἔγραψεν. 9. ἐθεάσαντο ὰ ἐποίησεν καὶ ἐπίστευσαν εἰς αὐτόν. 10. Χριστὸς ὑπὲρ ἡμῶν ἀπέθανεν. 11. οὖτός ἐστιν ὑπὲρ οὖ εἶπον. 12. ἐν τῷ κόσμῷ ἢν καὶ ὁ κόσμος δι' αὐτοῦ ἐγένετο. 13. ἡ γυνὴ εἶπεν Οὐκ ἔχω ἄνδρα. 14. καὶ ἐν τῷ ἀλλοτρίῷ πιστοὶ οὐκ ἐγένεσθε.

II. I. They asked him. 2. They went and saw where $(\pi o \hat{v})$ he was abiding. 3. The word became flesh. 4. He acknowledged that he is the Christ. 5. He bore witness, saying that he saw the spirit. 6. For he sent them to preach the kingdom of God. 7. And it came to pass in those days. 8. And I saw and heard.

LESSON XXI.

FIRST AND SECOND AORIST SUBJUNCTIVE.

151.

VOCABULARY.

άληθινός, true. ἄνεμος, ό, wind. ἀνοίγω, open. ἀποκτείνω, kill. ἀπολύω, release. ἄρτι, adv., just now. ἀσθενέω, am sick. βίος, ό, life. διάβολος, ό, devil.

διάνοια, ή, mind.
ἐκεῖ, αάν., there.
ἐντεῦθεν, adv., thence.
ἐπεἰ, conj., when, since.
ἐπερωτάω, ask (a question).
ἐπιθυμία, ή, aesire.
ἰσχυρός, strong.
ὅπου, adv., where.
φόβος, δ, fear.

χρεία, ή, need.

152. The aor. subjv. of $\lambda \dot{\nu} \omega$:

ACTIVE. MIDDLE.

Sing. 1. λύ-σ-ω λύ-σ-ω-μαι
2. λύ-σ-η-s λύ-σ-η (for λύ-ση-σαι)
3. λύ-σ-η λύ-σ-η-ται

Plur. 1. λύ-σ-ω-μεν λυ-σ-ώ-μεθα
2. λύ-σ-η-τε λύ-σ-η-σθε
3. λύ-σ-ω-σι λύ-σ-ω-νται

- 153. Observe on the aor. subjv.:
- 1. There is no augment.
- 2. σ is the tense suffix.
- 3. The personal endings are the same as in the pres. subjv.
- 4. The aor. stem, $\lambda v \sigma$ -, is the same as the aor. ind. stem, 141, and the euphonic changes will be the same as in the aor. ind.
- 154. Write the aor. subjv. of π οιέω, dο; φανερόω, make manifest; γ ράφω, write; π είθω, persuade; ἄγω, lead; ἄρχομαι, begin; π έμ π ω, send; δέχομαι, receive.
- 155. The 2 aor. subjv. of $\beta \hat{a} \lambda \lambda \omega$, theme $\beta a \lambda$, is—

S — ACTIVE. · MIDDLE.

Sing. I. βάλ-ω βάλ-ω-μαι
2. βάλ-η-s βάλ-η (for βάλ-η-σαι)
3. βάλ-η βάλ-η-ται

Plur. I. βάλ-ω-μεν βαλ-ώ-μεθα
2. βάλ-η-τε βάλ-η-σθι
3. βάλ-ω-σι βάλ-ω-νται

- 156. Note that the same principles are observed in the formation of the 2 aor. subjv. as in the 2 aor. ind. (146-147).
- 157. The 2 aor. subjv. of the following may be conjugated: $\mathring{\eta}\lambda\theta o\nu$, I came, subjv. $\mathring{\epsilon}\lambda\theta\omega$; $\mathring{\epsilon}i\delta o\nu$, I saw, subjv. $\mathring{\epsilon}\delta\omega$; $\mathring{\epsilon}\gamma\epsilon\nu\acute{\rho}\mu\eta\nu$, I became, subjv. $\gamma\acute{\epsilon}\nu\omega\mu\alpha\iota$. Observe that the augment does not appear in the subjv.

158. Examine the following:

- I. πιστεύωμεν είς αὐτόν, let us believe on Him.
- 2. πιστεύσωμεν είς αὐτόν, let us believe on Him.

Observe that there is no difference in translation between a present subjunctive and an aorist. The distinction ordinarily made between the present and the aorist is that the present denotes what is continued or extended, while the aorist expresses a simple act without any reference to a continuance of the same. In I the idea is Let us continue, or keep on having faith in him. In 2 the thought is Let us believe in him now, or get belief in him.

159. In dependent clauses with "va, in order that, and èav, if, either the pres. or aor. subjv. may be used, with the distinction in 158. The aorist subjunctive does not denote past time, but is present or future with reference to the principal verb.

- 160. The 2 aor. part. has the same endings as the present, $-\omega\nu$, $-\mu\epsilon\nu\sigma\varsigma$, 90 and 99, with the accent on -ών. ὁ ἐλθών, he having come; ὁ ἰδών, he having seen; ὁ εἰπών, he having said; ὁ ἀποθανών, he having died; ὁ λαβών, he having received: o vevouevos, he having become.
- 161. The 2 aor. inf. also has the endings of the present, $-\epsilon \iota \nu$, $-\sigma \theta a \iota$, 89 and 98, with (^) on the ultima of the active and the (') on the penult of the middle. $\partial \theta \hat{\epsilon} \hat{\nu}$, to come; $\partial \hat{\epsilon} \hat{\nu}$, to see; $\hat{\epsilon} \hat{\iota} \pi \hat{\epsilon} \hat{\nu}$, to say; ἀποθανείν, to die; λαβείν, to receive; γενέσθαι, to become.

LESSON XXII.

IRREGULAR ADJECTIVES OF THE CONSONANT DECLENSION.

163.

VOCABULARY.

άγοράζω, buy. άδύνατος, impossible. άκάθαρτος, unclean. άμαρτωλός, ό, sinner. άπας, all. βιβλίον, book, Bible. βούλομαι, wish. ἐλεύθερος, free. μέγας, great. ὅτε, conj., when.

ψεύστης, ό, liar.

- 164. Learn the declension of $\pi o \lambda \dot{v}_s$, much, and $\mu \dot{\epsilon} \gamma a s$, great, § 36. To be observed:
- I. That both these adjectives have Two distinct stems, a longer and a shorter form, of which the former is more frequent.

- 2. That they are declined, for the most part, in the first and second declension.
- 165. Learn the declension of $\pi \hat{a}_{S}$, all, § 36, and note the following peculiarities:
- I. The masc. and neut. are declined in the third declension, while the fem. is declined in the first declension
- 2. The stem is $\pi a \nu \tau$ -, and the nom. masc. is formed by adding s, as in mute stems. In the fem. nom. sing. $-\sigma a$ is added. Cf. 127, 2.
- 3. $\nu\tau$ drops before ς of nom. sing. and $-\sigma\iota$ of the dat. plur. Cf. 132.
- 4. The accent in the masc, and neut, sing, is that of monosyllables of the third declension, 108, while in the plur. it is an exception to the rule.

166. EXERCISES.

LESSON XXIII.

PERFECT INDICATIVE ACTIVE AND PASSIVE.

167.

VOCABULARY.

άληθῶς, adv., truly.
άμαρτάνω, sin.
άναβαίνω, go up.
ἄνωθεν, adv., from above.
διαθήκη, ή, covenant.
έορτή, ή, feast.
έξω, adv. w. gen., without.
έπί, prep. w. gen., upon;
w. acc., to, on, over.
ήλιος, ό, sun.

168. The perf. ind. of $\lambda \dot{\nu} \omega$ is:

ACTIVE.

3. λέ-λυ-κε

Sing.

PASSIVE or MIDDLE.

λέ-λυ-κα, I have loosed, λέ-λυ-κας etc.

λέ-λυ-μαι, I have been loosed or λέ-λυ-σαι have freed for λέ-λυ-ται myself.

φιλέω, love.

Plur.

λε-λύ-κα-μεν
 λε-λύ-κα-τε

3. λε-λύ-κα-σι

λε-λύ-μεθα λέ-λυ-σθε λέ-λυ-νται

169. Observe: 1. That the tense suffix in the act. is $-\kappa a$, with which compare $-\sigma a$ of the aor. 2. That the 3 per. plur. act. has $-\sigma \iota$, which shows the endings to be primary. In the sing. the endings do not appear as primary, but are the same as in the aor. act. The $\mu \iota$, $\sigma \iota$, etc., never occur here. 3. That besides the augment there is the initial consonant of the verb, which extra syllable $\lambda \epsilon$ - is called reduplication. 4. That the perf. pass. has the reduplication and the primary pass. endings, which are added directly to the theme without the intervention of any tense suffix.

170. The following forms will indicate the perfect of a few verbs:

νικάω, conquer ... Perf. Act. νε-νίκη-κα πιστεύω, believe ... Perf. Act. πε-πίστευ-κα άγαπάω, love ... Perf. Act. ήγάπη-κα αιτέω, ask for ... Perf. Act. ήτη-κα ¹ τελειόω, fulfil ... Perf. Pass. τε-τελείω-μαι γεννάω, beget ... Perf. Pass. γε-γέννη-μαι

It is seen from these examples that a short final vowel is lengthened before $-\kappa a$ or $-\mu a \iota$, as before all tense suffixes, and that a verb beginning with a vowel or a diphthong cannot have the reduplication, but the simple augment. For the principles of augment and reduplication, see § 77, 1, 2, 3, 4.

¹ See 36, 2 for this augment.

171. The perfect has many peculiarities, which need not concern the learner at this stage, and can well be left for larger hand-books or the lexicon.

Learn the following perfects of irregular verbs:

άκούω, hear 2 Perf. Act. ἀκ-ήκο-α γινώσκω, know . . . Perf. Act. ἔ-γνω-κα ὁράω, see Porf. Act. ἐ-ώρα-κα 172. A few verbs have a second perfect in -a, not -κa, § 54; e.g. γίνομαι, become, 2 perf. γέ-γον-a; έρχομαι, come, go, 2 perf. ἐλ-ήλυθ-a.

173. EXERCISES.

1. καὶ ἐν τούτῷ γινώσκομεν ὅτι ἐγνώκαμεν αὐτόν. 2. οἴδαμεν ὅτι ἔχομεν ἃ ἢτήκαμεν ἀπὰ αὐτοῦ. 3. ταῦτα λελάληκα ὑμῖν. 4. πᾶς ὁ ποιῶν τὴν δικαιοσύνην ἐξ αὐτοῦ γεγέννηται. 5. καὶ ἡμεῖς πεπιστεύκαμεν τὴν ἀγάπην ἢν ἔχει ὁ θεὸς ἐν ὑμῖν. 6. αὕτη δέ ἐστιν ἡ κρίσις ὅτι τὸ φῶς ἐλήλυθεν εἰς τὸν κόσμον. 7. τὰ ῥήματα ἃ ἐγὼ λελάληκα ὑμῖν πνεῦμά ἐστιν καὶ ζωή ἐστιν. 8. δ ἑωράκαμεν καὶ ἀκηκόαμεν ἀπαγγέλλομεν καὶ ὑμῖν. 9. ἐν τούτῷ ἡ ἀγάπη τοῦ θεοῦ τετελείωται. 10. γράφω ὑμῖν, πατέρες, ὅτι ἐγνώκατε αὐτὸν ἀπὰ ἀρχῆς. 11. ἐν τούτῷ ἐστὶν ἡ ἀγάπη, οὐχ ὅτι ἡμεῖς ἢγαπήκαμεν τὸν θεὸν, ἀλλ' ὅτι αὐτὸς ἡγάπησεν ἡμᾶς. 12. αὐτὸς γὰρ ὁ πατὴρ φιλεῖ ὑμᾶς, ὅτι ὑμεῖς ἐμὲ πεφιλήκατε καὶ πεπιστεύκατε ὅτι έγω παρά του πατρός έξηλθον. 13. ψεύστην πεποίηκε αὐτὸν ὅτι οὐ πεπίστευκεν εἰς τὴν μαρτυρίαν ην μεμαρτύρηκεν ὁ θεὸς περὶ τοῦ υίοῦ αὐτοῦ.

LESSON XXIV.

AORIST PASSIVE INDICATIVE AND SUBJUNCTIVE.

174. VOCABULARY.

άναγινώσκω, read. aupiov, adv., to-morrow. βλασφημέω, BLASPHEME. yeveá, ή, generation. διδαχή, ή, teaching. έγγύς, adv., near. láoµai, heal. κελεύω, command. λυπέω, grieve.

πάσχα, τό, indecl., Passover. πόθεν, adv., ruhence. πρωί, adv., early in the morn ing. σοφός, ruise. σταυρόω, crucify.

ύπό, prep. w. gen. and acc under. φωνέω, call.

175. The aor. pass. of $\lambda \dot{\nu} \omega$ is —

INDICATIVE. SUBJUNCTIVE. Sing. I. έ-λύ-θη-ν λυ-θῶ 2. έ-λύ-θη-ς λυ-θής 3. ἐ-λύ-θη λυ-θη Plur. Ι. έ-λύ-θη-μεν λυ-θώ-μεν 2. έ-λύ-θη-τε λυ-θη-τε 3. έ-λύ-θη-σαν λυ-θῶ-σι

176. Observe the following:

I. The suffix for the aor, pass, is $\theta \epsilon$, which is $\theta\eta$ in the ind., and contracts with $-\omega$, $-\eta s$, etc., of the subjv. with the circumflex. See § 5, 8 and § 6, 5.

- 2. The personal endings in the aor. ind. pass. are the secondary active. So likewise in the subjy. are found not pass., but act. endings.
- 177. Before $-\theta\epsilon$ a short final vowel is lengthened; e.g. ποιέω, do, ἐποιήθην; φανερόω, make manifest, έφανερώθην.
- 178. A theme in a mute stem (§ 2) is changed before $-\theta\epsilon$; e.g. $\ddot{a}\gamma\omega$, lead, $\ddot{\eta}\chi\theta\eta\nu$; $\pi\epsilon i\theta\omega$, persuade, έπείσθην.

$$\kappa$$
, γ , $\chi + \theta \epsilon = \chi \theta \epsilon$
 π , β , $\phi + \theta \epsilon = \phi \theta \epsilon$ τ , δ , $\theta + \theta \epsilon = \sigma \theta \epsilon$

- 179. Some deponent verbs (76) have an aor, pass. Such are called passive deponents; e.g. πορεύομαι, σο, ἐπορεύθην, Ι went; ἀποκρίνομαι, reply, απεκρίθην, I replied.
- 180. In some verbs there is found a 2 aor. pass. with the suffix ϵ only; e.g. $\gamma \rho \dot{\alpha} \phi \omega$, write, 2 aor. pass. ἐγράφη, it was written. See 2 aor. pass. of $\phi a i \nu \omega$, § 58.

181. EXERCISES.

I. καὶ ἡ ζωὴ ἐν αὐτῷ ἐφανερώθη. 2. καὶ ἀ $\pi\epsilon$ κρίθησαν οἱ μαθηταὶ αὐτοῦ. 3. καὶ ἐξελθών έπορεύθη είς έτερον τόπον. 4. ὅτι ἐγγὺς ἦν ὁ τόπος της πόλεως όπου έσταυρώθη ό Ίησους. 5. έαν δε πορευθώ πέμψω αὐτον προς ύμας

6. οὐκ ἐξ αἰμάτων οὐδὲ ἐκ θελήματος σαρκὸς οὐδὲ ἐκ θελήματος ἀνδρὸς ἀλλ' ἐκ θεοῦ ἐγεννήθησαν. 7. εἰς (for) τοῦτο ἐφανερώθη ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ θεοῦ ἵνα λύση τὰ ἔργα διαβόλου. 8. οἴδαμεν ὅτι ἐὰν αὐτὸς φανερωθῆ ὅμοιοι (like) αὐτῷ ἐσόμεθα. 9. ἀπεκρίθη ὁ Ἰησοῦς καὶ εἶπεν αὐτοῖς τοῦτό ἐστι τὸ ἔργον τοῦ θεοῦ. 10. οἶδα πόθεν ἔρχομαι καὶ ποῦ ὑπάγω· ὑμεῖς δὲ οὐκ οἴδατε πόθεν ἔρχομαι ἡ ποῦ ὑπάγω.

Participles.

VOCABULARY.

άρνίον, τό, lamb.
δυνατός, possible, able.
ἐκλεκτός, ό, chosen, ELECT.
ἔνεκα, prep. w. gen., on account of.
ἐπαύριον, adv., on the morrow.

A.	ὄντα	οὖσαν	őν	ővtas	οὖσας	ő ута

184. Observe the following:

- 1. This participle is declined in three genders, sing. and plur. the same as $\pi \hat{a}_{5}$, 165.
- 2. The stem $o\nu\tau$ becomes $\omega\nu$ in nom. masc. sing., and $o\nu\sigma$ a is for $o\nu\tau\sigma$ a in nom. fem. sing. The neut. sing. is the mere stem. Cf. 106, 5.

185. Learn the pres. act. part. of $\lambda \dot{\nu} \omega$, § 43.

Note that the pres. part. act. of any verb in $-\omega$ is the present stem of the verb with the pres. part. of $\epsilon i\mu l$.

What is the pres. act. part. of $\partial \kappa \omega \omega$, hear, $\lambda \dot{\omega} \omega$, say, $\kappa \rho \dot{\omega} \omega$, judge, $\gamma \dot{\omega} \omega \omega$, know?

Participles are accented like adjectives, not with the recessive accent of verbs.

- 186. Second agrist participles in $-\omega\nu$ (160) are declined the same as pres. part. in $-\omega\nu$.
- 187. The same tense signs are found in the participles as occur in the tenses of the indicative.

 Fut. Aor. Perf.

ACTIVE. $-\sigma$ - $-\sigma\alpha$ - $-\kappa$ -

MIDDLE. $-\sigma$ - $\sigma \alpha$ - No sign but the accent on the penult. - $\mu \epsilon \nu \sigma \gamma$ - PASSIVE. $-\theta \eta \sigma$ - $-\theta \epsilon$ - " " " " "

For the changes before tense suffixes, see 124 and 178.

188. Learn the aor. act. and pass. part. of $\lambda \dot{\nu} \omega$, § 43, and observe the same principles in the formation of the nom. sing. as in the pres. act. part.

In the aor. pass. the form $\lambda \nu \theta \epsilon i \varsigma$, which has irregular accent, is for $\lambda \nu \theta \epsilon \nu \tau \varsigma$, 165, 3. ϵ is lengthened to $\epsilon \iota$.

189. All middle and passive participles, except the aorist passive, have the ending -μενος.

Pres. Fut. Aor. Perf.

MIDDLE. $\lambda \nu$ -ό-μενος $\lambda \nu$ -σ-ό-μενος $\lambda \nu$ -σά-μενος $\lambda \epsilon$ - $\lambda \nu$ -μένος PASSIVE. Same as the middle, except the fut. pass. is $\lambda \nu$ -θη-σό-μενος.

190. Examine the following:

- ἀποκριθεὶς ταῦτα ἀπῆλθεν.
 - a. Having said this
 - b. When he said this he went away.
 - c. He said this and
 - 2. πορευόμενοι δε ήμεις έκηρύσσομεν.
 - a. Going moreover
 - b. As we advanced \ we preached.
 - c. While we advanced.
 - 3. ἰδών δὲ ταῦτα ἐθαύμαζεν.
 - a. Seeing this (these)
 - b. When he saw this \ he marvelled.
 - c. Because he saw this

191. Observe in these sentences:

1. The participle agrees in number and case with the subject of the verb.

- 2. While the participle may be rendered into English by a participle (Ex. 1 a, 2 a, and 3 a), it more naturally takes the form of a dependent clause denoting time or cause.
- 3. The tense of the participle is relative to the tense of the principal verb.

192. Examine the following:

- I. τοῖς ἀκούουσι, to those who hear.
- 2. περὶ τοῦ γινώσκοντος, concerning him who knows.
- 3. τον γεννήσαντα, him who has begotten.
- 4. ὁ γεγεννημένος, he who is begotten.
- 193. Observe that the article with the participle may occur in any case, and is equivalent to a relative clause in English.

The participle is a most common form of verbal expression in Greek, and to understand a few of its many uses is an essential to even a meagre knowledge of the language. Some of the most ordinary uses have been here explained; and if these models are thoroughly mastered, little difficulty need confront the learner in the narrative passages of the New Testament.

194. EXERCISES.

LESSON XXVI.

Interrogative and Indefinite Pronouns.

195.

VOCABULARY.

άγορά, ή, market-place. άγρός, ό, field. διακονέω, minister. CON. θεραπεύω, heal. θηρίον, τό, wild beast. μάλλον, adv., more, rather.

μαρτυρία, ή, witness. olvos, o, wine. οὐκέτι, adv., not yet, no longer. διάκονος, δ, minister, DEA- όταν, conj. w. subj., when. ποτέ, adv., once, ever. πρόβατον, τό, sheep. τότε, adv., then. ταχέως, adv., quickly. φεύγω, flee, escape.

1 For the contraction cov, see § 8. ² For ω instead of αo, see § 5, 1.

4 See § 8, 1.

³ A participle may be used in the genitive to agree with a noun, pronoun, or adjective. This construction has no grammatical connection with the rest of the sentence, and is called genitive absolute. A conjunction, as while, when, because, must be used in translating such phrases into English.

196. Learn the declension of the interrogative pronoun τi_s , who? and τi , what? and the indefinite pronoun τi_s , some one, and τi , something, § 41.

Observe the following:

- 1. Both the interrogative and indefinite pronouns are declined alike.
- 2. The interrogative pronoun has the acute on the first syllable, while the indefinite has the grave on the last syllable, or, in other words, has no accent of its own, and is therefore an enclitic.

197. Examine the following:

1. συ τίς εί; who art thou?

2. τίς ἔστιν ὁ ἄνθρωπος; who is the man?

3. τίνα ζητείτε; whom do you seek?

4. γινώσκετε τί πεποίηκα, ye know what I have done.

Note that the interrogative τi is used in both direct (1, 2, 3) and indirect (4) questions.

198. Examine the following:

- ἐὰν μή τις γεννηθῆ ἄνωθεν, unless one shall be born from above.
- 2. τινες δε εξ αὐτῶν εἶπον, certain ones of them said.

3. καί τις ἀνηρ χωλός, and a certain lame man.

4. ἐάν τι αἰτήσητέ με ἐν τῷ ὀνόματί μου τοῦτο ποιήσω, If you shall ask anything of me in my name, I shall do it.

Observe that the indefinite τ 's is enclitic when it is possible.

These pronouns are of the most frequent occurrence in the New Testament, each being found several hundred times.

199. The following are the infinitives of $\lambda i \omega$:

Pres.Fut.Aor.Perf.ACTIVE. $\lambda \dot{\nu}$ -ειν $\lambda \dot{\nu}$ -σαι $\lambda \epsilon$ -λυ-κ-έ-ναιMIDDLE. $\lambda \dot{\nu}$ -ε-σθαι $\lambda \dot{\nu}$ -σε-σθαι $\lambda \dot{\nu}$ -σα-σθαι $\lambda \epsilon$ -λ $\dot{\nu}$ -σθαιPASSIVE. $\lambda \dot{\nu}$ -ε-σθαι $\lambda \nu$ -θ $\dot{\eta}$ -σε-σθαι $\lambda \nu$ -θ $\dot{\eta}$ -γαι $\lambda \epsilon$ - $\lambda \dot{\nu}$ -σθαι

It is to be observed that the ending $a\iota$ is everywhere short in the infinitive, and that the infinitive in - $\nu a\iota$ has irregular accent, as well as the perf. pass. in - $\sigma \theta a\iota$.

200. The infinitives of εἰμί, am, are εἶναι, pres., and ἔσεσθαι, fut. Of οἶδα, I know, the infinitive is εἰδέναι, to know.

201. EXERCISES.

τί δὲ ὑμῖν δοκεῖ;
 ἐάν τις ἀγαπῷ τὸν κόσμον, οὐκ ἔστιν ἡ ἀγάπη τοῦ πατρὸς ἐν αὐτῷ.
 ἐάν τι αἰτώμεθα κατὰ (according to) τὸ θέλημα αὐτοῦ ἀκούει ἡμῶν.

ἀποκριθεὶς ὁ Πέτρος λέγει αὐτῷ Σὰ εἶ ὁ Χριστός. 8. ἀγαπητοί, νῦν τέκνα θεοῦ ἐσμεν, καὶ οὕπω ἐφανερώθη τί ἐσόμεθα. οἴδαμεν ὅτι ἐὰν φανερωθῆ ὅμοιοι αὐτῷ ἐσόμεθα ὅτι ὀψόμεθα (shall see) αὐτὸν καθώς ἐστιν. 9. καὶ πορευομένων αὐτῶν¹ ἐν τῆ ὁδῷ εἶπέν τις πρὸς αὐτὸν ᾿Ακολουθήσω σοι. 10. ὅταν γὰρ ἀσθενῶ τότε δυνατός εἰμι.

LESSON XXVII.

FUTURE AND AORIST OF LIQUID VERBS.

202.

VOCABULARY.

άποκτείνω, kill.
δίκτυον, τό, net.
ἐκτείνω, stretch out.
ἐπαίρω, raise up.
ἐπιτιμάω, rebuke.
καθίζω, sit.
μακρόθεν, adv., from afar.
νυμφίος, ὁ, bridegroom.

όφείλω, ought.
πάσχω, suffer.
πειράζω, tempt.
πλούσιος, rich.
ποτήριον, τό, cup.
στρατιώτης, ό, soldier.
σωτηρία, ή, salvation.
φρόνιμος, wise.

203. The future of $\mu \acute{e}\nu \omega$, remain, is:

ACTIVE.

MIDDLE.

2. μενείτε (μεν-έ-ε-τε) μενείσθε (μεν-έ-ε-σθε)3. μενούσι (μεν-έ-ου-σι) μενούνται (μεν-έ-ο-νται)

Observe: I. That $\mu \acute{e}\nu \omega$ is a liquid verb (theme ending in λ , μ , ν , or ρ). 2. The suffix for the future is not $\sigma\%$, but e%. 3. This short vowel contracts with the variable vowel. See § 5, 7 and 8; § 6, 7; § 7, 2. 4. When one of the uncontracted syllables has an accent, the contracted form must have an accent — the circumflex when possible.

204. This contraction may be seen more simply if represented thus: $\epsilon \% = {}^{ov}/_{\epsilon\iota}$; i.e. ov occurs before μ and ν , and $\epsilon\iota$ in all other forms.

The present and imperfect indicative of themes ending in ϵ have the same contraction as the future of liquid verbs. Learn $\phi \iota \lambda \dot{\epsilon} \omega$, § 59.

- 205. The fut. ind. of $a\mathring{l}\rho\omega$ $(a\rho^{-1})$, take away, is $\mathring{u}\rho\mathring{\omega}$; of $\mathring{u}\pi o\sigma \tau \acute{\epsilon}\lambda\lambda\omega$ $(a\pi o\sigma \tau \epsilon\lambda^{-1})$, send, is $\mathring{a}\pi o\sigma \tau \epsilon\lambda\mathring{\omega}$; of $\mathring{\epsilon}\gamma\epsilon \acute{l}\rho\omega$ $(\epsilon\gamma\epsilon \rho^{-1})$, raise up, is $\mathring{\epsilon}\gamma\epsilon \rho\mathring{\omega}$; of $\mathring{\epsilon}\pi a\gamma\gamma\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\lambda\omega$ $(\epsilon\pi a\gamma\gamma\epsilon\lambda^{-1})$, promise, is $\mathring{\epsilon}\pi a\gamma\gamma\epsilon\lambda\mathring{\omega}$; of $\mathring{u}\pi o\kappa \tau \epsilon \iota\nu\omega$ $(a\pi o\kappa \tau \epsilon \nu^{-1})$, kill, is $\mathring{u}\pi o\kappa \tau \epsilon \nu\mathring{\omega}$.
- 206. Rule: The future of all liquid verbs is formed by the suffix $\epsilon\%$.
- 207. The aor. ind. of $\mu \acute{\epsilon} \nu \omega$ is $\acute{\epsilon} \mu \epsilon \iota \nu \alpha$, subjv. $\mu \acute{\epsilon} \iota \nu \omega$, part. $\mu \acute{\epsilon} \iota \nu \alpha \varsigma$, inf. $\mu \acute{\epsilon} \iota \nu \alpha \iota$.

The aor. ind. of $\epsilon \pi a \gamma \gamma \epsilon \lambda \lambda \omega$ is $\epsilon \pi i \gamma \gamma \gamma \epsilon \iota \lambda - a$, subjv. $\epsilon \pi a \gamma \gamma \epsilon \iota \lambda - \omega$, part. $\epsilon \pi a \gamma \gamma \epsilon \iota \lambda - a s$, inf. $\epsilon \pi a \gamma \gamma \epsilon \iota \lambda - a \iota$; $\kappa \rho \iota \nu \omega$, ind. $\epsilon \kappa \rho \iota \nu - a$, subjv. $\kappa \rho \iota \nu - \omega$, part. $\kappa \rho \iota \nu - a s$, inf. $\kappa \rho \iota \nu - a \iota$.

208. Rule: The aorist active and middle of liquid verbs have no σ , but form the aorist by lengthening the last vowel in the theme to the corresponding long vowel. ϵ , however, changes to $\epsilon \iota$, and a to η (except before ϵ , ι , or ρ). Cf. 53, 1.

209. EXERCISES.

1. ἀποστελεῖ ὁ υίὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου τοὺς ἀγγέλους αὐτοῦ. 2. καὶ αὕτη ἐστὶν ἡ ἐπαγγελία (promise) ἢν αὐτὸς ἐπηγγείλατο ἡμῖν τὴν ζωὴν αἰώνιον. 3. ὁ ἐγείρας τον Ἰησοῦν καὶ ἡμᾶς σὺν Ἰησοῦ¹ ἐγερεῖ. 4. ἢραν τὸν κύριον ἐκ τοῦ μνημείου² καὶ οὐκ οἴδαμεν ποῦ ἔθηκαν (laid) αὐτόν. 5. ὁ δεχόμενος ὑμᾶς ἐμὲ δέχεται, καὶ ὁ ἐμὲ δεχόμενος δέχεται τὸν ἀποστείλαντά με. 6. καθὼς ἐμὲ ἀπέστειλας εἰς τὸν κόσμον κὰγὼ³ ἀπέστειλα αὐτοὺς εἰς τὸν κόσμον κὰγὼ³ ἀπέστειλα αὐτοὺς εἰς τὸν κόσμον. 7. ἐὰν ἐν ὑμῖν μείνη ὁ ἀπ' ἀρχῆς ἡκούσατε, καὶ ὑμεῖς ἐν τῷ υίῷ καὶ (also) ἐν τῷ πατρὶ μενεῖτε. 8. διὰ τοῦτο καὶ ἡ σοφία τοῦ θεοῦ εἶπεν ᾿Αποστελῶ εἰς αὐτοὺς προφήτας καὶ ἀποστόλους. 9. ἦν δὲ ἐγγὺς τὸ πάσχα, ἡ

LESSON XXVIII.

PRONOUNS: REFLEXIVE, RECIPROCAL.

210.

VOCABULARY.

άναπίπτω, recline, fall down. καθαρός, purified.
γέμω, fill. κρατέω, grasp.
δένδρον, τό, tree. μακάριος, blessed.
δῶρον, τό, gift. μισθός, ὁ, hire, pay.
ἐλπίζω, hope. μυστήριον, τό, MYSTERY ἔξεστι, it is lawful. σός, thy.
θυσία, ή, sacrifice. φρονέω, think.
ἰκανός, sufficient, able. ὥστε, conj., so that, and so.\footnote{1}

211. Learn the declension of the reflexive pronouns ἐμαυτοῦ, myself, σεαυτοῦ, thyself, ἑαυτοῦ, himself, § 40.

Observe: I. These pronouns occur in the oblique cases only. 2. They are formed from the personal pronoun and the intensive $a \vec{v} \tau \delta s$, $\vec{\epsilon} \mu a v \tau c \hat{v} = \vec{\epsilon} \mu + a \vec{v} \tau c \hat{v}$; $\vec{\epsilon} a v \tau c \hat{v} = \vec{\epsilon} \epsilon + a \vec{v} \tau c \hat{v}$; $\vec{\epsilon} a v \tau c \hat{v} = \vec{\epsilon}$ (pron. not found in N. T.) $+ a \vec{v} \tau c \hat{v}$.

212. $\dot{\epsilon}av\tau o\hat{v}$ is often written in a shorter form $a\dot{v}\tau o\hat{v}$, $a\dot{v}\tau\hat{\varphi}$, etc.

213. Examine the following:

 ἐγὼ μαρτυρῶ περὶ ἐμαυτοῦ, I bear witness concerning myself.

2. ἐγὼ δοξάζω ἐμαυτόν, I glorify myself.

3. ἀπ' ἐμαυτοῦ οὐ λαλῶ, I speak not of myself.

 τί λέγεις περὶ σεαυτοῦ, what sayest thou concerning thyself.

5. δοξάσει αὐτὸν ἐν ἐαυτῷ, he will glorify Him in himself.

6. αὐτοὶ ἐν ἑαυτοῖς στενάζομεν, we ourselves groan within ourselves.

In all these examples the pronoun refers back to the subject of the sentence, hence the term reflexive.

Note that the 3 per. pron. ἐαυτοῖς may refer (as in Ex. 6) to other than the 3 per.

214. The reciprocal pronoun ἀλλήλων, of one another, is found in dat. ἀλλήλοις, and acc. ἀλλήλους. μισοῦσιν ἀλλήλους, they hate one another.

215. EXERCISES.

τίνα σεαυτὸν ποιεῖς;
 αὐτὸς δὲ Ἰησοῦς οὐκ ἐπίστευσεν αὐτὸν αὐτοῖς.
 οἱ μαθηταί σου ποιοῦσι ὁ οὐκ ἔξεστιν ποιεῖν ἐν σαββάτφ.
 ὥστε μαρτυρεῖτε ἑαυτοῖς ὅτι υἱοί ἐστε τῶν φονευσάντων¹ τοὺς προφήτας.
 ἀπ᾽ ἐμαυτοῦ οὐκ ἐλήλυθα.
 δ. ὁ γὰρ πατὴρ ἔχει ζωὴν ἐν έαυτῷ. 7. ἐὰν εἰπωμεν ὅτι ἁμαρτίαν οὐκ ἔχομεν, ἡμῖν. 8. ἐλπὶς δὲ βλεπομένη οὐκ ἔστιν ἐλπίς, δ γὰρ βλέπει τίς ἐλπίζει; 9. ἀμὴν ἀμὴν λέγω σοι, ἐὰν μή τις γεννηθἢ ἄνωθεν, οὐ δύναται ἰδεῖν τὴν βασιλείαν τοῦ θεοῦ, τὸ γεγεννημένον ἐκ τῆς σαρκὸς σάρξ ἐστιν, καὶ τὸ γεγεννημένον ἔκ τοῦ πνεύματος πνεῦμά ἐστιν.

LESSON XXIX.

IMPERATIVE MOOD.

216.

VOCABULARY.

άποκαλύπτω, reveal. βαστάζω, touch, bear. γαμέω, marry. γνωστός, known. δύο, two. εἶs, one. ἐλάχιστος, least. καθάπερ, even as. κακῶς, adv., ill, badly. καλῶς, adv., well.
κλαίω, weep.
μετανοέω, repent.
πλήν, conj., and as a prep. w
gen., except.
σήμερον, adv., to-day.
τέσσαρες, four.
τρεῖς, three.
ὕστερον, adv., afterward.

217. The pres. imp. of $\lambda \dot{\nu} \omega$ is:

ACTIVE. MIDDLE and PASSIVE. Sing. 2. $\lambda \hat{v} - \epsilon$ $\lambda \hat{v} - o v$ 3. $\lambda v - \hat{\epsilon} - \tau \omega$ $\lambda v - \hat{\epsilon} - \sigma \theta \omega$ $Plur. 2. <math>\lambda \hat{v} - \epsilon - \tau \epsilon$ $\lambda \hat{v} - \epsilon - \sigma \theta \epsilon$

3. λυ-ό-ντων or λυ-έ-τωσαν

λυ-έ-σθων or λυ-έ-σθωταν

218. The endings of the imp. are:

ACT	IVE.	MIDDLE an	d PASSIVE.
Sing.	Plur.	Sing.	Plur.
2. θι	т€	2. TO	σθε
3. τω	ντων or	ვ. თმω	σθων or
	τωσαν		σθωσαν

- a. θ_l of the act. is regularly dropped in verbs like $\lambda \dot{\nu} \omega$.
- b. $\lambda \dot{v}ov$ is for $\lambda \dot{v} \epsilon \sigma o$.

219. Examine the following:

ἀκουέτω, let him hear. μη θαυμάζετε, marvel not.

Rule: The imperative is used to express a command. The negative is $\mu \dot{\eta}$.

- 220. Learn the aor. imp. act., mid., and pass. of $\lambda \acute{\nu} \omega$, § 56, and the 2 aor. act. and mid. of $\lambda \epsilon \acute{\iota} \pi \omega$, § 57.
 - a. ov in the aor. act. is an irregular ending.
- δ . $\theta\iota$ in aor. pass. becomes $\tau\iota$ to avoid a combination of rough 1 mutes.
- 221. $o\dot{v}\delta\epsilon\dot{\iota}\varsigma$, no one $(o\dot{v}\delta\dot{\epsilon}, nor + \epsilon\dot{\iota}\varsigma, one)$, is declined as follows:

οὐδείς	οὐδεμία	οὐδέν
οὐδενός	ούδεμιᾶς	οὐδενός
ούδενί	οὐδεμιαῖ	οὐδενί
οὐδένα	οὐδεμίαν	οὐδέν

Cf. els, § 39.

222.

EXERCISES.

1. λέγει αὐτῷ Φίλιππος ἔρχου καὶ ἴδε.
2. μετανοείτε καὶ πιστεύετε ἐν τῷ εὐαγγελίῳ.
3. πορεύθητι πρὸς τὸν λαόν. 4. καλῶς ποιείτε τοῖς μισοῦσιν ὑμᾶς. 5. ὁ δὲ Ἰησοῦς εἶπεν αὐτῷ τί¹ με λέγεις ἀγαθόν; οὐδεὶς ἀγαθὸς εἰ² μὴ εἶς ὁ θεός.
6. οἱ δὲ πάλιν (again) ἔκραξαν Σταύρωσον αὐτόν.
7. ὁ ἔχων ὧτα³ ἀκούειν ἀκουέτω. 8. ὁ θεὸς φῶς ἐστι καὶ σκοτία οὐκ ἔστιν ἐν αὐτῷ οὐδεμία.⁴ 9. ἔτι πολλὰ ἔχω ὑμῖν λέγειν, ἀλλ' οὐ δύνασθε βαστάζειν.
10. πάντα δι' αὐτοῦ ἐγένετο, καὶ χωρὶς αὐτοῦ ἐγένετο οὐδὲ ἔν. 11. μὴ κρίνετε ἵνα μὴ κριθῆτε.
12. ὁ πιστὸς ἐν ἐλαχίστῳ καὶ ἐν πολλῷ πιστός ἐστιν, καὶ ὁ ἐν ἐλαχίστῳ ἄδικος καὶ ἐν πολλῷ ἄδικός ἐστιν. 13. μὴ θαυμάζετε, ἀδελφοί, εἰ μισεῖ ὑμᾶς ὁ κόσμος.

LESSON XXX.

ADJECTIVES IN -OV AND $-\epsilon\sigma$. — COMPARISON.

223.

VOCABULARY.

άληθής, true. ἀσθενής, weak, sick. ἄφρων, foolish. γάμος, ό, marriage, polyGAMY δεσμός, ό, chain, bond. διώκω, persecute, pursue.

4 See § 142.

¹ The neuter τl often has the sense of why.

² If. ⁸ See irregular nouns, § 34.

μονογενής, only begotien. δλίγος, few, OLIGarchy. περισσός, abundant. πλήρης, full. προσευχή, ή, prayer. σκανδαλίζω, cause to stumble, SCANDALIZE.

τρέχω, τιιπ.

ύγιής, whole, healthy, HY-GIENE.

ὕψιστος, highest.

224. Learn the declension of $\partial \lambda \eta \theta \dot{\eta} s$, true (§ 35), with which compare $\gamma \dot{\epsilon} \nu o s$ (§ 30). Observe that there are but two endings—the masc. and fem. being alike.

a. -εις of the acc. plur. is irregular.

See § 35 for the declension of $\mathring{a}\phi\rho\omega\nu$.

225. Examine the following adjectives:

Superlative. Positing. Comparative. Ι. ζσχυρός, ζσχυρό-τερος, (Ισχυρό-τατος), strong. strong-er. strong-est. 2. ἀσθενής, άσθενέσ-τερος, (άσθενέσ-τατος), weak-er. weak-est. weak. 3. σοφός, σοφώ-τερος. (σοφώ-τατος), wise-r. wise-st. wise. (νεώ-τατος), 1. véos. νεώ-τερος. young-er. young est. young.

Observe: 1. That in all these examples something is added to make the degrees. $-\tau\epsilon\rho\circ\varsigma = r$ or ϵr and $-\tau\alpha\tau\circ\varsigma = st$ or ϵst . 2. These are added directly to the stem. 3. When the penultimate vowel is short, as in 3 and 4, the o of the stem becomes ω before $-\tau\epsilon\rho\circ\varsigma$ and $-\tau\alpha\tau\circ\varsigma$.

226. The suffixes may be $-\iota\omega\nu$ (declined like $\mathring{a}\phi\rho\omega\nu$) and $-\iota\sigma\tau\sigma$, but mostly in the irregular adjectives. See § 37, 2, and learn the adjectives in § 38.

227. Examine the following adverbs:

Positive.	Comparative.	Superlative.
κακῶς, badly.	χεῖρον	()
καλῶς, well.	κάλλιον	(κάλλιστα)
ταχέως, quickly.	τάχιον	(τάχιστα)

It is to be observed: I. The positive of the adverb ends in s. How different from the gen. plur. of the adj.? 2. The comparative of the adverb is the neut. sing. acc. of the adjective. 3. The superlative of the adverb is the neut. plur. acc. of the superlative of the adjective.

228. Examine the following:

μείζονα ἀγάπην ταύτης οὐκ οἴδαμεν, greater love than this we know not.

Rule: The comparative degree is followed by the genitive case.

229. EXERCISES.

1. οὖτος δέ ἐστιν πλήρης χάριτος καὶ ἀληθείας. 2. οἴδαμεν ὅτι ἀληθὴς εἶ. 3. ὁ δὲ ὀπίσω 1 μου

¹ After. Adverbs of position are followed by the genitive.

ἐρχόμενος ἰσχυρότερός μου ἐστίν. 4. ἄφρων, ταύτη τῆ νυκτὶ τὴν ψυχήν σου αἰτοῦσι ἀπό σου. 5. οὔκ ἐστιν δοῦλος μείζων τοῦ κυρίου αὐτοῦ οὐδὲ ἀπόστολος μείζων τοῦ πέμψαντος αὐτόν. 6. καὶ δόξα ἐν ὑψίστοις. 7. εἰ ἐμὲ ἐδίωξαν, καὶ ὑμᾶς διώξουσιν· εἰ τὸν λόγον μου ἐτήρησαν, καὶ τὸν ὑμέτερον τηρήσουσιν, ἀλλὰ ταῦτα πάντα ποιήσουσιν εἰς ὑμᾶς διὰ τὸ ὀνομά μου, ὅτι οὐκ οἴδασιν τὸν πέμψαντά με. 8. Σάββατόν ἐστι, καὶ οὐκ ἔξεστίν σοι ἄραι τὸν κράβαττον (bed). ος δὲ ἀπεκρίθη αὐτοῖς ὁ ποιήσας με ὑγιῆ ἐκεῖνός μοι εἶπεν ᾿Αρον τὸν κράβαττόν σου καὶ περιπάτει.

LESSON XXXI.

REGULAR VERBS IN μι: δίδωμι, give.

230. Of the two conjugations in Greek (see 73) the verbs in -ω are by far the more common. Still, those that have the older endings -μι, -ς, etc., form a very substantial part of the ordinary verbal forms; e.g. ἀφίημι, forgive; δείκνυμι, show; δίδωμι, give; εἰμί, am; ἵστημι, set; ὅμνυμι, swear; τίθημι, put, place; φημί, say. These words, it is easily seen, are naturally of very common use. Hence they are among the old verbs of the language, and may be called strong verbs, having, as they do, the strong endings.

- 231. The conjugation of these verbs differs from the conjugation of the verbs in $-\omega$, in two systems only—the pres. and 2 aor. systems. In these two systems the verbs in $\mu\iota$ have no variable vowel %, but the endings are added directly to the theme, § 85.
- 232. Learn the principal parts of $\delta i \delta \omega \mu \iota$ (§ 88) and the pres. and 2 aor. systems, act., §§ 62 and 63. (The mid. and pass. of these systems are very rare.)
- 233. The most important compounds of $\delta i \delta \omega \mu \iota$ are with the following prepositions, $\pi a \rho \dot{a}$, $\dot{a} \pi \dot{b}$, $\dot{\epsilon} \pi \dot{\iota}$.
- 234. Observe the following on the forms of the verbs in $\mu\iota$:
 - I. The old endings $\mu\iota$, etc., occur.
 - 2. $-\bar{a}\sigma\iota$ ends the 3 per. plur. primary.
- 3. $-\sigma a\nu$, and not ν , is found in the secondary tenses 3 per. plur.
 - 235. Note the following in δίδωμι:
 - I. The present system has a reduplication, δ_{ι} -.
 - 2. ἐδίδουν like ἐφίλουν, § 59.
 - 3. κa^{1} occurs for σa in the aor. ind. act.

- 4. For the contraction in the 2 aor. subjv., $\delta \delta \omega$, $\delta \delta \gamma s$, etc., see §§ 5, 12, and 8, 5.
 - 5. δοῦναι, 2 aor. act. inf., is for δο-εναι.
- 236. Learn the principal parts of $\dot{a}\phi i\eta\mu\iota$ ($\dot{a}\pi\dot{o} + i\eta\mu\iota$, stem $\dot{\epsilon}$), forgive, § 88, and the conjugation, § 66.
- 237. The pluperf. act., which is a rare tense, has the suffix $\kappa\epsilon\iota$; and being a secondary tense, secondary endings occur. See § 77, latter part.
- 238. Translate the forms of $\partial \phi \ln \mu \iota$ and $\partial \iota \delta \omega \mu \iota$ in §§ 96 and 101.

LESSON XXXII.

Regular Verbs in $\mu\iota$: $\emph{i}\sigma\tau\eta\mu\iota$, $\tau\emph{i}\theta\eta\mu\iota$.

239. Examine the following:

 $\begin{array}{lll} {\it d}\phi {\it i}\eta\mu & ({\rm stem}\ {\it \'e}),\ {\it d}\phi - {\it i}-\eta - \mu \\ {\it \'e}\sigma\tau\eta\mu & ({\rm stem}\ \sigma\tau{\it \'a}),\ {\it \'e}-\sigma\tau\eta - \mu \\ \end{array} \quad \begin{array}{lll} {\it \delta}{\it i}\delta\omega\mu \mu & ({\rm stem}\ \delta\sigma),\ \delta{\it i}-\delta\omega - \mu \\ {\it \tau}{\it i}\theta\eta\mu \mu & ({\rm stem}\ \theta\epsilon),\ \tau{\it i}-\theta\eta - \mu \\ \end{array}$

Observe that in all these verbs there is a reduplication, in which the vowel is ι . $log \tau \eta \mu \iota$ is for $\sigma l - \sigma \tau \eta \mu \iota$.

240. So likewise in some verbs in ω — γι - (γ)νώ - σκω γί(γ)νο - μαι (γνο) (γεν)

This form of reduplication has to do with the present system only.

- 241. Learn the principal parts and pres. and 2 aor. systems of $l\sigma \tau \eta \mu \iota$ and $\tau l\theta \eta \mu \iota$, §§ 62 and 63.
- 242. The most common compounds of $i\sigma \tau \eta \mu \iota$ are with $\dot{\alpha}\nu\dot{\alpha}$, $\kappa\alpha\tau\dot{\alpha}$, $\dot{\epsilon}\pi\dot{\iota}$, $\dot{\epsilon}\xi$, $\sigma\dot{\nu}\nu$, $\dot{\alpha}\pi\dot{\iota}$, $\dot{\alpha}\nu\dot{\iota}$.

 $\tau i\theta \eta \mu \iota$ is most common with $\epsilon \pi \iota$, $\pi a \rho \acute{a}$, and $\pi \rho \acute{o}$ s.

243. Translate the forms in §§ 105 and 108.

244. IMPERSONAL VERBS.

δεῖ, it is necessary ἔξεστι, it is lawful. δοκεῖ, it seems (best). μελει, it concerns. μεταμέλει, it repents one.

τί με δεί ποιείν; what must I do? δεί ύμας γεννηθήναι ἄνωθεν, ye must be born from above.

Observe that $\delta \epsilon \hat{\imath}$ takes the accusative and the infinitive.

NOTES.

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF JOHN.

CHAPTER I.

- 1. O HN AΠ' APXHΣ = \mathring{o} $\mathring{\eta}v$ $\mathring{a}\pi'$ $\mathring{a}\rho\chi\mathring{\eta}s$. The breathing and accent are not written on capitals. \mathring{o} , the antecedent of the rel. pron. is often omitted. $\mathring{a}\kappa\eta\kappa\acute{o}a\mu\epsilon v$, 2 perf. act. ind. of $\mathring{a}\kappao\acute{u}\omega$, prin. parts § 88. A few verbs beginning with \mathfrak{a} , \mathfrak{e} , or \mathfrak{o} have what is called Attic reduplication; i.e. a reduplication which is the first two letters prefixed to the theme. $\mathring{a}\kappa\eta\kappaoa = \mathring{a}\kappa-\mathring{\eta}\kappaov$ - \mathfrak{a} , \mathfrak{v} is dropped between two vowels. $\mathring{\epsilon}\omega\rho\acute{a}\kappa\alpha\mu\epsilon\nu$, learn prin. parts of $\mathring{\epsilon}\rho\acute{a}\omega$, § 88. This verb most commonly has both the temporal and syllabic augment. $\mathring{\epsilon}\phi\theta a\lambda\muo\hat{\iota}s$, § 157. $\mathring{\eta}\mu\hat{\omega}\nu$, lit. of $\iota\iota s$. The pers. pron. is often used for the poss. pron. $\mathring{\epsilon}\psi\eta\lambda\acute{a}\phi\eta\sigma a\nu$, $\psi\eta\lambda\dot{a}-\mathring{\phi}\acute{a}\omega$. $\imath\eta$ s the art. may be used with abstract nouns in Greek, and ofttimes with concrete nouns, where it cannot be translated.
- 2. Observe the change in tenses, aor., perf., pres. For $\tau \dot{\eta} \nu$ repeated after $\zeta \omega \dot{\eta} \nu$, see 64. $\pi \rho \dot{o}s$, § 159.

 $\xi \chi \eta \tau \epsilon$, § 119. $\mu \epsilon \theta$, § 12.

4. $\hat{\eta}$ πεπληρωμένη, perf. pass. subjv. See λύω, § 56. The perfects made thus from είμί, am, and the perf. part. are called periphrastic forms.

- ἔστιν, note the accent. Always emphatic when on the penult. οὐδεμία, for the double negative, see § 142.
 - 6. ἐὰν, § 124. εἴπωμεν, learn prin. parts of φημί, § 88.
- 8. ἐαυτοὺς, for the 3 pers. used for the 1 pers. cf. 213, latter part.
- 9. $d\phi \hat{\eta}$, 2 aor. act. subjv. of $d\phi l\eta \mu$, § 66. For the sense of the aor. here and in $\kappa a\theta a\rho l\sigma \eta$, see § 114.
 - 10. For the two acc. cf. § 161.

CHAPTER 2.

- τεκνία is voc. μὴ ἁμάρτητε, for neg. see § 119. The verb is 2 aor. act. subjv. of ἀμαρτάνω, learn prin. parts § 88. See § 83, I for class of verbs.
 - 2. οὐ μόνον . . . ἀλλὰ καὶ, not only . . . but also.
 - 3. ἐγνώκαμεν, prin. parts of γινώσκω.
- 4. $\mu \hat{\eta} \tau \eta \rho \hat{\omega} \nu$ is equal to a condition, if one does not keep, hence the neg. $\mu \hat{\eta}$, § 137.
- 5. $\delta \delta d v \tau \eta \rho \hat{\eta}$, $\S 126$. $d \lambda \eta \theta \hat{\omega} s$, for the formation of adverbs, cf. 227.
- 6. μένειν, the inf. depends upon λέγων. See § 131 for the inf. in indirect discourse. αὐτὸς, intensive. περιπατεῦν, after δφείλει.
 - 7. $\epsilon i \chi \epsilon \tau \epsilon$, what tense? 37, 9, note.
 - 9. Elvai, cf. note on v. 6.
- 12. ἀφέωνται, see under ἀφίημι, § 66. The perf. denotes the completion of the act, and equals here "stand forgiven."
- 13. τον = αὐτον. τον πονηρόν, note the gender. The art. and an adj. are thus often used substantively.
- 15. $\mu \dot{\eta}$, § 138. $\tau \dot{\alpha}$, i.e. the goods or affairs of the world. The general use of the neut. is to be noted.
 - 16. $\pi \hat{a} \nu \tau \hat{o}$, explained by the following clauses.
- 18. καὶ νῦν, even now. γεγόνασι, 2 perf. act. of γίνομαι. Theme γεν changes to γον. Cf. 2 perf. of λείπω, § 57.

- 10. $\frac{\partial \mathcal{E}}{\partial \lambda} \theta_{\alpha \nu} = \frac{\partial \mathcal{E}}{\partial \lambda} \theta_{\alpha \nu}$ prin. parts of \mathcal{E} ρχομαι. The I aor. vowel a often appears in the place of the 2 aor. variable vowel $% . \epsilon i \gamma \dot{\alpha} \rho \mu \epsilon \theta' \dot{\eta} \mu \hat{\omega} \nu$, for the condition, see § 122 and § 123, latter part. φανερωθώσιν, 175 and 176.
 - 22. & un, unless, except, as one word.
 - 23. Kai. also.
- 24. ὑμεῖς ος κ.τ.λ. = τοῦτο ἐν ὑμῖν μενέτω ος ἡκούσατε. This is a common construction in John. Not only does the relative clause come before the principal clause, but to make the expression more emphatic a personal pronoun (not used except for emphasis) is thrust before the relative, whose antecedent is dropped. μείνη ... μενείτε, for the fut. and aor. of liquid verbs, see 203-208.
 - 25. έπηγγείλατο, έπ-αγγέλλομαι.
 - 26. των πλανώντων, 192, 193.
- 27. τὸ χρίσμα, subj. of μένει. Cf. note on v. 24. above. έλάβετε, prin. parts of λαμβάνω. πάντων is neut. αὐτώ, masc.
- 28. σ_{χ} ωμεν, 2 aor. act. subjv. of ξ_{χ} ω, ξ 88. $\mu \eta$, why not ου? ἀπ' αὐτοῦ, i.e. shrink in shame from him.
 - 29. είδητε, learn the subjv. of οίδα, § 68.

CHAPTER 3.

- 1. ἴδετε, cf. 2 aor. of ὁράω. δέδωκεν, how different from the aor.? κληθωμεν, prin. parts of καλέω. ἔγνω, prin. parts of γινώσκω. The long vowel ω appears in the 2 aor. ind. where in other verbs we find %.
- 2. ἐσόμεθα, fut. of εἰμί, § 65. αὐτφ, § 153. δψόμεθα, see όράω.
 - 5. ἄρη, αἴρω. For the class of verbs, see § 82, 4.
 - 7. μηδείς, why not οὐδείς? § 138.
 - 8. εἰς τοῦτο, for this (purpose).

12. Καὶν, Hebrew names of places and names of persons, unless given a Greek ending, are indeclinable. τοῦ πονηροῦ, masc. ἔσφαξεν, σφάττω (σφαγ-), § 82, 2. χάριν, an improper prep. for sake of.

14. μεταβεβήκαμεν, μεταβαίνω, prin. parts of βαίνω. μετά has the sense of over, a change from one place to another. Note the strong antithesis between the gen.

with ek and the acc. with els.

15. μένουσαν goes with $\zeta \omega \dot{\eta} \nu$. Review pres. act. part. of λύω, § 43.

16. $\tilde{\epsilon}\theta\eta\kappa\epsilon$, § 63 and 235, 3, note. Learn prin. parts of τίθημι. $\theta\epsilon\hat{i}\nu\alpha i = \theta\epsilon - \epsilon\nu\alpha i$, 2 aor. act. inf. The 2 aor. always has the simple theme of the verb.

17. $\delta s \delta \tilde{a} \nu \tilde{\epsilon} \chi \eta \dots \theta \epsilon \omega \rho \hat{\eta} \dots \kappa \lambda \epsilon i \sigma \eta$, § 126.

18. ἀγαπωμεν, for the mood, see § 113.

19. $\gamma \nu \omega \sigma \dot{\phi} \mu \epsilon \theta a$, $\gamma \iota \nu \dot{\omega} \sigma \kappa \omega$. $a \dot{v} \tau o \hat{v}$, for the gen. see § 152. $\dot{\eta} \mu \hat{\omega} \nu$, § 151.

20. μείζων, see μέγας, § 38. τῆς καρδίας, § 150.
 22. ὅ ἄν, cf. ὅς αν, above. ἐνώπιον αὐτοῦ, § 152.

23. ονόματι, § 155. έδωκεν, see note on έθηκε, above.

24. of where we should expect δ . The relative is often attracted to the case of its antecedent, when the latter is in the gen. or dat. case.

CHAPTER 4.

1. έξεληλύθασιν, 2 perf. of έρχομαι. Cf. γεγόνασι,

I Jn. 2:18.

2. ἐληλυθότα, 2 perf. part. Cf. λελυκώς, § 43. For the participle in indirect discourse, where έπ and the indicative are more common, see § 136.

3. τοῦ ἀντιχρίστου, § 147. ἀκηκόατε, cf. note on I Jn.

I : I.

4. δ ἐν ὑμῶν, a substantive expression. Note the wide use of the article in Greek.

ς. αὐτῶν, § 148.

τὸν μονογενῆ, cf. a similar use of the art. and adj. in I Jn. 3: 12. ἀπέσταλκεν, prin. parts of στέλλω. ζήσωμεν, how different in meaning from ζωμεν? Cf. 157.

II. ἀγαπαν, see § 59 for the inf. of contract verbs. Iotasubscript is regularly omitted here in classical Greek.

12. τεθέαται, θεάομαι, § 77, 4.

15. ος ἐὰν, § 126, latter part.

19. ἀγαπῶμεν, not ind.

20. $\epsilon i\pi \eta$, see under $\phi \eta \mu i$, in table of irregular verbs.

21. ἀγαπά, ind. or subjv.? § 59.

CHAPTER 5.

- τὸν γεννήσαντα . . . τὸν γεγεννημένον, 192, 193.
- ὅταν ἀγαπῶμεν, § 127.
- 3. βαρείαι, nom. fem. plur. Adjs. in -vs are rare.
- ή νίκη ἡ νικήσασα = ἡ νικήσασα νίκη, the victory which has conquered. See aor. act. part. of λύω, § 43.
- δ ἐλθῶν, he who has come; lit. the (one) having come. μαρτυροῦν, -υρέον. Cf. λύω, § 43.
 - 8. žv, cls, § 39.
 - 10. αὐτῷ = ἐαντῷ.
- 13. τοῖς π ιστεύουσιν, goes back to $\mathring{\nu}$ μῖν. Observe the tense.
 - 14. $ai\tau \omega \mu \epsilon \theta a$, the mid. how different from the act.?
- ἐὰν οἴδαμεν, a rare construction, § 124. ὁ ἐὰν, cf. ὁς ἐὰν, I Jn. 4: 15.
 - 16. ἴδη, ὁράω.
 - 18. γεννηθείς, cf. aor. pass. part. of λύω, § 43.
 - 20. ἴνα γινώσκομεν, note the mood. § 119.
- 21. φυλάξατε, φυλάττω (φυλακ-), § 82, 1. έαυτὰ, 213, latter part. Why neut. gender?

MAT. 5:3-12.

THE BEATITUDES.

3. μακάριοι is in the pred. position, 64. αὐτῶν, § 147.

4. παρακληθήσονται, παρακαλέω. See the fut pass of λύω, § 56.

9. vioì is pred.

10. δεδιωγμένοι, perf. pass. part. of διώκω. κ, χ change to γ before μ .

11. καθ', against. ψευδόμενοι may be trans. as an adv.

MAT. 6:9-15.

THE LORD'S PRAYER.

πάτερ, note the case. δ = δs εῖ. άγιασθήτω, άγιάζω (άγιαδ-), see 178 and the aor. pass. imp. of λύω, § 56.

10. $\epsilon \lambda \theta \acute{a} \tau \omega$, note the use of the imperative mood in commands. For the α in this form, cf. note on 1 Jn. 2:19 $\gamma \epsilon \nu \eta \theta \acute{\eta} \tau \omega$, $\gamma (\nu \nu \omega \alpha \iota)$. $\epsilon n \iota$, see under prep. § 164.

11. δòs, see 2 aor. act. system of δίδωμι, § 63.

12. ἄφες, see 2 aor. system of άφίημι, § 66. τοῖς ὀφει-λέταις, indir. obj.; sc. τὰ ὀφειλήματα.

13. μη εἰσενέγκης, prin. parts of φέρω. For the construction, see § 117. ρ̂ισαι (ρίνομαι), aor. mid. imp. τοῦ πονηροῦ may be either neut. or masc. as in 1 Jn. 2:13.

14. $\dot{a}\phi\hat{\eta}\tau\epsilon$, see under $\dot{a}\phi\dot{\eta}\mu\iota$.

LUKE 15.

THE PRODIGAL SON.

1. ἦσαν δὲ αὐτῷ ἐγγίζοντες = ἥγγίζον δὲ αὐτῷ. This use of the part. with εἰμί is a common form of participial expression in the New Testament writers. Perhaps more emphatic than the simple imperf. of the verb would be $a \vec{v} \hat{v} \hat{\varphi}$, § 154.

2. συνεσθίει, note the force of συν-. What case follows this prep.?

4. ἔκατον, § 39, α. ἀπολέσας, prin. parts of ἀπόλλυμι. ἀπολωλός, pres. pass. sense. $\epsilon \ddot{v} \rho \eta$, prin. parts of $\epsilon \dot{v} \rho \iota \sigma \kappa \omega$, § 128, for mood. $a \dot{v} \tau \acute{o}$, $\dot{i} .e$. πρόβατον.

6. συνχάρητε, 2 aor. pass. imp. of συνχαίρω. Cf. same of φαίνω, § 58.

- 7. ἔσται, § 65. ἐπὶ, because of. μετανοοῦντι, μετανοέω. μετά gives the idea of turning about from one stand to another.
- 8. δραχμή, was a Greek coin worth about 18 cents. οὐχ', 133, I. 3, note. σαροῖ, for the irregular contraction, cf. δηλόω, § 59. ξως ου, sc. χρόνου.

10. τῶν ἀγγέλων, § 152.

- 12. νεώτεροs, see § 37, I and note. $\epsilon \pi \iota \beta \acute{a} \lambda \lambda ο v$, neut. part.; sc. μοι. διείλεν, di-vided; prin. parts of αἰρέω. βίον, here, means of life, portion.
- 13. συναγαγών, συνάγω. The Attic reduplication is regularly found in the 2 aor. of this verb. See note on I Jn. I:I. Prin. parts of ἄγω.

14. δαπανήσαντος αὐτοῦ, gen. abs. 194, 10, note. ἐνένετο, γίνομαι.

- 15. πορευθείς, 179 and 190. ἐκολλήθη, lit. to be glued, fastened; found in the pass. only in the New Testament, and with the reflexive sense join one's self to.
 - 16. ἐπεθύμει, ἐπιθυμέω. ὧν, see note on 1 Jn. 3:24.

ησθιον, observe the nice use of the imperf.

17. ϵ is . . . ϵ λθών, just as in English. ἄρτων, § 149.

λιμώ, § 157. ἀπόλλυμαι, the action is going on.

18. ἀναστὰς, see 2 aor. system of ἴστημι, \S 63. ἐρῶ, a fut. with no pres.; see under φημί. ἤμαρτον, άμαρτάνω.

- 19. ποίησον, aor. act. imp. δραμών, prin. parts of τρέχω. ἐπέπεσεν, ἐπι-πίπτω.
- 22. ἐξενέγκατε, ἐκ-φέρω. ἐνδύσατε, cf. ENDUE. ὑποδήματα, lit. bound (δέω) underneath (ὑπό).

23. φαγόντας, prin. parts of ἐσθίω. εὐφρανθῶμεν, εὐ-φραίνω, for the class of verbs. see § 82, 4.

26. $\sigma \nu \mu \phi \omega \nu i \alpha s$, SYMPHONY. For the case, see § 148. $\tau i \ \hat{a} \nu \ \hat{e} i \eta \ \tau a \hat{v} \tau a$, what this is. $\epsilon i \eta$ is the opt. of $\epsilon i \mu i$. For the forms of the opt. in the New Testament (and the uses of this mood), see §§ 70, 71. The optative is used instead of the indicative in indirect question when certainty does not exist in the speaker's mind.

27. $\mathring{a}\pi \acute{\epsilon}\lambda \alpha \beta \acute{\epsilon}\nu$, note the force of $\mathring{a}\pi \acute{o}$, back.

- 28. $\eta \theta \epsilon \lambda o \nu$, so always in the New Testament for $\epsilon \theta \epsilon \lambda o \nu$.
- 29. ἶδού, ὀράω, 2 aor. mid. imp. ἔτη, ἔτος. παρῆλθον, observe the force of the prep. as in trans-gress.

30. καταφαγών, devoured, squandered.

31. $\sigma \acute{a}$ is pred. $\check{\epsilon} \delta \epsilon \iota$, imperf.; see 244; sc. $\sigma \acute{\epsilon}$ or $\check{\eta} \mu \hat{a} \hat{s}$ as subj. of the infinitives.

1 COR. 13.

LOVE.

Ι. γέγονα, γίνομαι.

2. καν = και ἐαν, § 13. εἰδῶ, see under οίδα, § 68. <math>μεθιστάνειν, § 134.

3. τὰ ὑπάρχοντα = τὰ ὄντα; i.e. all that is, all the things I have. παραδώ, see 2 aor. act. of δίδωμι, § 63.

4. ζηλοί, cf. δηλόω, § 59.

7. $\sigma \tau \acute{\epsilon} \gamma \epsilon \iota$ first means to cover; then to cover and thus keep off what threatens. Hence, hold off against, endure.

8. παύσονται, in the act to stop some one; in the mid to stop one's self. Hence, cease.

- II. $\eta \mu \eta \nu = \eta \nu$, mid. end. - $\mu \eta \nu$; for act. - ν . Note the imperf. tense. See 78.
- 12. ἐπιγνώσομαι, ἐπιγινώσκω; ἐπί adds the idea of well or thoroughly.
- 13. μείζων, greater; therefore, the greatest. For the case of τούτων, see § 150.

καυχήσωμαι, v. 3, is an aor. mid. subjv. A doubtful reading where some editors give a passive form: καυθήσωμαι (-σομαι) from καίω, burn.

LITERAL TRANSLATION.

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF JOHN.

CHAPTER I.

1. That-which was from beginning, that-which we-have-heard, that-which we-have-seen with-the eyes of-us, that-which we-beheld and the hands of-us handled, concerning the word of-the life, —

2. And the life was-manifested, and we-have-seen, and we-bear-witness, and we-proclaim to-you the life the eternal which $(\tilde{\eta}\tau\iota_{\mathbf{S}})$ was with the Father, and was-manifested to-us, -

3. That-which we-have-seen and have-heard, we-proclaim also to-you, that also you fellowship may-have with us: and the fellowship truly the our with the Father and with the Son of-him Jesus Christ:

4. And these-things write we that the joy of-us may-be (having-been-filled) full.

5. And there is this the announcement which we-have-heard from him and re-announce to-you, that the God light is, and darkness not is in him at-all.

6. If we-say that fellowship we-have with him, and in the darkness we-walk, we-lie and not we-do the truth:

7. If however in the light we-walk, as he is in the light, fellowship we-have with one-another, and the blood of-Jesus the Son of him cleanseth us from every sin.

- 8. If we-say that sin not we-have, ourselves we-deceive, and the truth not is in us.
- 9. If we-confess the sins of-us, faithful he-is and righteous that he-may-remit to-us the sins, and may-cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

10. If we-say that not we-have-sinned, a liar we-make him, and the word of-him not is in us.

CHAPTER 2.

I. Little-children of-me, these-things write-I to-you, that not ye-may-sin. And if any-one sin, an Advocate we-have with the Father, Jesus Christ righteous:

2. And he propitiation is for the sins of-us; not for the our and only, but also for whole the world.

3. And in this we-know that we-have-known him, if the commandments of-him we-keep.

- 4. The-one saying that I-have-known him, and the commandments of-him not keeping, a liar is, and in this-one the truth not is:
- 5. Who however $(\mathring{a}\nu)$ keeps of-him the word, truly in this-one the love of-the God has-been-perfected. In this we-know that in-him we-are:
- 6. The-one saying in him to-abide ought just-as thatone walked also himself to-walk.
- 7. Beloved, not commandment new I-write to-you, but commandment old which you-had from beginning: the commandment the old is the word which ye-heard.
- 8. Again, commandment new I-write to-you, whichthing is true in him and in you, because the darkness ispassing-away, and the light the perfect already shines.
- 9. The-one saying in the light to-be, and the brother of-him hating, in the darkness is until now.

- 10. The-one loving the brother of-him in the light abides, and offence in him not is.
- 11. The-one but hating the brother of-him in the darkness is, and in the darkness he-walks, and not he-knows where he-goes, because the darkness blinded the eyes of-him.
- 12. I-write to-you, little-children, because are-remitted to-you the sins on-account-of the name of-him.
- 13. I-write to-you, fathers, because you-have-known the-one from beginning. I-write to-you, young-men, because you-have-conquered the evil-one.
- 14. I-wrote to-you, little-children, because you-have-known the Father. I-wrote to-you, fathers, because you-have-known the-one from beginning. I-wrote to-you, young-men, because strong you-are, and the word of-the God in you abides, and you-have-conquered the evil-one.
- 15. Not love-ye the world, nor the things in the world. If any-one love the world, not is the love of the Father in him.
- 16. Because every-thing the in the world, the lust ofthe flesh, and the lust of-the eyes, and the vain-glory ofthe life, not is out-of the Father but out-of the world is.
- 17. And the world is-passing-away, and the lust of-it: the-one but doing the will of-the God abides into the age.
- 18. Little children, last hour is; and just-as ye-heard that antichrist is-coming, even now antichrists many have-become; whence we-know that last hour is.
- 19. Out-of us they-went-out, but not were-they out-of us; if for out-of us they-were, they-would-have-remained $(\tilde{\alpha}\nu)$ with us: but that they-might-be-made-manifest that not are-they all out-of us.
- 20. And you anointing have from the Holy-One, you-know (you) all.
 - 21. Not I-wrote to-you because not you-know the truth, out because you-know it, and because every lie out-of the

22. Who is the liar, if not the one denying that Jesus not is the Christ? This-one is the antichrist, the one denying the Father and the Son.

23. Every-one the denying the Son, not-even the Father has: the-one confessing the Son also the Father has.

- 24. You that-which you-heard from beginning, in you let-it-abide. If in you abide that-which from beginning you-heard, also you in the Son and in the Father shall-abide.
- 25. And this is the promise which he promised to-us, the life the eternal.
- 26. These-things I-wrote to-you concerning the-ones deceiving you.
- 27. And you the anointing which you-received from him abides in you, and not need have-you that any-one may-teach you; but as the of-him anointing teaches you concerning all-things, and true is, and not is false, and just-as it-taught you, abide-ye in him.

28. And now, little-children, abide in him; that if hebe-manifested, we-may-have boldness, and not may-we-be-ashamed from him in the presence of-him.

29. If you-know that righteous he-is, you-know that every-one the doing the righteousness, out-of him has-been-begotten.

TRANSLATION (Revised Version).

CHAPTER 3.

1. Behold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called children of God: and (such) we are. For this cause the world knoweth us not, because it knew him not.

- 2. Beloved, now are we children of God, and it is not yet made manifest what we shall be. We know that, if he shall be manifested, we shall be like him; for we shall see him even as he is.
- 3. And every one that hath this hope (set) on him purifieth himself, even as he is pure.
- 4. Every one that doeth sin doeth also lawlessness: and sin is lawlessness.
- 5. And ye know that he was manifested to take away sins; and in him is no sin.
- 6. Whosoever abideth in him sinneth not: whosoever sinneth hath not seen him, neither knoweth him.
- 7. (My) little children, let no man lead you astray: he that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous:
- 8. He that doeth sin is of the devil; for the devil sinneth from the beginning. To this end was the Son of God manifested, that he might destroy the works of the devil.
- 9. Whosoever is begotten of God doeth no sin, because his seed abideth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is begotten of God.
- 10. In this the children of God are manifest, and the children of the devil: whosoever doeth not righteousness is not of God, neither he that loveth not his brother.
- II. For this is the message which ye heard from the beginning, that we should love one another:
- 12. Not as Cain was of the evil one, and slew his brother. And wherefore slew he him? Because his works were evil, and his brother's righteous.
 - 13. Marvel not, brethren, if the world hateth you.
- 14. We know that we have passed out of death into life, because we love the brethren. He that loveth not abideth in death.

15. Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer: and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him.

16. Hereby know we love, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.

17. But whose hath the world's goods, and beholdeth his brother in need, and shutteth up his compassion from him, how doth the love of God abide in him?

18. (My) little children, let us not love in word, neither with the tongue; but in deed and truth.

19. Hereby shall we know that we are of the truth, and shall assure our heart before him, whereinsoever our heart condemn us:

20. Because God is greater than our heart, and knoweth all things.

21. Beloved, if our heart condemn us not, we have boldness toward God:

22. And whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do the things that are pleasing in his sight.

23. And this is his commandment, that we should believe in the name of his Son Jesus Christ, and love one another, even as he gave us commandment.

24. And he that keepeth his commandments abideth in him, and he in him. And hereby we know that he abideth in us, by the Spirit which he gave us.

a. γ before κ , γ , or χ is pronounced like ng. E.g. $\vec{a}\gamma\gamma\epsilon\lambda os$ (äng-gĕl-ŏs), angel.

TABLE OF VOWELS.

§ 3. The vowels are α , ϵ , η , o, ω , ι , v. Of these ϵ , o are always short; η , ω always long; α , ι , ν are sometimes long, sometimes short.

Close vowels, t Open short vowels, $\ddot{\alpha} \in \mathbf{0}$ Short vowels, a e i o v Long vowels, a n i w v

CONTRACTION OF VOWELS.

αεηοω|ιυ

1 2 3 4 5 6

a. e. o. av ev ov, proper diphthongs, pronounced as in English aisle height oil our fewd group

1 2 3 4 5 6

a. $\eta \varphi(\eta v \omega v) v_{\nu}$, improper " as English \ddot{a} \ddot{e} \ddot{e} \ddot{o} σ § 4. The vowels before the line are open; they combine with the close vowels after the line, and form diphthongs as follows:

1 au has no equivalent sound in English ask

- § 5. The vowels before the line contract with those after, and the result
 - $\omega \alpha = \omega$ $\omega \eta = \omega$). $\omega = \mu_0$ $\alpha \omega = \omega$ $(\eta o = \omega$ $\eta \omega = \omega$ $\epsilon o, o\epsilon, oo = ov(Exc.)$ $\epsilon \omega = \omega$ $(\omega \epsilon = \omega)$ $o\alpha = \omega$ $\alpha = 0$

a e n

§ 6. These vowels contract, and the first vowel in long form prevails $\alpha \epsilon \stackrel{\text{\tiny I}}{=} \stackrel{\text{\tiny 2}}{\alpha} \quad \alpha \eta = \stackrel{\text{\tiny 3}}{\alpha} \quad \eta \epsilon = \eta \quad \eta \epsilon = \eta \quad \epsilon \eta = \eta \quad \epsilon \alpha = \eta. \quad \text{Exc. } \epsilon \epsilon = \epsilon \iota$

CONTRACTION OF VOWEL WITH DIPHTHONG.

§ 7. When the vowel and the first vowel of the diphthong are alike, the vowel is absorbed:

 $\begin{array}{cccc} \mathbf{r} & \mathbf{r} & \mathbf{s} & \mathbf{3} \\ \alpha \alpha t = \alpha t & \epsilon \epsilon t = \epsilon t & oot = ot \end{array}$

§ 8. When the vowel is unlike the first vowel, the two are contracted according to the laws for contraction of vowels, and the second vowel of the diphthong, if it is i, is retained as subscript; if not i, the second

 $a\epsilon i = \alpha \quad a\eta = \alpha \quad aov = \omega \quad \epsilon ov = ov \quad (o\eta = \omega)$ vowel is dropped:

ACCENT.

§ 9. There are three kinds of accent in Greek.

The acute; as in τ 's, who? The grave; " τ 's, some one. The circumflex: " $a\psi \tau \hat{\omega}$, to him.

There are two fundamental laws of accent: VERBAL, explained in 3, b; and NOMINAL (including nouns, adjectives, and participles), given in 57.

Breathings.

- § 10. Every initial vowel or diphthong has a breathing mark over it:
- (') is called the smooth breathing, and is not pronounced. ἴδιος, αὐτός.
- (') is called the rough breathing, and gives the sound of h. ωρa, hōra; αὐτοῦ, hautou.

Note that the breathing is placed over the second vowel of the diphthong.

Initial ρ always has the rough breathing. $\delta \hat{\eta} \mu a$.

MOVABLE v.

- § 11. Movable ν may occur at the end of the following:
- I. All dative plurals in $-\sigma\iota(\nu)$. $\pi \hat{a}\sigma\iota(\nu)$, $\dot{a}\kappa o\dot{\nu}$ σασι(ν).

- 2. All verbs with the ending $-\sigma\iota$. ἴστησι(ν), $\lambda \acute{v}ov\sigma\iota(\nu)$.
- 3. After $-\epsilon$ of the third person singular of verbs. $\check{\epsilon}\lambda a\beta \epsilon(\nu)$, $\check{\eta}\kappa o \nu \sigma \epsilon(\nu)$.
 - 4. After $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\dot{\iota}$; as $\dot{\epsilon}\sigma\tau\dot{\iota}(\nu)$.

So also σ is movable in $o\tilde{v}\tau\omega_{S}$, thus. Before a vowel, as $o\tilde{v}\tau\omega_{S}$ $\tilde{\eta}v$; but before a consonant, $o\tilde{v}\tau\omega$ $\kappa ai.^{1}$

APOSTROPHE.

§ 12. In the prepositions a short final vowel may be dropped before a word beginning with a vowel. E.g. $\mathring{a}\pi'$ $\mathring{a}\mathring{v}\tau o\hat{v}$, from him; $\mathring{\epsilon}\phi'$ $\mathring{\phi}$, at which; $\mu \epsilon \theta'$ $\mathring{\eta}\mu\hat{\omega}\nu$, with us.

Note that the elision is marked by an apostrophe, and that a smooth mute, as π , τ , changes to the corresponding rough mute, ϕ , θ , before a rough breathing.

 $\dot{a}\lambda\lambda\dot{a}$, but, also suffers elision; as $\dot{a}\lambda\lambda'$ $\dot{\epsilon}\mu o i$.

CRASIS.

§ 13. When two vowels, or a vowel and a diphthong, come together in two words, as $\kappa a \lambda \ \epsilon \gamma \omega$ or $\tau \delta \ \epsilon \nu a \nu \tau lo \nu$, they are usually joined together; as $\kappa \dot{a} \gamma \dot{\omega}$ or $\tau \delta \dot{\nu} a \nu \tau lo \nu$. This is called crasis (mixture), and is indicated by the coronis over the contracted form.

PUNCTUATION.

§ 14. The Greek has four punctuation marks: the comma and the period, as in English; the interrogation mark (;), as the English semicolon; and the point (·) above the line. which equals English colon or semicolon.

2 ACCIDENCE.

§ 15. Accidence treats of NOMINAL inflexion, the declension of nouns, adjectives, and participles, and of the conjugation of verbs.

Inflexion.

- § 16. In Greek ALL nouns, adjectives, and participles have inflexion; i.e. an ending or suffix which is added to the stem or substantial part of the word. There are three sets of endings or suffixes, and according as a neun takes one set or the other it is said to belong to the first, second, or third declension.
- § 17. Nouns of the first declension have the stem ending in $-\bar{a}$. This is therefore called the A-declension.

Nouns of the second declension have the stem in -o. O-declension.

Most nouns of the third declension have stems ending in a consonant, hence the term Consonant Declension is used.

GENDER.

§ 18. All nouns in Greek are either masculine, feminine, or neuter gender.

Nouns denoting male persons are masculine. Nouns denoting female persons are feminine.

- § 19. Outside of these sex rules the gender may be determined very largely by the declension to which the noun belongs:
- 1. Nouns of the A-declension ending in a, η , \bar{a} are feminine. Those ending in -9 are masculine.
- 2. Nouns of the O-declension in -05 are mostly masculine; those in -0v are neuter.
- 3. In the third declension the gender varies according to the ending of the stem. See Lessons XV., XVI., XVIII., and XIX. for the discussion of these forms.

NUMBER.

§ 20. In the Greek of the New Testament there are two numbers, singular and plural, as in English.

CASE.

§ 21. There are five cases in Greek:

I. Nominative, as in English.

2. Genitive, source or whence-case. Eng.

lish possessive or objective with of.

3. Dative, where-case, to or for which anything is or is done. English remote or indirect object.

4. Accusative, WHITHER-CASE. English direct object.

5. Vocative, case of address.

THE VERB.

Voice

§ 47. There are three voices in Greek: the active, middle, and passive. Of these the active and passive are the same as the active and passive in English.

The middle voice represents the subject as acting upon itself or in some way that concerns itself.

The Direct Middle where the subject acts directly upon itself; e.g. λούω, I wash; λούομαι,

I wash myself.

- 2. The Indirect Middle where the subject is represented as acting in some way for itself; e.g. ἀγοράζω, Ι buy, ἀγοράζομαι, Ι buy for myself; νίπτω, Ι wash, νίπτομαι τὰς χεῖρας, Ι wash my own hands.
- § 48. The uses of the middle voice are numerous, and are best learned from the lexicon.

Often the sense of the verb changes in the middle; e.g. πείθω, I persuade; πείθομαι, I persuade myself, I obey.

Mood.

§ 49. There are five moods in Greek: the Indicative, Subjunctive, Optative, Imperative, and Infinitive. The Indicative, Imperative, and Infinitive correspond very closely to the same moods in English. The Subjunctive is most often translated by the English potential. The principal uses of the Subjunctive are explained in 87, 95-97, 158. See also under Syntax.

The Optative mood is rare in the New Testament, and hence is not given with the paradigms. For the forms that occur and the uses of the same, see § 70 and § 71.

Tense.

- § 50. The tenses of the Indicative mood are seven. The present and imperfect denote continued or repeated action; the aorist and future denote an indefinite action; the perfect, pluperfect, and future perfect denote completed action.
- § 51. The tenses of the subjunctive are the present, aorist, and perfect; the latter is very rare in the New Testament.

§ 52. The tenses of the Indicative are distinguished as primary and secondary.

PRIMARY: Present, future, perfect, future perfect. SECONDARY: Imperfect, aorist, pluperfect.

§ 53. The principal parts of a Greek verb are the first person singular of the present, future, (first or second) aorist, (first or second) perfect, indicative active; the perfect middle, and the first or second aorist passive; e.g.

λύω, λύσω, ἔλυσα, λέλυκα, λέλυμαι, ἐλύθην κρίνω, κρινώ, ἔκρινα, κέκρικα, κέκριμαι, ἐκρίθην

- § 54. There is no difference in meaning nor in translation between a first agrist and a second agrist, between a first perfect and a second perfect.
- § 55. The tenses of the verb are divided into nine classes or tense systems, each having a distinct tense stem.
- I. Present including present and imperfect.
- 2. Future " future active and middle.
- 3. First aorist " first aorist active and middle.
- 4. Second agrist " second agrist active and middle.
- 5. First perfect " first perfect and pluperfect active.
- 6. Second perfect " second perfect and pluperfect active.
- 7. Perfect middle " perfect and pluperfect middle and passive and future perfect.
- 8. First passive " first agrist and future passive.
- 9. Second passive" second aorist and future passive.

§ 66. ἀφίημι (stem ε-), remit.

The following forms of this verb occur in the New Testament:

Indicative Active. — (Pres. ἀφεῖς, as though from ἀφέω) άφίησι, ἀφίεμεν, ἀφίομεν, ἀφίετε, ἀφίουσι. Imperf. ἤφιε. Fut. ἀφήσω, ἀφήσεις, etc. Aor. ἀφῆκα, ἀφῆκας, etc.

Indicative Mid. and Pass.—Pres. ἀφίεμαι. Fut. ἀφεθήσομαι. Perf. 3 per. plur. ἀφέωνται. Aor. pass. ἀφέθην. Subjunctive Act.— 2 aor. ἀφῆ, ἀφῶμεν, ἀφῆτε. Pass. Aor. ἀφεθῆ.

Imperative Act. — Pres. ἀφιέτω. 2 aor. ἄφες, ἄφετε. Participle Act. — 2 aor. ἀφείς, ἀφέντες.

INFINITIVE ACT. - Pres. apiévai. 2 aor. act. apeivai.

a. In ² compounds with σύν, the pres. ind. 3 per. plur. has συνιάσι, and συνίουσι. Subjv. συνίωσι and 2 aor. συνώσι, and with ἀνά 2 aor. ἀνώ. Aor. pass. ind. ἀνέθη.

b. Pres. part. συνιείς and συνίων are found. The former is more regular and occurs in συνιέντος, συνιέντες. ἀνέντες 2 aor. act. part. also occurs.

§ 67. είμι (stem ι-), go.

But few forms of this verb occur, and always in compounds.

INDICATIVE. - Pres. - lagi. Imperf. - nei, -negav.

INFINITIVE. - - - - - - lévai.

Participle. — - ιών, - τοῦσα, - ιόν, regular like ων, οὖσα, ὅν (183).

² Such forms only are here given of the compounds of $l\eta\mu$ as might be difficult to recognize. The lexicon ought to be consulted for all verb forms

§ 68. •• 18a (stem 18-), know.

This verb is a second perfect and conjugated regularly oloa, oloas, etc. The 3 per. plur. has $l \sigma a \sigma \iota$ once. $l \sigma \tau \epsilon$ in 2 per. plur. is also found.

IMPERFECT. — $\mathring{\eta}\delta\epsilon\iota\nu$, $\mathring{\eta}\delta\epsilon\iota s$, etc.

FUTURE. - είδήσουσι.

Subjunctive. — είδῶ, είδῶμεν, είδῆτε.

IMPERATIVE. — ζστε, know ye (occurs once).

INFINITIVE. - elbéval.

Participle. — είδώς, είδυῖα, είδός, like λελυκώς (§ 48).

§ 69. $\phi \eta \mu l$ (stem $\phi \ddot{a}$ -), say.

This verb is found in pres. ind. $\phi \eta \mu l$ and 3 per. sing. and plur. $\phi \eta \sigma l$ and $\phi a \sigma l$. Imperf. $\xi \phi \eta$, he said.

- § 70. The following forms of the optative mood occur in the New Testament:
- I. Present Tense.

έχοι, θέλοι, έχοιεν, είη, δυναίμην, δύναιντο, πάσχοιτε.

2. First Aorist.

πλεονάσαι, περισσεύσαι, κατευθύναι, ποιήσαιεν, ψηλαφήσειαν, εὖξαίμην.

3. Second Aorist.

φάγοι, τύχοι, δώη, ευροιεν, δναίμην, γένοιτο, λάβοι.

4. First Aorist Passive.

πληθυνθείη, λογισθείη.

¹ In fact a 2 pluperf., but the perf. and pluperf. have in this verb the sense of the pres. and imperf.

It may be noted (a) ἔχοι, θέλοι, δυναίμην, δύναιντο, πλεονάσαι, περισσεύσαι, κατευθύναι, εὐξαίμην, φάγοι, τύχοι, πάσχοιτε, ὀναίμην, γένοιτο, form the Optative by the addition of ι, which, with preceding vowel, forms a diphthong; this diphthong is always long. (b) εἴη, πληθυνθείη, λογισθείη form the Optative by adding ιη; in the case of δώη the iota is subscript. (c) ἔχοιεν, εὖροιεν, ποιήσαιεν are also made by adding ιη, the η in the third person plural changing to ε. (d) ψηλαφήσειαν differs from ποιήσαιεν in that ε and a have changed place.

- § 71. The following examples will illustrate the uses of the optative:
- 1. The Optative of Wishing.

Rom. 15:5. δ δ è θ eòs . . . δ ψ η ψ μ $\hat{\nu}$ ν , now may God grant unto you!

2. The Potential Optative.

Acts 26: 29. $\epsilon \hat{v} \xi \hat{a} \hat{\mu} \eta \hat{v} \hat{a} \hat{v} \tau \hat{\varphi} \theta \epsilon \hat{\varphi}$, I could wish to God.

3. Indirect Question.

Luke 1:29. διελογίζετο ποταπός εἴη ὁ ἀσπασμὸς οὖτος, she was discussing what manner of salutation this might be.

4. The Conditional Optative.

I Cor. 14:10. εἰ τύχοι, if it should chance.

§ 75. The endings of the infinitive are:

§ 76. The tenses of the indicative are formed by adding to the verb theme, with certain modifications, the following suffixes.

Middle and Passive have the same suffixes except in perf. and pluperf., where there is none. The agrist passive has $-\theta \epsilon$ - for I agrist and $-\epsilon$ - for 2 agrist.

AUGMENT.

- § 77. I. When the verb begins with a consonant the vowel ϵ is prefixed to the theme in the imperfect and aorist; e.g. $\check{\epsilon}$ - λv -o-v, $\check{\epsilon}$ - λv - σa . This is called syllabic augment. In the perfect the initial consonant is placed before the augment; e.g. $\lambda \acute{\epsilon}$ - λv - κa . This is called reduplication. In the pluperfect the reduplicated form may be augmented; e.g. $\check{\epsilon}$ - $\lambda \epsilon$ - $\lambda \acute{\nu}$ - $\kappa \epsilon \iota$ - ν .
- 2. When a verb begins with a vowel this vowel is lengthened in all past tenses: $a = \eta$, ε=η, o=ω. Such an augment is called temporal augment; e.g. ἄγω, lead, ἦγον; ἔρχομαι, come, ἤρχόμην; ἀκούω, hear, ἤκουσα. An initial diphthong may lengthen the first vowel; e.g. αἰτέω, ask for, ἤτησα; εὕχομαι, pray, ηὖχόμην.

3. Verbs beginning with two consonants or a double consonant (ζ, ξ, ψ) have the augment and no reduplication in the perfect and pluperfect. A mute (§ 2) followed by a liquid λ , μ , ν , ρ , is an exception to this; e.g. $\kappa\rho(\nu\omega, judge, has perfect \kappa\epsilon\kappa\rho\nu\kappa a, and \kappa\alpha\lambda\epsilon\omega, call, has perfect \kappa\epsilon\kappa\lambda\eta\kappa a.$

4. Verbs beginning with a rough mute ϕ , χ , θ , have the corresponding smooth mute π , κ , τ , in the reduplication; e.g. $\phi\iota\lambda\acute{\epsilon}\omega$, love, $\pi\epsilon$ - $\phi\dot{\iota}\lambda\eta$ - κa ;

θεάομαι, behold, τε-θέα-μαι.

THE EIGHT CLASSES OF VERBS.

§ 78. It is necessary in the study of the Greek verb to determine the theme or root, for on this, with certain modifications mostly of tense and mood signs, the various tenses are built. This theme may or may not correspond to the theme as seen in the present indicative. More frequently the present stem is a strengthened form of the theme; e.g. $\lambda \acute{\nu}\omega$, loose, has theme and present stem λv - the same, while $\kappa \lambda \acute{\epsilon} \pi \tau \omega$, steal, theme $\kappa \lambda \acute{\epsilon} \pi \tau$ -, has present stem $\kappa \lambda \epsilon \pi \tau$ -. $\lambda a \mu$ - $\beta \acute{a} \nu \omega$, receive, theme $\lambda a \beta$ -, present stem $\lambda a \mu \beta a \nu$ -.

With reference to the relation of the theme to the present stem the verbs in Greek are divided into eight classes:

§ 79. FIRST CLASS.—Verb stem remains unchanged throughout. The present stem is formed by adding simply the variable vowel % to the theme:

	Theme.	Pres. stem.
λέγω, say	λεγ-	$\lambda\epsilon\gamma\%$
νικάω, conquer	νικα-	v ı κ a $\%$

§ 80. Second Class. — Strong vowel forms. Some verbs have a theme ending in a mute, § 2, preceded by a short vowel, principally ι or v. The present theme of these verbs is formed by lengthening this vowel, ι to $\epsilon\iota$, v to ϵv , and the addition of %:

	Theme.	Pres. stem.	Fut.
πείθω, persuade	$\pi\iota\theta$ -	$\pi\epsilon\iota\theta\%$	$\pi\epsilon\iota\sigma\%$
φεύγω, flee	φυγ-	$\phi\epsilon v\gamma\%$	φευξ%

§ 81. Third Class. — Verbs in $-\pi\tau\omega$ or the T-class. Some verbs have the theme in a labial mute π , β , ϕ , that form the present stem by adding $\tau\%$ to the theme:

	Theme.	Pres. stem.	Fut.
κλέπτω, steal	κλεπ-	$\kappa\lambda\epsilon\pi\tau\%$	κλεψ%
κρύπτω, hide	κρυφ-	κρυπτ%	κρυψ%

α. κρύπ-τω is for κρύφ-τω.

§ 82. FOURTH CLASS. — Iota class.

I. Some verbs having a theme ending in a palatal mute κ , γ , χ , add ι % to form the present stem. This ι % with the mute gives $\sigma\sigma$ %, rarely ζ %:

Theme. Pres. stem. Fut. κηρύσσω, preach κηρυκ-κηρυσσ%ε κηρυξ%ε πατάσσω, smite παταγ- πατασσ%ε παταξ%ε

2. When $\iota\%$ is added to a theme in δ - the present stem ends in $\zeta\%$:

	Theme.	Pres. stem.	Fut.
βαπτίζω, baptize σώζω, save	βαπτιδ- σωδ-	βαπτιζ% σωζ%	βαπτισ% $σωσ%$

3. A theme in a liquid, λ , μ , ν , ρ , may add ι % for the present. $\lambda\iota$ % becomes $\lambda\lambda$ %:

	Theme.	Pres. stem.	Fut.
άγγέλλω, announce	αγγελ-	$å\gamma\gamma$ ελλ $%$	$å\gamma\gamma$ ελε $%$
βάλλω, cast	βαλ-	$eta a \lambda \lambda \%$	$\beta a\lambda \epsilon \%$

4. But with ν and ρ the ι usually passes over to the preceding vowel and with a or ϵ forms a diphthong:

	Theme.	Pres. stem.	Fut.
αἴρω, take away	αρ-	ai ho%	$a\rho\epsilon\%$
φαίνω, show	. φαν-	ϕ a $\iota \nu \%$	$\phi a \nu \epsilon \%$

§ 83. FIFTH CLASS. — N-class. The present stem of some verbs is formed by adding v% to the theme:

Theme. Pres. stem. $\pi l \nu \omega$, drink $\pi l \nu \sim \pi \iota \nu \%$

I. The suffix may be $-a\nu\%$.

Theme. Pres. stem. αμαρτάνω, sin αμαρτ- αμαρταν%

2. Under this class (1) come several verbs that insert a nasal μ , ν , γ , before the final mute:

Theme, Pres. stem. $\lambda \alpha \mu \beta \acute{a} \nu \omega, \ \textit{receive} \qquad \lambda \alpha \beta - \qquad \lambda \alpha \mu \beta \textit{a} \nu \%$ $\tau \nu \gamma \chi \acute{a} \nu \omega, \ \textit{happen} \qquad \tau \nu \chi - \qquad \tau \nu \gamma \chi \textit{a} \nu \%$

3. The suffix may be -νυμι, after a vowel -ννυμι.

Τheme. Pres. ind. δείκνυμι, shozu δείκ- δείκνυμι ζώννυμι, gird ζω- ζώννυμι δηνυμι, szwear ομ- (ομο) δηνυμι

§ 84. Sixth Class. — Verbs in $-\sigma\kappa\omega$, the inceptive class. A few verbs form their present stem by adding $\sigma\kappa\%$ or $\iota\sigma\kappa\%$ to the theme:

	Theme.	Pres. stem
γινώσκω, κησω	γνο-	γ ινωσκ $\%$
εύρισκω, find	εύρ-	ϵ \circ ι ι \circ ι ι \circ ι

§ 85. SEVENTH CLASS. — $\mu\iota$ added to simple stem. This class includes most of the verbs of the $\mu\iota$ -Conjugation, which form their present and imperfect tenses without the use of %.

	Theme.	Pres. ind.
готпри, make stand	στă-	ί-στημι
φημί, say	φă-	φημί

§ 86. Eighth Class. — Mixed class. Verbs of this class are among the irregular verbs and form different tenses on entirely distinct stems. See the list of irregular verbs.

	Tr	nemes.
ểσθίω, eat	$\epsilon \sigma \theta \iota$ -	φαγ-δράω, see	δρα-	οπ- ιδ-
τρέχω, run	τρεχ-	δραμ-
φέρω, bear	φερ-	OL- EVEK-

§ 87. The following verbs may be classified according to the principles laid down above.

δοξάζω, ἀκούω, ἀλείφω, τύπτω, λανθάνω, χαίρω, κράζω, στέλλω, νίπτω, ἄρχομαι, ἀγοράζω, ἀνοίγω, τίθημι, διδάσκω, ἐγείρω, ἀγγέλλω, φθάνω, ζάω, ἀποκτείνω, τηρέω, φείδομαι, ἔχω, ἐρωτάω, ῥήγνυμι, μανθάνω, ἀφίημι, ὑποτάσσω, μένω, θέλω, πυνθάνομαι, κατάγνυμι, ἐκτείνω, αὐξάνω, ἀποθνήσκω, αἰτέω, ἐντέλλομαι, δίδωμι, ἐκκόπτω, γράφω.

§ 88. The following table gives the principal parts of the most common irregular verbs in the New Testament. The aim is to give only such forms as occur. A rare compound or a variant reading may in some few cases present a form that is not given.

E.g. 6" \aro =

1 In Westcott and Hort's reading, the 1 aor. a is often found for the 2 aor. %.

 $e\Omega_{\epsilon\tau 0}$: $ei\delta a\nu = ei\delta o\nu$.

§ 89. To locate a verbal form at once is the most difficult thing a beginner has to learn. It is intended, therefore, that in the following pages the student shall have a special opportunity for mastering a large part of this main difficulty. Of the most common irregular verbs there are here gathered into small space the forms that occur, and by a mastery of these pages a great deal will be done towards gaining a rapid and easy understanding of the Greek, read as Greek.

After a thorough acquaintance with the paradigms and the principal parts of the irregular verbs, nothing may prove of greater profit than repeated drill on these forms.

ἤκουον, ἀκούουσι, ἀκήκοα, ἀκούση, ἀκούσω, ἀκούσας, ἀκούων, ἀκουσόμεθα, ἀκούεις, ἀκηκόασι, ἀκουσθῆ, ἀκούστε, ἀκουσθήσεται, ἤκούσαμεν, ἀκούοντας, ἀκουσθεῖσι, ἀκούομεν, ἀκηκόατε, ἀκούσητε, ἄκουε, ἀκούσει, ἀκούσατε, ἤκουσα, ἀκούοντος, ἤκούσθη, ἀκηκοότας, ἀκούσεται, ἀκούει, ἀκουσάτω, ἀκούσωσι, ἀκούσονται, ἀκοῦσαι, ἀκουσώτω, ἀκοῦσως, ἀ σάτωσαν, ἀκούσαντες, ἢκούσατε, ἀκούσετε, ἤκουε, ἀκούσεσθε, ἀκούοντι, ἀκουσάντων, ἀκούοντες, ἀκούσουσι, ἀκούοντα, ἤκουσας, ἀκούσασι, ἀκούσασα, ἤκουσα, ἀκούειν, ἀκουέτω, ἀκουόντων, ἀκηκόαμεν.

3. SYNTAX.

§ 111. It is not the purpose of this introductory work to deal largely with Greek syntax. No study, however, of the New Testament, in the Greek, can be prosecuted without at least a modicum of knowledge of the Greek syntax. It is therefore within the scope of this little work to furnish that modicum.

It is believed that the examples and principles here set forth will prove of great value in assisting the beginner to keep his bearings amidst the various forms of construction which render the Greek so rich a language, and at the same time make it appear so difficult to the learner.

The inductive study of syntax is valued by no one more highly than by the author, and I hope that the following principles may not be looked upon as rules that are to serve as pegs upon which the student is to hang his subjunctives, infinitives, genitives, and datives. The study of the syntax should begin with the examples and not with the principles, with the Greek text and not with a work on Greek syntax.

The New Testament, written as it was by several different persons, cannot but present the peculiarities of style that belong to these authors. This variety of style often passes over into a different syntactical expression. Accordingly, what is a very common form of construction in the writings of Paul may not be found in the Gospels, and Luke may use expressions that do not occur elsewhere.

The aim has been in the following examples to give those that are representative of the language as used by all the writers of the New Testament.

THE MOODS IN INDEPENDENT SENTENCES.

§ 112. The indicative in independent sentences is the natural one and needs nothing said about it here.

Subjunctive.

- § 113. The first person plural of the subjunctive, either present or a rist, may be used to denote a command or exhortation. The negative is $\mu \eta'$ (I Cor. 15:32), $\phi \dot{\alpha} \gamma \omega \mu \epsilon \nu \kappa \alpha \lambda \dot{\alpha} \dot{\alpha} \nu \omega \mu \epsilon \nu$, Let us eat and drink. I John 3:18, $\mu \dot{\gamma} \dot{\alpha} \gamma \alpha \pi \dot{\omega} \mu \epsilon \nu \lambda \dot{\alpha} \gamma \phi$, Let us not love in word.
- § 114. The distinction between the present and agrist is that the present denotes what is continued, extended, or repeated, while the agrist denotes the fact simply without any continued or extended action. This distinction is generally true of the present and agrist in all moods except the indicative. The agrist subjunctive and imperative do not refer to past time, but to the present or future. The agrist infinitive may refer to past time.
- 115. In questions of doubt or uncertainty the subjunctive is used in the first person, rarely in the second or third. Mark 12:14, $\delta\hat{\omega}\mu\epsilon\nu$ $\hat{\eta}$ $\mu\hat{\eta}$ $\delta\hat{\omega}\mu\epsilon\nu$; shall we give or shall we not give?

- § 116. The agrist subjunctive is used with the double negative où $\mu \dot{\eta}$, to express a strong negation. John 6:35, δ έρχόμενος πρὸς έμὲ οὐ μη πεινάση και ο πιστεύων είς έμε ου μη διψήσει, he who comes unto me shall not hunger, and he who believes on me shall not thirst. Note that the future indicative is thus also used.
- § 117. The agrist subjunctive may express a negative command. Matt. 7:6, μὴ δῶτε τὸ ἄγιον τοις κυσίν, μηδε βάλητε τους μαργαρίτας ύμων έμ- $\pi \rho o \sigma \theta \epsilon \nu \tau \hat{\omega} \nu \chi o i \rho \omega \nu$, give not that which is holy to the dogs, nor throw your pearls before swine.

Optative.

§ 118. The optative is used to express a wish that refers to future time. Luke 20:16, μη γένοιτο, may this not happen. See § 71.

IN DEPENDENT SENTENCES.

Subjunctive.

§ 119. Final clauses denoting purpose are introduced by $\tilde{v}a$ or $\tilde{o}\pi\omega_{S}$ and take the subjunctive, more rarely the indicative; negative $\mu \dot{\eta}$. Mark 3: 14, καὶ ἐποίησεν δώδεκα . . . ἵνα ὧσιν μετ' αὐτοῦ καὶ ἵνα ἀποστέλλη αὐτοὺς κηρύσσειν, and he chose twelve in order that they might be with him, and that he might send them to preach. Acts 9:17, ο κύριος ἀπέσταλκέν με . . . ὅπως αναβλέψης καὶ πλησθής πνεύματος άγίου, the Lord has sent me that you might look up and be filled with the holy spirit.

§ 120. Object clauses after verbs of exhorting, commanding, and entreating, take the subjunctive with $\tilde{i}\nu a$, more rarely $\tilde{o}\pi\omega_{\tilde{i}}$; negative $\mu\dot{\eta}$. Matt. 14:36, παρεκάλουν αὐτὸν ἵνα μόνον άψωνται τοῦ κρασπέδου τοῦ ίματίου αὐτοὶ, they entreated him that they might but touch the hem of his garment. Mark 13:18, προσεύχεσθε δέ ίνα μη γένηται χειμώνος, and pray ye that it happen not in the winter.

CONDITIONAL SENTENCES.

§ 121. A condition stated simply without anything being implied as to fulfilment has in Greek, as in English, the simple present, future, or past (aorist) indicative in the condition, with the same tense in the conclusion.

Matt. 4:6, εἰ νίὸς εἶ τοῦ θεοῦ, βάλε σεαυτὸν κάτω, if thou art the Son of God, cast thyself down. Matt. 26:33, εἰ πάντες σκαδαλισθήσονται έν σοί, έγω οὐδέποτε σκανδαλισθήσομαι, if all men shall be offended in thee, I never shall be offended. 2 Cor. 5: 16, εἰ καὶ ἐγνώκαμεν κατὰ σάρκα Χριστόν, ἀλλὰ νῦν οὐκέτι γινώσκομεν, and if we have known Christ according to the flesh, yet now we know him no longer.

§ 122. Conditions Contrary to Fact. — When av is added to the conclusion where ϵi appears in the condition, a non-fulfilment is implied. The same tense of the indicative is used in both parts.

§ 123. The imperfect denotes present time, and the aorist or pluperfect denotes past time.

Imperfect: John 5:46, εἰ γὰρ ἐπιστεύετε Μωυσεῖ, ἐπιστεύετε ἀν ἐμοί, for if you were now believing in Moses, you would now be believing in me. Implying that they are not believing in Moses.

Aorist or pluperfect: I Cor. 2:8, εἰ γὰρ ἔγνωσαν, οὐκ ἂν τὸν κύριον τῆς δόξης ἐσταύρωσαν, for if they had known it they would not have crucified the Lord of Glory. I John 2:19, εἰ γὰρ ἐξ ἡμῶν ἦσαν, μεμενήκεισαν ἂν μεθ' ἡμῶν, for if they had been of us, they would have remained with us.

§ 124. Future Conditions. — Clauses that refer to future time are introduced by $\dot{\epsilon} d\nu$, which is followed by the subjunctive (rarely the indicative). In the conclusion the future indicative occurs or the present with future sense.

Matt. 9:21, έὰν μόνον ἄψωμαι τοῦ ἰματίου αὐτοῦ σωθήσομαι, If I shall but touch his garment, I shall be saved. John 15:10, έὰν τὰς ἐντολάς μου τηρήσητε, μενεῖτε ἐν τῆ ἀγάπη μου, if ye shall keep my commandments, ye shall remain in my love.

§ 125. The negative in the condition is usually $\mu \dot{\eta}$, in the conclusion always $o\dot{v}$.

RELATIVE CLAUSES.

§ 126. Clauses introduced by relative words as \tilde{o}_S , who, and $\tilde{o}\pi o v$, where, follow the same principles as conditional clauses when referring to present, past, or future time. The relative word stands as the conjunction in the room of ϵi . Where an $\epsilon \acute{a}\nu$ -construction is implied, the relative word usually takes the place of the ϵi and the $\check{a}\nu$ remains, as δ_S $\check{a}\nu$. More rarely δ_S $\epsilon \acute{a}\nu$ is found.

Luke 8:18, δς ἃν γὰρ ἔχη, δοθήσεται αὐτῷ, whoever has, to him shall it be given. Mark 14:9, ὅπου ἐὰν κηρυχθῆ τὸ εὐαγγέλιον, . . . δ ἐποίησεν αὕτη λαληθήσεται, wherever the Gospel shall be preached, that which she has done will be told.

TEMPORAL CLAUSES.

- § 127. Temporal Clauses introduced by $\sigma \tau \epsilon$, when, $\tilde{\epsilon}\omega_{S}$, until, are followed by the same construction as relative conjunctions, § 126; $\tilde{\sigma}\tau \epsilon$ åv is always written $\tilde{\sigma}\tau a\nu$. Mark 6:10, $\tilde{\epsilon}\kappa\epsilon\hat{\epsilon}$ $\mu \acute{\epsilon}\nu \epsilon \tau \epsilon \breve{\epsilon}\omega_{S}$ àv $\tilde{\epsilon}\xi\acute{\epsilon}\lambda\theta\eta\tau\epsilon$ $\tilde{\epsilon}\kappa\epsilon\hat{\epsilon}\theta\epsilon\nu$, abide there until you go out thence. Matt. 21:40, $\tilde{\sigma}\tau a\nu$ oùv $\tilde{\epsilon}\lambda\theta\eta$ o $\kappa\dot{\nu}\rho\iota_{S}$ $\tau\hat{\iota}\hat{\nu}$ à $\tilde{\iota}\hat{\nu}$ $\tilde{\iota}$
- § 128. More rarely εως appears without ἄν. Luke 22:34, οὐ φωνήσει σήμερον ἀλέκτωρ εως τρίς με ἀπαρνήση εἰδέναι, the cock shall not crow to-day until you deny three times that you know me.

INFINITIVE.

§ 129. The infinitive is used to complete the meaning of such verbs as θέλειν, wish; δύνασθαι, able; ἐλπίζειν, hope; ζητεῖν, seek. This construction is the same as in English. If this infinitive has a subject different from that of the principal verb, this subject must be in the accusative. Hebr. 6:11, ἐπιθυμοῦμεν δὲ ἔκαστον ὑμῶν τὴν αὐτὴν ἐνδείκνυσθαι σπουδήν, we moreover desire each one of you to exhibit the same earnestness. 2 Cor. 11:16, μή τίς με δόξη ἄφρονα είναι, let no one think me to be foolish (that I am foolish).

- § 130. When the subject of the infinitive is the same as that of the principal verb, this subject is not commonly expressed, and all attributes are in the nominative case. Rom. I:22, $\phi \dot{\alpha} \sigma \kappa o \nu \tau \epsilon s$ elval $\sigma o \dot{\phi} o \dot{\epsilon} \dot{\mu} \omega \rho \dot{\alpha} \nu \theta \eta \sigma a \nu$, they were made foolish by declaring themselves to be wise.
- § 131. Words of saying and in general expressions of thought may be followed by the infinitive with the cases as above. See last example in § 129 and in § 128.
- § 132. The infinitive may be used as a substantive, and in this construction may take the article in any case. This substantive phrase (while keeping its verbal force) is governed as a noun, and often takes a preposition.
- I Cor. 14:39, το λαλεῖν μὴ κωλύετε γλώσσαις, forbid not the speaking with tongues. Acts 14:9, ἔχει πίστιν τοῦ σωθῆναι, he has faith that he will be healed, lit. faith of being healed. John I:48, πρὸ τοῦ σε Φίλιππον φωνῆσαι, before Philip called you.
- § 133. The infinitive is frequent after ἐγένετο, it came to pass, where the infinitive, with or without a subject accusative, is the subject of the ἐγένετο. Luke 6:I, ἐγένετο δὲ ἐν σαββάτφ διαπορεύεσθαι αὐτόν, it came to pass as he journeyed on the Sabbath. Luke 3:2I, ἐγένετο δὲ ἐν τῷ βαπτισθῆναι ἄπαντα τὸν λαὸν . . . ἀνεφχθῆναι τὸν οὐρανὸν καὶ καταβῆναι τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ ἄγιον ἐπ' αὐτόν, and when all the people had been baptized (ἐν τῷ βαπτισθῆναι) it happened that the heavens were opened, and that the Holy Spirit descended upon him.

- § 135. The infinitive is common after πρίν οτ πρὶν ή, before. Matt. 26:34, πρὶν ἀλέκτορα φωνῆσαι, before the cock crows. Acts 7:2, πρὶν ἡ κατοικῆσαι αὐτὸν ἐν Χαρράν, before he dwelt in Charran.

PARTICIPLE.

§ 136. Verbs of hearing, seeing, knowing, and perceiving, may be followed by the participle. This construction is a form of indirect discourse and is rendered by such a clause in English. Acts 7:12, ἀκούσας δὲ Ἰακὼβ ὅντα σιτία εἰς Αἴγυπτον, and Jacob having heard that there was corn in Egypt. Luke 8:46, ἐγὼ γὰρ ἔγνων δύναμιν ἐξεληλυθυῖαν ἀπ' ἐμοῦ, for I know that power has gone out from me. 1 John 4:2, πᾶν πνεῦμα ὁ ὁμολογεῖ Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν ἐν σαρκὶ ἐληλυθότα, every spirit which confesses that Jesus Christ came in the flesh. For some other examples of the participle see 190–193.

NEGATIVES.

- § 137. $\mu \dot{\eta}$ is the usual negative in the conditional, relative, and temporal clauses, $o\dot{v}$ the negative of the main clause.
- § 138. $\mu\dot{\eta}$ is the negative of the imperative, $\mu\dot{\eta}$ $\theta av\mu\dot{\alpha}\zeta\epsilon\tau\epsilon$, marvel not.
- § 139. $\mu \dot{\eta}$ is used in asking questions where a negative reply is expected. John 21:5, $\pi a\iota \delta i a$, $\mu \dot{\eta}$ $\tau \iota$ $\pi \rho o \sigma \dot{\phi} \dot{\alpha} \gamma \iota o v$ $\dot{\epsilon} \chi \epsilon \tau \epsilon$; little children, have ye aught to eat?
- § 140. où is used in questions where an affirmative answer is expected. Luke 17:17, où χ où $\delta \dot{\kappa} \alpha$ $\dot{\kappa} \alpha \theta \alpha \rho (\sigma \theta \eta \sigma \alpha v)$; were the ten not purified?

- § 141. The double negative or $\mu \dot{\eta}$ is used to express a strong negation. See § 116. Matt. 24: 34, οὐ μη παρέλθη ή γενεὰ αὕτη έως ἂν πάντα ταῦτα γένηται. This generation shall not pass away until all these things come to pass.
- § 142. When a strong emphasis is desired several negatives may occur in a sentence, provided the simple negative as où or $\mu\eta$ be followed by the compounds, as οὐδέ, οὐδέν, or μηδέ, μηδέν. Ι John I:5, σκοτία οὐκ ἔστιν ἐν $a\dot{v}\tau\hat{\omega}$ $o\dot{v}\delta\epsilon\mu\dot{a}$, no darkness is in him at all. Mark I:44, $\delta \rho a \mu \eta \delta \epsilon \nu i \mu \eta \delta \epsilon \nu \epsilon i \pi \eta s$, see to it, speak ne'er a word to any one. But where the negatives are simple, the effect is as in English.
- § 143. In general, où is the negative of statement or fact; while $\mu \dot{\eta}$ is the negative of conception, possibility, or contingency.

USES OF THE CASES IN GREEK.

§ 144. It is supposed that the student is already acquainted with the simpler uses of the cases that have come up in the course of the lessons.

Genitine.

§ 145. Time within which is put in the genitive. Matt. 28:13, νυκτὸς ἐλθόντες ἔκλεψαν αὐτόν, they came in the night and stole him.

- § 146. The agent after a passive verb, usually a voluntary agent, is expressed by $\dot{\nu}\pi\dot{o}$ and the genitive. Mark 1:9, $\dot{\epsilon}\beta a\pi\tau i\sigma\theta \eta$ $\dot{\nu}\pi\dot{o}$ 'Iwávov, he was baptized by John. Matt. 11:7, κάλαμον $\dot{\nu}\pi\dot{o}$ ἀνέμου σαλευόμενον, a reed shaken by the wind.
- § 147. The genitive may be used as a predicate after $\epsilon i \mu i$. I Cor. I: 12, $\epsilon \gamma \hat{\omega}$ $\mu \epsilon \nu$ $\epsilon i \mu \iota$ $\Pi a \hat{\nu} \lambda o \nu \dots \epsilon \gamma \hat{\omega}$ $\delta \hat{\epsilon}$ $X \rho \iota \sigma \tau o \hat{\nu}$, I am of $Paul \dots$ and I am of Christ.
- § 148. Verbs of touching, begging, hearing, tasting, and the like, are usually followed by the genitive. Luke 5:13, $\eta\psi\alpha\tau o$ $\alpha\dot{v}\tau o\dot{v}$ $\lambda\dot{\epsilon}\gamma\omega v$, he touched him, saying. Mark 8:23, $\kappa a\dot{\iota}$ $\dot{\epsilon}\pi\iota\lambda\alpha\beta\dot{o}\mu\epsilon vos$ $\tau\dot{\eta}s$ $\chi\epsilon\iota\rho\dot{o}s$ $\tau o\dot{v}$ $\tau v\phi\lambda o\dot{v}$, and he took hold of his hand. Luke 5:12, $\dot{\epsilon}\delta\epsilon\dot{\eta}\theta\eta$ $\alpha\dot{v}\tau o\dot{v}$ $\lambda\dot{\epsilon}\gamma\omega v$, he begged him, saying. Matt. 17:5, $\dot{\iota}\kappa\dot{o}v\epsilon\tau a\dot{v}\tau\dot{o}v$, hear ye him. John 8:52, $\dot{o}\dot{v}$ $\mu\dot{\eta}$ $\gamma\epsilon\dot{v}\sigma\epsilon\tau a\dot{v}$ $\theta av\dot{v}\tau\dot{o}v$ $\epsilon\dot{\iota}s$ $\tau\dot{o}v$ $\alpha\dot{\iota}\dot{\omega}va$, he shall not taste death forever.
- § 149. Words denoting fulness, deficiency, plenty, and want, take the genitive. John I: I5, πλήρης χάριτος καὶ ἀληθείας, full of grace and truth. Luke I:53, πεινῶντας ἐνέπλησεν ἀγαθῶν, he filled the hungry with good (things). James I:5, εἰ δέ τις ὑμῶν λείπεται σοφίας, and if any of you is lacking in wisdom.

- § 150. The genitive follows the comparative degree of the adjective. Mark 12:31, μείζων τούτων ἄλλη ἐντολὴ οὐκ ἔστιν, no other commandment is greater than these.
- § 151. The genitive follows verbs of accusing, condemning, and the like. Acts 19:40, kai γάρ κινδυνεύομεν έγκαλείσθαι στάσεως, for we are in danger of being called to account for the disturbance. Mark 15: 3, καὶ κατηγόρουν αὐτοῦ οί ἀρχιερείς πολλά, and the high priests accused him of many things.
- § 152. The genitive follows most adverbs, as: χωρίς, μέχρι, ἕως, ὀπίσω, ἔμπροσθεν, ἐγγύς. John I: 15, ὁ ὀπίσω μου ἐρχόμενος ἔμπροσθέν μου γέγονεν ότι πρῶτός μου ην, he who comes after me was before me, because he was prior to me.

Dative.

- § 153. The dative is used after words signifying likeness, agreement, or their opposites. John 8:55, ἔσομαι ὅμοιος ὑμῖν ψεύστης, I shall be like you, a liar.
- § 154. The dative follows verbs of approaching, joining, following. Luke 15:25, καὶ ώς $\epsilon \rho \chi \delta \mu \epsilon \nu \circ \eta \gamma \gamma \iota \sigma \epsilon \nu \tau \hat{\eta}$ oikía, and as he went he drew near to the house. Mark 2: 14, ἀκολούθει μοι, follow me.

- § 155. πιστεύω, believe, and προσκυνέω, worship, are commonly followed by the dative. Matt. 21:32, οὐκ ἐπιστεύσατε αὐτῷ, ye believed him not. John 9:38, καὶ προσεκύνησεν αὐτῷ, and he worshipped him.
- § 156. The dative is used after $\epsilon i\mu i$ and $\gamma i\nu o-\mu ai$ to denote the possessor. Acts 8:21, $\delta i\nu \kappa$ estive soi $\mu \epsilon \rho i s$, no part is to you (you have no part).
- § 157. Cause, means, manner, degree, and instrument are put in the dative; the latter usually with a preposition. Rom. II: 20, $\tau \hat{\eta}$ $\mathring{a}\pi\iota\sigma\tau(\mathring{a} \ \mathring{e}\xi\epsilon\kappa\lambda\acute{a}\sigma\theta\eta\sigma av$, because of their unbelief they were broken off. Rom. 8:24, $\tau \hat{\eta}$ $\gamma \grave{a}\rho \ \mathring{e}\lambda\pi\iota\delta\iota$ $\mathring{e}\sigma\acute{\omega}\theta\eta\mu\epsilon v$, for we are saved by hope. Mark 10:48, $\pi\circ\lambda\lambda\hat{\varphi}$ $\mu\hat{a}\lambda\lambda\circ\nu$ $\mathring{e}\kappa\rho\alpha\zeta\epsilon v$, he cried much more, lit. more by much. Luke 22:49, $\mathring{K}\acute{\nu}\rho\iota\epsilon$, $\epsilon\mathring{\iota}$ $\pi\alpha\tau\acute{a}\xi\circ\mu\epsilon v$ $\mathring{e}v$ $\mu\alpha\chi\alpha\acute{\iota}\rho\eta$; Lord, whether shall we strike with the sword?
- § 158. Time when and place where are in the dative; more commonly with $\epsilon \nu$. Luke 12:20, $\tau a \upsilon \tau \eta \tau \eta \upsilon \nu \iota \tau \tau \nu \upsilon \tau \psi \upsilon \chi \eta \upsilon \sigma \sigma \upsilon a \upsilon \tau \sigma \upsilon \upsilon a \tau \sigma \upsilon \sigma \sigma \upsilon , this night they ask from thee thy soul.$

Accusative.

- § 159. Verbs of motion towards require the accusative case. The motion may be objective or subjective, still the same case occurs, and with a preposition, as $\epsilon i \varsigma$, $\pi a \rho a \acute{\alpha}$, or $\pi \rho \acute{\alpha} \varsigma$. Luke 1:56, υπέστρεψεν είς τον οίκον, he turned into the house. Mark 5:23, πίπτει προς τούς πόδας αὐτοῦ, he falls at his feet. John I: I, ὁ λόγος ην προς του θεόν, the Word was with God.
- § 160. Extent of time and space is put in the accusative. John 7:33, ἔτι χρόνον μικρὸν μεθ' ύμῶν εἰμί, yet a little while I am with you. John 6: 19, εληλακότες οὖν ώς σταδίους εἴκοσι πέντε, when then they had gone about twenty-five furlongs.
- § 161. Two accusatives may follow verbs of saying or asking something of some one; also doing something to some one. Matt. 7:9, δν αἰτήσει ὁ υίὸς αὐτοῦ ἄρτον, whom shall his son ask for bread. Matt. 4:19, ποιήσω ύμας άλεεις ἀνθρώπων, I shall make you fishers of men.
- § 162. The infinitive has the subject in the accusative. See § 131.

§ 163.

PREPOSITIONS.
